Lies told to grand jury

Defense lawyers hit perjury by Magruder

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once again, Watergate defense lawyers are pressing a key prosecution witness on what caused him to drop out of the cover-up and start telling the truth about the break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters.

Defense counsel began cross examination Wednesday of Jeb Stuart Magruder, former deputy director of Richard M. Nixon's re-election committee.

Plato Cacheris, an attorney for former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, opened the cross examination by asking Magruder, the third prosecution witness at the cover-up trial, about his testimony at the break-in trial in January 1973.

"Did you speak words of perjury to the jury?" asked Cacheris.

"Yes, sir," replied Magruder.

"John Mitchell didn't speak those words for you, did he?" asked the defense attorney.

"No, sir," Magruder said.

The other defendants are former White House aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, former assistant Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mardian and Kenneth W. Parkinson, onetime lawyer for the Nixon reelection committee.

Defense attorneys indicated Wednesday that their cross examination of Magruder would take a full day. The next prosecution witness is scheduled to be Robert Reisner, Magruder's assistant at the re-election committee.

Cacheris focused his questioning of Magruder on the former campaign aide's admitted perjury on numerous occasions before he began cooperating with prosecutors in April 1973, and on his use of $6,000 in re-election committee funds.

Cacheris drew from Magruder confirmation that he had told FBI agents April 19, 1973, that prior to the June 17, 1972, break-in "you had not received one dime from the committee to re-elect the president other than salary."

He admitted also telling the agents that after the break-in he had tried for "self preservation" to accumulate as much money as possible from the committee.

Magruder apparently accumulated $6,000 in committee funds for possible use to pay legal fees. But when the committee picked up some of the fees he returned the money.

Cacheris cited several occasions on which Magruder had lied under oath and each time asked him if he had been charged with perjury by the special Watergate prosecutors.

Agents compile sketch of reported kidnapper

Agents from the Ohio Bureau of Criminal Investigation, London, have compiled a sketch of a man wanted in connection with the kidnapping and rape of a young Washington C.H. area woman Tuesday night.

Investigators from the Bureau of Criminal Investigation composed the sketch of the kidnap-rape suspect after interviewing the victim of the incident which began at the Washington Square Shopping Center at the north corporation of Washington C.H. about 8:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The suspect has been identified as being 25-30 years of age, five feet, seven inches in height and weighing approximately 150 pounds. The suspect has brown eyes and brown hair.

Washington C.H. police officers and deputies from the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, which are conducting a joint investigation of the incident, said the 22-year-old woman was reportedly kidnapped at gunpoint as she returned to her car from shopping and was forced by the suspect to drive into the country where the victim was raped by her abductor.

The suspect, clad in a knit ski mask, then forced the woman to return to Washington C.H. where the suspect jumped from the car and fled on foot at the intersection of Temple and Blackstone streets, the woman told investigating officers.

The woman notified Washington C.H. police officers of the incident at 10 p.m. Tuesday. She was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and later released.

Morning traffic snarled

K-Mart store opens here

It wasn't but seconds after the ribbon of $20 bills dropped to the newly waxed floor that the throng of people poured into the new K-Mart store this morning as if inflation was a word without meaning.

In a brief, ribbon-cutting ceremony, Douglas Scott, new manager of the local store on Columbus Avenue, his wife Judy and their two children held the honors of officially opening store number 9,006 of the large S.S. Kresge Co. chain.

WITH THE snip of the "golden" scissors, the $500 in $20 bills was handed over to the Washington C.H. Community Chest campaign to kickoff the grand opening extravaganza.

Several Washington C.H. officials were on hand for the presentation, including City Manager Dan Wolford, along with executives of the Kresge Company and Developers Diversified, Inc., of Cleveland, which constructed the building.

Washington C.H. police officers became involved in the grand opening ceremony as well when they were called to control traffic, which was blocked all the way to the edge of town minutes after the opening.

The approximately 35 local residents, who have been employed at the store, had little time to wait for the barrage of customers they had been trained to attend by supervisory personnel.

The Washington C.H. K-Mart store is one of three sizes of the chain, which is owned and operated by the Michigan-based firm.

The group-nine store is the smallest in size but will carry most of the merchandise the larger stores possess including appliances, clothing for all members of the family, a large automotive center, hardware, sewing goods, jewelry, health and beauty aids and furniture.

Scott brings with him as manager 17 years of retailing experience with the S.S. Kresge Co., and was formerly co-manager of a K-Mart store in Detroit, Mich. He managed three stores before co-managing in Detroit, including a Jupiter store in Ashland and two S.S. Kresge stores in Michigan.

According to Scott, the local store was situated in Washington C.H. because it was the county seat and a "growth city." "We felt there were enough people in this town to have a lot of service and I personally feel that K-Mart will help the community by bringing more customers into town."

SCOTT ADDED that the store "plans to have 100 per cent satisfaction guarantee with customers" by maintaining a policy of cash refunds and rain checks when advertised items

Goblins roam city streets

There was no generation gap as young and old alike participated in the beggar's night celebration in Washington C.H. Wednesday night.

The youngsters were tickled to receive their goodies, the elderly enjoyed giving, and the parents had the fun of watching it all — at least until their legs began to tell them they had pounded the pavement long enough.

The rain which had been forecast for Wednesday never came about and the balmy weather provided a perfect atmosphere for the 1974 return of witches, ghosts and gobblins.

Nixon's vital signs stabilized

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon's doctor says it is too early to make a longrange prediction on the health of the former president.

But Dr. John C. Lungren said Wednesday that Nixon's vital signs have stabilized, although he remains on the critical list.

Nixon lapsed into vascular shock following urgent surgery for phlebitis on Tuesday. Doctors worked for three hours to restore stable blood circulation.

Nixon's former presidential news secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, told newsmen, meanwhile, that the 61-year-old ex-president came very close to death during the postoperative emergency.

"There is no doubt that we almost lost President Nixon yesterday afternoon," said Ziegler.

Ziegler said Nixon's condition grew so serious that "I think it's fortunate that President Nixon was in the intensive care unit."

Nixon's doctors, however, sidestepped questions on whether Nixon's life was in danger during the period of postoperative shock and bleeding behind the membrane that surrounds his abdomen.

By Memorial Hospital Medical Center's definition, critical condition means vital signs are not stable and not within normal limits — "Indicators are unfavorable."

A hospital spokesmen said that by keeping Nixon on the critical list, "it means the doctor still fears that Mr. Nixon may have further trouble."

Lungren, Nixon's doctor for 22 years, said through a hospital spokesman that Nixon's internal bleeding had been arrested and that he was receiving medication for pain and occasional nausea.

"All emergency resuscitation equipment for any contingency" is at his bedside, Lungren added.

A hospital spokesman said a tube had been inserted through Nixon's nose and into his stomach to drain off fluids and prevent swelling of the abdomen because he could not move his bowels, a side-effect of the bleeding.

President Ford is campaigning in nearby Los Angeles today, but a White House spokesman said Ford had no plans to visit Nixon.

The spokesman said Ford was watching Nixon's condition closely, however.

Nixon's wife, Pat, and daughters, Julie Nixon Eisenhower and Tricia Nixon Cox, maintained a vigil. Mrs. Nixon remained by her husband's bed and the daughters were busy answering telephone calls offering best wishes and opening get well cards.

Mrs. Nixon and her daughters have been sleeping at a private residence in Long Beach, 50 miles north of Nixon's seaside estate at San Clemente.

The hospital switchboard has been swamped with calls since Nixon underwent surgery to insert a clothes pin-like clamp over a vein in his groin area. The clamp was implanted to prevent a newly discovered blood clot from moving to his heart and lungs.

Nixon re-entered the hospital Oct. 23 after home drug therapy proved ineffective in treating the phlebitis. He was hospitalized for 12 days ending Oct. 4 for treatment of the problem.

Canfield woman wins

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Ann C. Sisko of Canfield became $300,000 richer this morning, when Ohio Lottery officials pulled her number out of the hopper in the weekly Buckeye 300 drawing.

Second and third prize went to Cincinnati women. Rosemary Haas won $60,000 and and Edith M. Foster $30,000, lottery officials said.

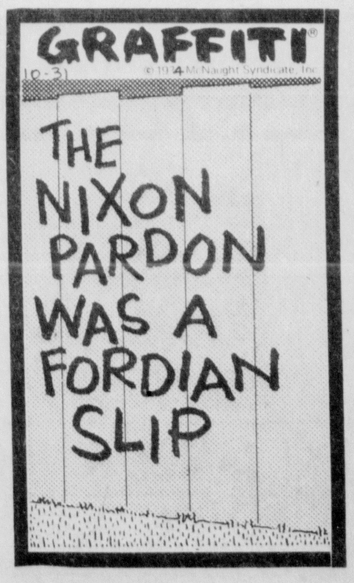

Five persons won $15,000.

They were identified by a lottery commission spokesman as Armit Francis of Troy, Joeann Simmons of Toledo, Basilio Dedino of Wickliffe, John Silon of Seven Hills and Thomas Rado of Bellevue.

Also to be pulled out of the hopper were names of the first contenders for the next millionaire drawing.

Winning digits

CLEVELAND (AP)—The wining three digit number this week in the Ohio Lottery was 090, and the winning double number was 230 854, the Ohio Lottery Commission announced Thursday.

Social Security tax increase drawing near

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of Americans will pay higher Social Security taxes next year, with additional payroll withholding as high as $52.65 for employes earning $14,100 or more.

There will be no change in the present Social Security tax rates of 5.85 per cent each for employe and 7.9 per cent for the self-employed. However, the tax will be levied on the first $14,100 of each wage earner's income, up from the present $134,200.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare estimated Wednesday that about 19 million workers will be affected by the increase, which will mean an employe's maximum Social Security tax for 1975 will be $824.85, up from $772.20 in 1974. The self-employed will be taxed a maximum additional $71.10 each for a total of $1,113.90, up from this year's 1,042.80.

The local store has parking facilities to accommodate 300 cars but by 9:10 a.m. Thursday, the parking lot was near capacity, just minutes after the official opening. Pavement has also been added to Columbus Avenue to widen the roadway for easier entrance.

The store specializes in selling namebrand items at discount prices. According to Harry Bowes, regional advertising director for the S.S. Kresge Co., the store may be able to "undersell any other store in the area" because the items are sold in mass quantities.

The store will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily and 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. Sundays.

Claim treasury cash missing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Republican candidate for state treasurer has charged that $1,800 was stolen from the treasurer's office and not reported to police under Democratic incumbent Gertrude Donahey.

Richard H. Harris contended that $1,000 was taken in September of 1971, $500 in January of this year and $300 last September.

Deputy Treasurer Wayne Maloon acknowledged that $1,500 had turned up missing but said the discrepancies were not reported to police because a bonding company had reimbursed the treasurer's office.

Harris, widely believed to be far behind Mrs. Donahey in the campaign for treasurer, said police had no report of the missing money and that there was no record of it in the treasurer's office.

Harris said his investigation of the allegations had gone beyond the letter.

Maloon said the missing $1,000 was from a change-making bank provided to the Ohio State Fair in 1971 and that the $500 involved a teller's discrepancy.

In both cases, he said, the shortages were not reported because the treasurer's office was reimbursed the Keck Insurance Co. of Akron, Ohio.

He said the procedure for supplying the state fair with change was a carryover from the Republican treasurer and had since been changed.

"We could never determine whether it was short coming in or whether something had happened to it after it had gotten here," he said.

Maloon said the employe who was $500 short resigned shortly after the incident, but he added that he did not believe the teller was guilty of any wrongdoing. Maloon did not know about the alleged $300 shortage.

Harris called the news conference obstensibly to announce the completion of his $1,000 mile tour of the state's perimeter.

The missing money also was raised during a candidates' night on the Ohio educational television network Wednesday night.

Mrs. Donahey gave the same explanation for the $1,000 and $500 and promised to investigate the allegation that $300 more is missing.

Also on the broadcast, originating at station WOSU—TV in Columbus, incumbent Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan said inflation is the reason about one-third of Ohio school districts are seeking additional tax levies this year.

Answering a question phoned in to the program, Gilligan said the income tax had benefitted primary and secondary education by $500 million a year, but soaring inflation hit at the same time the money began rolling in.

Gilligan also used the program to blast his opponent, Republican former Gov. James A. Rhodes, for failing to make his income tax returns public.

"I don't know of anyone seeking high public office who won't do it except Jim Rhodes," Gilligan said.

Kent State jury visits campus

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— The jury in the Kent State University shootings trial has seen where four students were killed and nine others wounded in 1970 preparatory to hearing its first testimony.

The jurors were accompanied on a campus visit Wednesday by seven of the eight former Ohio National Guardsmen indicted in connection with a 13-second burst of gunfire May 4, 1970, that climaxed four days of student protest of U.S. military involvement in Cambodia.

The eighth defendant, William E. Perkins, 28, of Canton, was absent because of illness.

Presentation of evidence in the trial was to start today, with photographers who pictured the events leading to and following the shootings expected to be among the first witnesses.

Escorted by U.S. marshals and campus security officers, the jurors began their one-hour tour at the location of the Army Reserve Officers Training Corps building that was burned by demonstrators on the night of May 2, 1970. That burning resulted in guardsmen being ordered to the campus.

Following the route taken by National Guard units on the day of the shootings, the jurors went to the Commons, where demonstrators gathered; crossed Blanket Hill, from which the gunfire erupted, and visited the parking lot where the four slain students fell.

The tour also took them to the football practice field at the bottom of the hill where guardsmen were stopped by a fence and were met with what defense attorneys have described as obscenities and a hail of rocks from demonstrators.

The campus visit was the jury's only business of the day.

"It certainly brought back a lot of unpleasant memories," said Barry W. Morris, 30, of Kent, one of the defendants.

James D. McGee, 28, of Ravenna, another defendant, said that because of those memories, "I will be glad to leave here."

James E. Pierce, 30, of Amelia Island, Fla., also among those charged with assaulting and intimidating the victims and others by firing weapons in their direction, said he had mixed feelings about the visit.

"It brought back unpleasant memories, but there also were some pleasant memories; I grew up here," he said.

The ex-guardsmen were indicted last March 29 by a federal grand jury that spent nearly three months investigating the shooting incident and events leading to it.

The indictment also charged them with depriving the victims and others of their constitutional right against loss of freedom without due process of law.

Also on trial are Ralph W. Zoller, 27, of Mantua; Leon H. Smith, 27, Beach City; Mathew J. McManus, 28, West Salem, and Lawrence A. Shafer, 28, Ravenna.

Ohio Perspective

Smith having uphill battle

By TOM DIEMER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— George Smith, the Republican candidate for attorney general, is convinced he has raised important issues in his campaign against Democratic incumbent William J. Brown.

With the Nov. 5 election only days away, Smith's copying machine has been working overtime turning out sharply worded criticisms of Atty. Gen. Brown's performance in office.

The Franklin County Prosecutor held a news conference recently summarizing his case against Brown on two charts outlining a variety of charges.

Later the same week he repeated the five accusations almost verbatim before the Republican state convention with emphasis on his theme that "Ohio cannot afford William J. Brown."

Both candidates acknowledge Brown is leading.

Despite the broad range of Smith's attack, Brown's strategists do not believe Smith's campaign has caught fire.

"We are consciously not responding to every attempt of George to grab at straws or grab some media," said Mike D'Angelo, Brown's campaign manager.

However, the attorney general or his spokesmen have reacted to Smith's major charges.

The challenger accuses the present office-holder of extravagance, claiming Brown's budget has shot up from $6.6 million to $18.8 million in my first 90 days in office," Smith has said.

The attorney general also points to increased activity in civil rights, consumer protection and the environment as a result of his priorities and because of new state laws in all these areas.

Brown wrote the Consumer Sales Practices Act.

The attorney general's office does not cost anything," said Jack Madigan, Brown's press secretary, "because we take in more than we spend.

Madigan referred to collection of outstanding state debts and antitrust enforcement.

Smith alleges that Brown and his young staff are responsible for incorrect legal opinions and costly mishandlings of lawsuits — most notably the controversial and incredibly complicated Four Seasons Nursing Homes case.

That subject revives unhappy memories for most Republicans, dating back as it does to the statehouse loan scandal during the final year of the last GOP administration in 1970.

Smith claims Brown bungled the handling of the Four Seasons lawsuit to the tune of $2 million.

Brown said Ohio has collected $2.6 million of a $4 million loan to the nursing homes, but admits an oversight by his office could cost the state $950,000 in loan interest. A decision to this effect by a federal judge in Denver is being appealed before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Smith's charts did not dredge up a nine-month-old General Accounting Office report, but the federal audit of Democratic fund-raising activities has been among the most publicized issues of the campaign.

Lt. Gov. John W. Brown in his keynote address to the Republican state convention accused Democrats of covering up allegations of campaign finance law violations.

The next day in Toledo Smith called on Brown to respond to his offer of the services of the Franklin County grand jury.

Brown replied in a letter to the Columbus prosecutor, "Your offer of time and space...is not relevant to that investigation since most of the allegations in the report related to conduct in Cuyahoga County."

The matter came to a head a few days back in Cleveland during the only public debate of the campaign between the two men. Brown rose in anger after Smith asked why he had not yet taken the matter before a grand jury.

"If there is probable cause to take it to a grand jury, I will," said Brown.

Brown said his office had interviewed 70 state employes during October and had scheduled 200 more, making it doubtful any prosecution would begin before Nov. 5.

The candidates' individual platforms have received little attention.

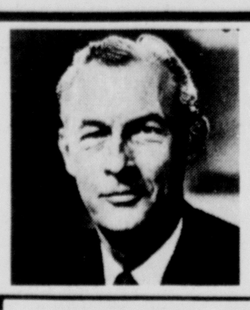

Brown has issued lengthy position papers on his record in office, consumer protection and crime. Smith's "Program for Tomorrow" calls for more direct participation from business, industry and the academic community in solving state problems.

The polls offer no surprises and probably little insight.

The "secret" Republican survey shows Brown in the lead but slipping more than any other Democratic candidate along with a "huge undecided vote."

Congressional broadcasts

One or two valid questions have been raised as to radio and television coverage of all public sessions of Congress. Some argue that this would be a serious distraction, the equipment too intrusive to permit undivided attention to legislative business. It also has been said, with some justification, that some members might be tempted to grandstand.

Both these arguments are rejected in the statement of a private study group headed by a former Federal Communications Commission chairman, Frederick Ford. In the main we agree with the group's conclusion that neither objection is strong enough to outweigh the public benefits of such coverage.

The practical matter of cost is addressed headon in the statement urging Congress to authorize routine broadcasts. It proposes fees low enough to encourage widespread use of the service by broadcasters, with costs in excess paid for by congressional appropriations. This is a sound approach to which Congress ought to give thoughtful consideration.

THESE DAYS . . . . By John Chamberlain

Prospect of super-inflationary Congress

With the Republicans stumbling from Connecticut to California (unless, perchance, some Democratic old-timers are stumbling more spectacularly), Washington is now predicting a slaughter of senior committee member in the House of Representatives. The new Congress, regardless of whether it turns out to be more or less Democratic than it is now, will surely represent a generational change. Even the supposedly indestructible Wilbur Mills may disappear from the scene.

So what are we to expect? Congressmen, even those who were born some time before World War II, have been afraid to take on the heroes or trifle with the prejudices of the big baby-boom generation of the '40s and early '50s.

For example, the American Mining Congress can put it in writing that it will not permit strip mining of coal without restoring the fertility and esthetic beauty of the landscape after the coal has been taken out but, out of exaggerated fears of the under-30 ecologists, Congress still insists on a punitive attitude toward stripping. On other energy matters, the young ecologists keep Congress from enacting trade-off legislation that would lessen our dependence on Arab oil.

The majority of those in the under-30 group, as I know from personal conversation as well as from the pollsters, is not inclined to think that questions of economics should ever have parity consideration with environmental or ethical questions. So what will a younger Congress care about the inflationary consequences of paying for a horrendous oil import bill by exporting our capital to the Arabs?

Reading James A. Wechsler in the New York Post on the subject of the young volunteers who are campaigning for Allard Lowenstein of "Dump Lyndon Johnson" fame in New York's Fifth Congressional District, one gets a premonitory view of the sort of thing that could very well take over on Capitol Hill next January. Lowenstein, says Wechsler for his New York liberal audience, is trying to unseat a man (Rep. John Wydler) who "opposed legislation to increase mortgage funds available to middle-income families. (and) twice rejected bills for higher Social Security benefits.

"At the same time," Wechsler continues, Wydler "voted against rollbacks in oil prices and tax reforms to reduce swollen oil profits." The young behind Lowenstein are clamoring to oust this mossback who has had some consideration for the integrity of the dollar and for the need to use the market mechanism both to cut down on the use of oil from overseas and to stimulate the drilling of new domestic wells. They don't see the danger of charging present Social Security payments to a future that will be so bogged down with the economic consequences of spiralling Welfarism that it will either have to repudiate the national debt or ruin every private life insurance policy by a drastic devaluation of the currency.

The young who are behind Lowenstein look at the plight of modern Britain and yawn. It can't happen here, they say; the cornucopia of government spending can never be emptied.

Lowenstein is an attractive character, with a vastly sympathetic heart. But a Congress dominated by the sort of uncritical goodwill that emanates from his kind will be totally incapable of resisting the urge to spend on a hundred individually desirable things.

Concerned only with the "need" for this and that, such a Congress will certainly ignore the fact that the sum total of 40 years of Western Welfarism has produced an inflationary crisis which will soon make the Welfare dollar worthless to its recipients.

What this country needs is an upsurge in the creation and expansion of industries capable of generating taxes, in sound dollars, to pay for all the things that the under-30 generation takes for granted. We need savings. We need a workable combination of energy sources that will make use of coal, atomic power, solar energy, alcohol from cellulose, even windmill and tidal power, in addition to oil from new offshore wells.

We can have these things without sacrificing the landscape or polluting the air and water if only the political climate favors the assembling of investment money to pay for newer and better techniques as well as for new machinery.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 1

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

A day calling for your best judgment. You could cause unnecessary misunderstandings by involving yourself in the affairs of others. Don't underestimate the competition, either.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Some misleading influences. Take all "inside information" and "sure tips" with the proverbial grain of salt.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

As with Taurus, you, too, must be alert to deceptive elements now. Even your closest friends may be telling you only half the story. Here's where your innate perceptiveness and intuition can be of great help.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Workaday routine may seem more tedious than unusual, but evening activities will more than make up for it. Look for exceptionally stimulating hours with highly congenial companions.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

You may be up against some unusual competition in your field, so keep your eye on the ball. With your fine intelligence, you should find ways to outrun the best.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Talk controversal issues over in a businesslike, objective fashion, not permitting personalities to enter the fray. Pay no attention to those who dissent "on general principle."

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

You won't find any hiding place for your problems, so you might just as well face up to them and work them out. But do so in a relaxed manner and with no anxiety.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Achievement will be largely up to yourself now. You won't have much planetary help, but YOU can light up the fires of enthusiasm and good will.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Emphasize your stability. Many will look to you for support and guidance. Without overtaxing yourself, give help wherever you can.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Mixed planetary influences. Good opportunities for advancement abound in your area but you may have to search them out for yourself. Personal interests highly favored.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

A period of adjustment. Profit by experience and study the methods of successful people. Make moves designed to enhance position, insure gains.

PISCES
(FGeb. 20 to March 20)

Mixed influences. Check impulsive comments, action. You could step into trouble with little effort through wrong or heedless tactics.

YOU BORN TODAY have been endowed with one of the most dynamic personalities in the entire spectrum of the zodiac. So great is your forcefulness, your self-reliance and your self-assurance that they could lead you to extremes and overaggressiveness if you are not careful. Used with a measure of control, however, these traits, excellent in themselves, can lead you to the top of any career you choose. For you laugh at any obstacle in your path and hurdle it with amazing ease. You are a born leader, a strong individualist, a tremendous influence — for good or otherwise. That's up to you! Many great dramatists, artists, writers, sculptors and musicians have been Scorpio-born. Other fields in which you could excel: finance, business management, the law, medicine and politics.

Find loved soybeans do better

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — Loved soybean plants grow bigger and produce more beans than plants fed only water and mineral nutrients, according to results released by the experimenter.

Gus Alexander, an assistant professorof speech communications at Wright State University, said there was a "significant positive difference" in the yield of soybeans telepathically fed love over the yield of the unloved ones.

The experimental loved soybeans yielded 4 per cent more in net weight than the control rows in five out of six paired plots.

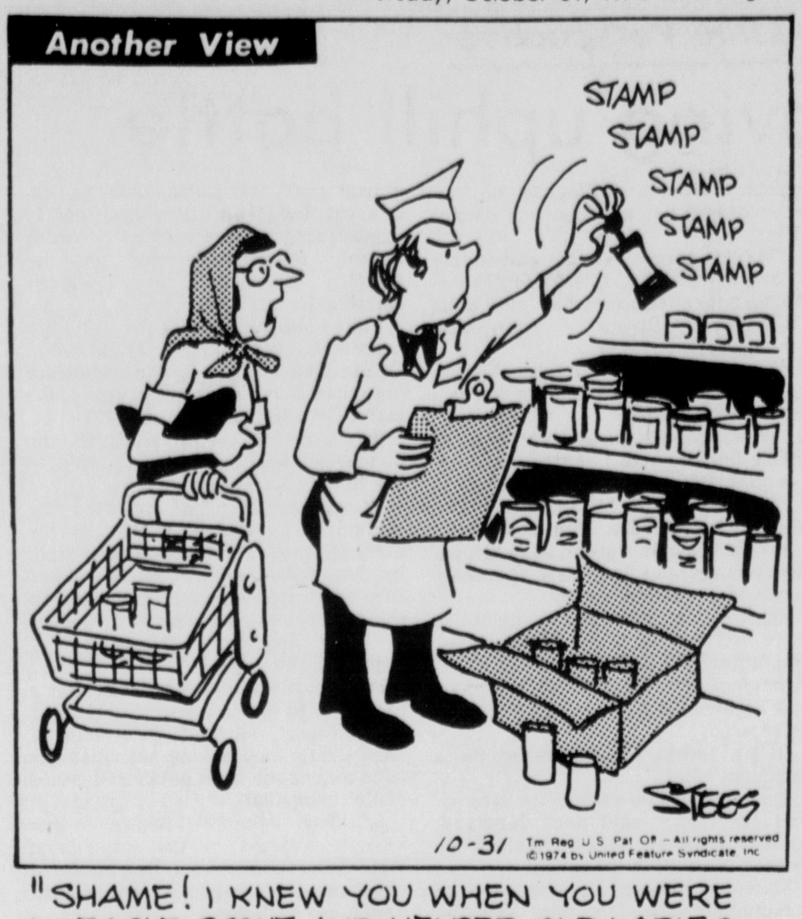

Maynard Bingaman's entire 90-acre field east of here, which was harvested, combined and weighed at the field on Monday, yielded a total of 4,540 pounds.

The field was divided into 12 alternate plots, six control and six experimental, Alexander explained. The loved beans weighed 2,825 pounds and the unloved beans 2,715.

Each night since August, the experimental plots had received messages of love sent by 10 members of the Church of the Golden Key.

Previous results in a smaller plot harvested earlier from the middle of the field were inconclusive. However, results from the entire field were a "success," Alexander said.

Army plans fight against blackbirds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has a new enemy with 14 million airborne troops — a noisy horde of blackbirds roosting in a pine grove.

The birds are flocking to the pine forests of Ft. Campbell, Ky., and the Milan Army Ammunitions Plant in Tennessee as they have in previous autumns, but this year the Army is preparing a fight to the finish.

A Pentagon spokesman said Tuesday the Army plans to spray the birds with a detergent that will remove the natural oil from their feathers. The oil protects the birds from inclement weather, and when the temperature drops below 45 degrees the birds will die from the cold.

The Environmental Defense Fund says there are more humane ways of handling the problem, but does not dispute the need to get rid of the estimated 14 million blackbirds.

Maureen Hinkle, a pesticides expert at the environmental organization, suggested that the Army set up a large funnel near the resting grounds with a light at the end of the funnel. If the light is turned on in the middle of the night, the birds will fly directly into it, killing themselves instantaneously as they strike the lens, she said.

The birds, mostly starlings, became a problem several years ago when pine groves at Ft. Campbell and at the ammunitions plant matured to a point where they provided ideal roosting grounds.

There are few natural predators, and nearby farms provide sufficient grain fields for the birds to raid for food.

In Hopkinsville, Ky., 15 miles north of the Army post, town clerk Terry Rogers said the birds must go.

"We grow quite a bit of grain and they've done hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of damage," he said, explaining that the birds' foraging trips take them over a 100-square-mile area.

The Environmental Defense Fund said it would consider seeking court action to halt the Army if the Army does not first publish an assessment of the environmental impact of its attack.

Schlesinger visit for the birds

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger's trip here was to inspect oil fields and deliver a speech on national defense. It also was for the birds.

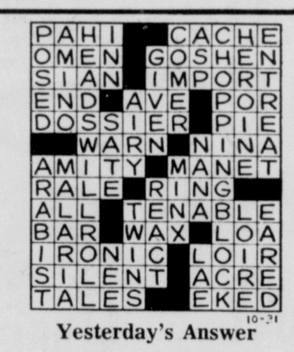

After the oil field tour in 30-below zero temperatures, and before his speech here, Schlesinger and two of his eight children went on a bird-watching trek with a group of university students.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Male nurse wants to be a woman

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old white male nurse. I love sports and excelled in track. I was saved by the grace of Jesus Christ two years ago. I read my Bible daily and sing in the gospel choir.

Even though I am a born-again Christian, I am miserable. All my life I have wanted to be a woman. I would love to be on the U.S. Women's Olympic Track team. I can cook, sew and type. I have never cared anything about mechanics, engineering or any of the so-called masculine careers. I hate hunting and fishing. I never could kill a living thing.

Abby, this secret desire to be a woman is about to destroy me. I am not a homosexual, but I'd give anything to have a sex change operation. Where is this done? Is it against the law? I will go anywhere. I'd rather be dead than continue living like this.

Abby, if the lord really loves me, why did He give me a man's body when I feel and think like a woman? I have been this way all my life. Please help me!

SAVED BUT DIFFERENT

DEAR SAVED: The Lord created all of us, and why he made you 'different' I do not know. Nature sometimes makes biological blunders, as is the case when one's body does not conform with his (or her) natural feelings. You are not alone. Don't feel guilty. One cannot help what he feels.

I believe that knowledge, skill and talent are divinely inspired, and that those scientists, physicians and surgeons whose combined efforts have made sex-change operations possible do so with God's guidance. For information about sex-reassignment and related problems, write to The Erickson Foundation, 167 Moreland Ave., Baton Rouge, La. 79808.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing a paper on modern marriage and would appreciate your help.

From the wife's point of view, what is the most common complaint about her husband?

B.H.

DEAR B.H.: The wife's Number One complaint: "My husband doesn't appreciate me."

The husband's Number One complaint: "She nags me."

DEAR ABBY: My wife is a fraud. About four years ago I made a deal with her. I told her if she would quit smoking I would buy her a pair of diamond earrings she wanted very much.

She agreed to quit, and I bought her the earrings. I should tell you that we had been married for 30 years and I though I could trust her. Well, a year ago I caught her smoking. She said she really hadn't started to smoke again, but she'd take a cigaret "occasionally" to keep her from eating between meals because she was trying to keep her weight down. At that time she gave me her word that she wouldn't smoke again.

I am almost certain that she is smoking behind my back, but I haven't caught her at it yet. If I can prove that she's smoking should I sell the earrings to teach her a lesson?

UNHAPPY HUSBAND

DEAR UNHAPPY: No. But ask her to hand them over, and put them away as an incentive for her to swear off again.

R-H publisher attends Venezuelan press meet

A visit to Venezuela is an exciting experience, but Record-Herald publisher Paul F. Rodenfels wouldn't want to live there; just give him good old Fayette County.

Along with other Ohio newspaper publishers, Rodenfels and his wife, Roberta, recently returned to Washington C.H. from a 10-day trip to the South American country where they attended the Inter-American Press Association meeting in Caracas, the country's capital city.

"A FOUR-HOUR flight from New York to the airport located on the Caribbean Sea and some 40 minutes away from downtown Caracas and you unload in the heat of the evening," Rodenfels said. "A trip by taxi over a mountain into the city is exciting with the busy four-lane highway serving as the only surface entrance into the city from the busy seaport located near the airport."

The country's capital city is located in a valley stretching some 20 miles in length. The city is filled with constant traffic snarls and gives one the impression of being new with the abundance of modern buildings. "Most business was delayed with a two-hour siesta between the hours of noon and 2 p.m. adding more traffic problems as most workers tried to drive home and return to their jobs during those hours," he said.

The newspaper publishers heard reports of freedom of the press and information about a number of foreign countries during the five-day session. A lengthy debate on CIA involvement in Chile, reports on the situation in Peru from newspaper editors, who had just visited there, plus reports from exiled publishers.

An Iranian ambassador to Venezuela led a stimulating session on oil and energy as he defended the action of the OPEC nations and suggested the non-oil producing nations start burning their trees for heat.

That prompted a newsprint manufacturer later to say if that suggestion was followed "we would soon have to find a way to make paper out of oil."

The ambassador claimed the Venezuelans were not responsible for the rampant inflation in the United States by increasing oil prices, but did request that the U.S. reduce its use of oil because Venezuela is concerned with depleting its supplies.

The group of newspaper publishers was entertained at the official residence of Venezuelan President Carlos Andres Perez. The Venezuelan president said "the press in the industrial nations pay little attention to events and issues in Latin America." He also said Venezuela is a country where there are no limitations on the exercise of freedom of the press and freedom of expression.

Following the sessions held in Caracas the group engaged in a sightseeing tour. Angel Falls was a breathtaking sight, falling from a height of 3,280 feet. The group stopped overnight at Canaima, accessible only by airplane, with its vast lagoon beached by rose-colored sand. A trip from the camp by dugout into the jungle and a visit with some of the Indians in their primitive surroundings; Guri Dam, which provides electric power for the entire country and Ciudad Guayana, which is on its way to becoming one of the most productive industrial cities in South America, were other stops.

A flight to the Maracaibo oil fields as guests of the Creole Petroleum Corp. was aborted about half way when trouble developed in one of the plane's engines.

THE RODENFELS also visited the island of Margarita, off the northeastern coast of Venezuela, where they viewed the islanders in their quaint villages and towns. The island is the pearl capital of the world.

On the return flight, the group landed for customs at Dulles International Airport in Washington D.C. before the final flight to Kennedy International Airport.

"It was a great experience meeting them and learning of their problems," Rodenfels said. "We as newspaper publishers must continue to fight to insure that the U.S. press remains free from all government interference."

Jeff firemen receive course certificates

JEFFERSONVILLE — Seventeen members of the Jeffersonville Fire Department received certificates recently for completing 36 hours of instruction in firefighting skills and techniques at the conclusion of the last class period.

Individual cards were presented to each fireman. A department certificate was presented to Jeffersonville Fire Chief Lindy Sharrett by Lt. Cecil D. Seaman, of the Washington C.H. Fire Department.

The certificates and cards as well as the instruction, were authorized and made available by the Trade and Industrial Vocational Education Service of the Ohio Department of Education, in cooperation with the Great Oaks Joint Vocational School District.

Lt. Seaman praised the members of the class for their community spirit in improving their efficiency in fighting fires.

He commended the men for their interest in the training and for the cooperation he received. He pointed out that many community fire departments were requesting training and that interest in fire prevention and protection was growing throughout the state.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—An Aurora, Ill., truck driver continued his trip after being hit in the back Wednesday by a spent bullet that apparently had been fired across the Ohio River from Kentucky.

Curtis Latham, 68, suffered only a blister and a bruise from the .22-caliber bullet, one of several believed fired from Dayton, Ky., about a mile across the river.

Latham said he heard one shot, then a second, which hit him. He heard a third shot minutes later.

AAUW attend fall workshop

The fall workshop for the Ohio State Division of American Association of University Women was held Saturday in Columbus at Imperial House North.

The theme of the workshop was "International Involvement." Members heard Mrs. Nancy Arneson, a member of the staff of Governor John J. Gilligan read a statement on behalf of Governor Gilligan proclaiming 1975 "International Women's Year in Ohio." Proclamations of this nature have been made in the United Nations by the Secretary General and by the United States Government. All were asked to intensify the effort underway to further advance the status of women nationally and internationally.

Addressing the meeting was Mrs. Beverly Everett, the National Associations 1973-75 Topic chairwoman for Global Interdependence: Budgeting for Earth. She gave a review of the "Quality of Life" seminar for 1974 International Federation of University Women's Conference held in Japan. Mrs. Everett is from Iowa and has been quite active in a great variety of areas.

Members attending from Washington C.H. were Mrs. Edity Parsley, president; Mrs. Mary M. Merritt, second vice president; and Mrs. Stephanie Krupla, media chairwoman. They attended special workshop sessions and besides the featured speaker were able to hear Mrs. Emily L. Leedy, Director of Women's Services, Division of Ohio Bureau of Employment Services speak about new projects being started to aid women gain employment or to assist them in locating a training for jobs available.

Banquet in Persinger Hall for team and cheerleaders

The Pony League football team and cheerleaders, sponsored by Frisch's Big Boy, held the banquet in Persinger Hall, First Presbyterian Church. The speaker's table was decorated with red football helmets filled with red and white flowers. In the center was also placed the football game with the words "Co-champ 1974" inscribed. The other tables had a red and white theme with flowers and football helmets also. Mrs. David Fabb gave the invocation and meals from Frisch's were enjoyed by all.

Coach Ralph Tate spoke to the guests about the importance of leadership, goals, attitude and education in athletics as well as in life.

Winners named at parties

Teenagers of the Church of God, Rose Ave., held a Halloween party. Miss Mamie Crabtree welcomed the guests and the group sponsored the party for the younger children of the church.

All bobbed for apples and played other games.

Prizes were presented to Nancy Litteral, the prettiest; Lewis Lute the ugliest; Dean Wright the funniest; and William Pendergraft, most unusual. The judges were Ronnie Frazier and Mamie Crabtree.

Punch and cookies shaped like witches and pumpkins were served to Mrs. Litteral and daughters Nanay and Noram, Mr. and Mrs. David Lindquest and Charlotte and David, and Scottie, Rhonda, Rusty, Tonda and Billy Smith; Mr. and Mrs. Terry Redden and Children, Paul, William, Travis and Evalyn; Tammy, Lewis and Linda Lute; Dean Wright, Sandy Dixon, Ronnie Frazier, and Mrs. Oliver Crabtree and Mamie.

Alice Lindquest, Linda Litteral, Sandra Redden and Mamie Crabtree were in charge of decorations and music.

Winners for the Halloween party held at First Baptist Church by Welcome Wagon Club members for their 30 children were Kimberly Kemplin as a Pumpkin-most original; Andrea Gruber as Raggedy Ann - prettiest; Kevin Zamjahn as a hobo-ugliest; and Phil Lines as a woman-funniest. All were presented gift certificates by McDonald's.

The judges were Celeste and Regina Chobert and Vicki Lines.

Seventy adults and children of the Austin United Methodist Church met recently at the church for a Halloween party. All came masked, and games made the entertainment. Prizes for the prettiest were won by Belinda Spangler and Charles McQuiniff; most original-Robby Junk and Jeff McQuiniff; ugliest - Connie Bryant and Tom McQuiniff.

The churchwomen will serve lunch on Election Day in the church annex. The annual Christmas Bazaar will be Nov. 14 at 7 p.m., also in the church annex.

Progressive School 'trick or treat'

Thirty students from Fayette Progressive School had fun Tuesday afternoon when they went via bus to the vicinity of the Washington Middle School to East Paint, E. Temple and N. North St., for the annual 'trick or treat' tour. Residents had given treats to the pupils for the last four years, when they attended classes at the former Washington Junior High School building. Most of them were masked for the occasion.

Class plans potluck

Christian Crusaders Class, South Side Church of Christ, will meet in Fellowship Hall, Saturday evening at 6:30 p.m. for a covered dish supper. Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Thomas Willis, Mrs. Stanley Baughn and Mrs. Alice Beedy. This will be the Thanksgiving meeting and Mrs. Grant Whiteside will bring devotions entitled "Thanksgiving Through Praise".

'Gospel in Art' topic of Delta Kappa Gamma meet

Alpha Delta chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma held the October dinner-meeting in the Terrace Lounge Monday evening, when 41 members responded to roll call. Mrs. Walter Seifried gave the invocation.

"The Gospel in Art" was presented by Mrs. Bert Frye, assisted by Sonya Nelson.

Mrs. Frye studied at John Herron Art Institute Indianapolis, Ind., and has traveled extensively presenting programs in civic groups, churches, youth groups, missions, Indian Reservations and in prisons. She draws with multi-colored and fluorescent chalks and employs 'mercury vaporlight' for three dimensional effects. Mrs. Frye accompanies her work with commentary and musical recordings. The theme was the Twenty-Third Psalm. Her artistry and message were appreciated by all.

Following her presentation, group singing was led by Mrs. John Rhoads who also accompanied at the piano.

Mrs. Karl Harper conducted the business meeting, and an invitation to attend a luncheon-meeting on Saturday, Nov. 2, at the Lake White Lodge was extended by the Waverly chapter. Several members plan to attend.

Mrs. Faye J. Mayo gave a very interesting biographical sketch of Miss Gladys Melson, who attended the meeting.

Cards were signed and sent to three members who are ill.

Silver Belles install officers

Eleven members of the Silver Belles Grandmothers Club met in the home of Mrs. Ted Merritt for a noon carry-in luncheon. A Halloween theme prevailed.

The salute to the American and Christian flags was made and new officers were installed by Mrs. Frances Toops and Mrs. Blanche Merritt.

Those installed were: President, Mrs. Phillip Ford; first vice president, Jean Warner; second vice president, Mrs. Minnie Fackler; secretary, Mrs. Esther Edwards; treasurer, Mrs. Roy Smith; and chaplain, Mrs. Merritt.

Mrs. Merritt presented devotions by reading Scripture and an article entitled "October." New year books were given to members and donations were made to the Ruth Lyons Christmas Fund and Children's Hospital, Columbus.

"Remember the Clothes we Wore" was the title of a poem read by Mrs. Edith Scott and "Praying Hands."

Mrs. Scott will be hostess for the Nov. 26 meeting.

The Christmas carry-in lunch will be Dec. 23 in the home of Mrs. Pauline Toops.

Those present were Mrs. Ralph Carpenter, Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. Fackler, Mrs. Verna Grim, Mrs. Merritt, Mrs. William Rockhold, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Roy Smith, Mrs. Frances Toops, Mrs. Pauline Toops and Mrs. Ford.

CF Board plans dinner Nov. 25

The Paint Valley Camp Fire Council met for a board meeting Monday evening in the CF office with Mr. Frank Sanderson in charge.

The annual dinner planned for Nov. 25, at First Presbyterian Church was discussed and reservations must be made with Mrs. Charles Zinn by Nov. 14. Entertainment will be presented by the Miami Trace Folksingers.

50th pre-election supper planned

The annual pre-Election Day supper will be held in the annex of the Bloomingburg Presbyterian Church on Monday from 5 to 8:30 p.m. Tickets are available from any church member or at the door that evening. Tickets are $2.25 for adults, and $1.25 for childen under 12 years of age.

The supper started in 1924 before the church annex was built. Tables at that time were set up in front of the Sunday School classroom and some cooking was done in small classrooms on two-burner hot plates. Water had to be carried inside. Much of the cooking for the meal was also done in homes by church members who lived near by and brought to the church to be served.

Husbands guests

Alpha Theta Chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority, entertained at a potluck supper for their husbands. A square dance was also a feature in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hoppes.

The event was held in the barn which had been decorated in a traditional fall decor with bales of straw, corn and a scarecrow.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zechman, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hoppes, Mrs. and Mrs. John Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Mickey Barker, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Ratliff, Mr. and Mrs. John Bernard, Mr. and Mrs. David Pellior, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Vrettos, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rankin, Miss Karen Shook, Ronnie Burke, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hoppes.

4-H club advisors fete set tonight

The Fayette County 4-H Junior Leadership Club will pay tribute to the adult advisors of the local 4-H chapters during a banquet at the Mahan Building Thursday night.

In all, some 160 adults have contributed their time and energy during the past year to insure the continuing success of the 4-H program in Fayette County. The banquet, which will begin at 6 p.m., is the means by which the youngsters who participate in the program can express their gratitude.

Bill Schaefer, one of the junior leaders, will speak for the 4-H participants in giving tribute to the adults. Bret Taylor, president of the junior leaders, will be the master of ceremonies.

Vernon Stanforth, who spent the summer in Norway under the American Field Service program, will discuss his experiences following the dinner.

Co-sponsors of the banquet are the Producers Livestock Association, the Federal Land Bank Association, the Fayette County Fair Board, and the Production Credit Association.

Variety of cases aired in Municipal Court here

Robert L. Lowe, 27, Ohio 41-S, was fined a total of $150 Wednesday in Municipal Court by Judge Omar Schwart after he pleaded guilty to two traffic charges.

Lowe was fined $50 on a reckless operation charge and $100 on a charge of driving without an operator's license. A three-month jail sentence was suspended on the condition he does not drive without a license.

A case charging Audry Hoagland, Bloomingburg, had obtained control over certain property without the owner's consent was dismissed for insufficient evidence by Judge Schwart. Ms. Hoagland had pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Robert Barnhart, 238½ E. Main St., was fined $50 after he pleaded guilty to blocking a railroad crossing.

In other traffic cases heard Wednesday, Denise E. Matthews, 20, of 1539 Chillicothe Road, was fined $25 for failure to yield to oncoming traffic.

Ford opens western trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, who already has traveled nearly 17,000 miles and campaigned in 16 states, is embarking on a final six-state Western effort to help elect embattled Republican candidates.

Ford was flying today to Los Angeles via Sioux City, Iowa, where he scheduled an airport rally in behalf of Rep. Wiley Mayne. The President was to attend both a fund-raising reception and dinner in Los Angeles.

The three-day swing will continue Friday with another airport rally at Fresno, Calif., aimed at boosting the chances of Rep. Robert B. Mathias.

The President, who rarely alters his campaign arguments that Democrats are inflation-promoting big spenders who would fashion a "legislative dictatorship," was going from Fresno to Portland, Ore., for five appearances later in the day.

His first Portland stop will be a regional White House Conference on Domestic and Economic Affairs to be attended by more than 600 representatives of business, labor, consumers, and environmentalists.

Arrest pair in Chicago burglary

CHICAGO (AP) — Authorities on Grand Cayman Island in the British West Indies have arrested two men charged in connection with a $4.3 million theft at the Armored Express Corp. here, the FBI says.

An FBI spokesman here Charles Marzano and Michael DiFonzo were being held on Grand Cayman pending deportation.

There was no indication whether any of the money had been recovered in the largest cash haul of any U.S. robbery.

In a complaint filed with the U.S. magistrate's office here on Wednesday, Marzano, DiFonzo and Marzano's cousin, William Anthony Marzano, were charged with bank burglary, bank larceny and illegal use of explosives.

The FBI said it did not know where William Marzano is.

Earlier, three other men, including an Armored Express guard, were charged with the same crimes in connection with the Oct. 20 heist in which thieves hauled away 800 pounds of small bills in a van.

A 1973 Lincoln Continental found Tuesday near an Executive Jet Aviation Inc., hangar at the airport in Columbus, Ohio, had been rented in Chicago by those charged, authorities said.

They said DeFonzo and Marzano evidently drove to Columbus the day after the burglary and leased a jet for $3,500. They said Peter Gushi, 47, also charged, and another unidentified man were believed to have flown as far as Miami.

Carl Stokes divorce final

NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — A final divorce decree has been granted former Cleveland Mayor Carl Stokes and his wife Shirley, it was learned Wednesday.

The divorce was granted Tuesday in Essex County Court. The couple has been separated since January, 1973.

Under terms of the settlement, Stokes will have custody of the couple's three children and will pay his wife alimony for two years. Mrs. Stokes also will receive the proceeds from the sale of their Montclair home.

The divorce was granted under New Jersey's no-fault divorce law.

Hit-skip reported

The only auto accident reported today was a hit-skip, investigated by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department.

Mann's auto had been parked at Red's Tavern, U.S. 35-SE in Union Township, between 9:30 p.m. and 11:45 p.m. Wednesday when it was struck. Sheriff's deputies are investigating the mishap.

Most of the popular garden flowers known today sprang from the wild fields of Greece and take their names from legendary heroes and goddesses.

AIRPORT NEWS

By SANDY WOODMANSEE

I'd like to start off by saying thanks to Jack Sanders, President of the Fayette County Pilot's Association and his wife Donna who accompanied the children from the Fayette County Children's Home on a tour of the Air Force Museum at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base. Mrs. Lucas also went along. The children enjoyed the tour very much and were complimented on their good behavior.

Bar examination passed by 1,085

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some 93 per cent of the 1,170 persons who took the bar examination this past summer passed, the Ohio Supreme Court announced today.

The oath of office to the 1,085 successful applicants for admission to the state bar will be administered Nov. 8 by Justice J. J. P. Corrigan.

The highest grade on the exam was 304 of a possible 360 points by Thomas Charles Stevens of Cleveland, a graduate of Duke University School of Law. The next highest grade of 303.5 went to Paul Grant Crist of Cleveland, a graduate of New York University School of Law.

Mayor wants GOP endangered species

WASHINGTON (AP) — The GOP mayor of Youngstown, Ohio, has asked Congress to declare Republicans an endangered species and make it a crime to turn them out of office.

Mayor Jack Hunter made the request of Rep. Charles J. Carney, D-Ohio. He asked Carney to introduce a bill adding GOP politicians to the endangered species list if the November elections prove as disastrous to Republicans as has been predicted.

Surplus property given away

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Close to $2.4 million in surplus federal government property was donated to Ohio institutions in August, the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare announced.

Through a surplus property utilization program, obsolete or unnecessary items are offered for distribution to tax-supported or non-profit health, education and civil defense organizations, HEW said.

Among the items donated in August were 10 computers from Minuteman missiles for use in schools, office furniture and business machines, motor vehicles for auto body repair courses in vocational schools, electronic components and parachutes for exercise programs in high schools.

Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra

Wilmington to host area artist series

For the sixth consecutive year the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra area artist series will be presented in Wilmington.

This season the three-concert series will feature the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, the Symphony Jazz Septet and the Heritage Chamber Quartet.

The series will open on Tuesday, December 3, with a concert by the full 95-member Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra under the baton of resident conductor Erich Kunzel. The orchestra tours regularly throughout the tri-state area of Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky, and brings music to many communities that would not otherwise have opportunity to hear live performances by a major symphony orchestra. The Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra will perform in Hermann Court at Wilmington College at 8 p.m.

On Monday, February 24, the Symphony Jazz Septet will present a concert at Locust Street Junior High School at 8 p.m. A group of seven gifted and versatile musicians, the Septet has evolved over the past few years from a jazz quartet made up of Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra musicians. The group regularly appears on the University of Cincinnati's Artist Series and is featured at the University's annual Jazz Festival.

The area artist series in Wilmington will conclude with a concert by the Heritage Chamber Quartet on Wednesday, April 2, in Boyd Auditorium at Wilmington College at 8 p.m. Ensemble-in-residence at the University of Cincinnati College-Conservatory of Music since 1967, the quartet is one of the leading chamber music ensembles of its kind, specializing in baroque and contemporary music. Because there are few compositions written for this unique combination of instruments - flute, oboe, double bass and harpsichord - the quartet makes its own arrangements of works written for other instruments and has had several works composed especially for their group.

Tickets for the three-concert series are available in Washington C.H. from Mrs. Ben Wood (335-1606) or Neil Arthur (335-8494). Series ticket prices are $15 for patrons, $8.50 for adults and $5 for students.

JUVENILE COURT

Two 14-year-old Washington C.H. boys have been found delinquent in Juvenile Court for having used a motor vehicle without the consent of the owner. Both were placed on probation by Judge Rollo M. Marchant.

Michael W. Wheeler, 15, son of Mrs. Linda Sexton, Deskins Apartments, U.S. 22-E, has been found delinquent for maliciously destroying property owned by Dayton Power and Light Co. He was placed on probation.

Two Washington C.H. girls, ages 16 and 17, were found unruly in Juvenile Court after they admitted violating curfew. In addition, the younger girl was found to be a juvenile traffic offender for failing to dim her headlights and for driving without an operator's license. Both were placed on probation.

JUVENILE TRAFFIC

Charles F. Carey, 16, Clarksburg, was found to be a juvenile traffic offender for driving without an operator's license. The case was transferred to the Ross County Juvenile Court for disposition.

Michael R. Noel, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Noel, 629 Harrison St., was remanded to his parents after he was found to have been riding a motorcycle without required safety equipment.

William C. Vance, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vance, Inskeep Road, was found to be a juvenile traffic offender for failing to yield the right of way. His license was suspended until he shows proof of adequate automobile insurance.

DAMAGE SUIT FILED

Gerald and Glenellyn Dunn, Rt. 5, Washington C.H., have filed suit against Wilbur L. McCoy, New Holland, seeking $32,000 damages. The plaintiffs claim that the defendant was operating an automobile May 23, 1973 on Ohio 207 in Pancoastburg when he lost control of the vehicle driving onto the plaintiffs' property striking Mrs. Dunn. According to the petition, she received permanent and disabling injuries and asks judgment for damage in the amount of $25,000. Her husband claims that he has incurred hospital bills in the amount of $6,000, and other expenses and inconveniences for which he seeks $1,000.

Reye's syndrome eyed by doctors

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Doctors from throughout the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico gathered in Columbus Tuesday and Wednesday for the first major conference on Reye's Syndrome, a mysterious and lethal childhood disease.

The mechanism, cause and treatment of Reye's Syndrome are still unknown, Dr. Charles B. Reiner, a Pathologist at Children's Hospital, said during a news conference held by a panel of the sponsoring physicians.

Reye's Syndrome is an uncontagious, relatively rare disease which attacks children and teenagers who have just suffered certain viral infections, such as chicken pox or influenza, said Dr. Lawrence Corey of the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga.

A small outbreak of the syndrome last year, following a nationwide epidemic of influenza, led to increased public and physicians' awareness of the little known disease, Corey said.

The Center for Disease Control received reports of 428 suspect cases for the winter season, he said. The syndrome is fatal in about 50 per cent of the cases.

The syndrome is thought to be a metabolic disturbance affecting the liver which is triggered somehow by the viral infection, the doctors explained. The result is an abnormally high level of ammonia in the blood which is toxic to the brain and the central nervous system. However, there is no proven explanation of the disease.

A child with Reye's Syndrome is overcome with uncontrollable nausea and vomiting, drowsiness, convulsions, delirium and in the final stage, coma, Corey said.

"Scrupulous supportive care is most important" in the treatment of the syndrome, said Dr. Morey W. Haymond, professor of pediatrics at Washington University in St. Louis.

"As of the moment, there is no universally accepted modality of therapy," Corey said.

The concluding session of the conference was a presentation of the various methods used in different hospitals around the U.S. Three methods of curative therapy now being experimented with are exchange blood transfusions, dialysis and glucose-insulin therapy, the doctor said.

Non-partisan ballot

By GEORGE MALEK

Although the ballot of court judges and state school board members is carefully labeled non-partisan, it seems each year that opposing judges emerge with the backing of opposing parties — the November ballot is no exception.

SUPREME COURT

Chief Justice

The incumbent C. William O'Neill is a former state attorney general. He has served as chief justice for the past four years and was named the Most Outstanding Appellate Court Judge in the United States for 1974 by the Association of Trial Lawyers of America. He has the Republican Party endorsement.

Joseph E. O'Neill is currently a Seventh District Court of Appeals judge, Youngstown. The Democrats choice for chief justice, he endorsed by the Ohio AFL-CIO and Ohio UAW-CAP Council, as are the other judges backed by Democrats.

SUPREME COURT JUSTICE

Thomas M. Herbert is a veteran jurist now completing his 14th year as an elected public official. He currently holds the position of Senior Associate Justice of the court. He is the Republican choice.

Clifford F. Brown is currently the Sixth District Court of Appeals, Toledo. A World War II veteran, Brown has served as a judge for 17 years and has practiced law for 36 years. He has the Democratic Party support.

SUPREME COURT JUSTICE

Frank D. Celebrezze selected by the Democrats is seeking to retain his seat on the Supreme Court bench. Prior to his selection to the court, he served as a stater senator and Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court judge.

Sheldon A. Taft, the Republican-supported candidate, has practiced law for nearly 10 years. He has served as assistant attorney general of Ohio and the chief legal counsel to the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

2nd District Court of Appeals

Robert L. McBride is a veteran of 28 years on the court benches. He is currently serving on the Montgomery County Common Pleas Court bench and is endorsed by the Dayton Bar Association. He is the author of several legal volumes. He has Democratic backing.

Jack H. Berger, the Republican choice, has served nine years on the Kettering Municipal Court bench. He has presided over more jury trials than any other municipal judge in Montgomery County, and has not had a single case retried because of judicial error during that time.

STATE SCHOOL BOARD

Ward M. Miller has served on the state board of education for more than a decade. He is seeking return to the board from the Sixth District.

Jean Bildsten, of Chillicothe, is a member of the general advisory board to the Pickaway-Ross County Joint Vocational School. She stresses the need for better evaluation practices so that teachers who need to improve their classroom technique will be encouraged to do so. She is a registered nurse and served two years as a part-time worker with Vietnam veterans at the Chillicothe Veterans Administration Hospital.

COMMON PLEAS COURT

Evelyn W. Coffman will return for a third term as Fayette County Common Pleas Court judge. She has been on the bench for 12 years and will begin another six years.

Flash floods hit texas; 7 missing

Portions of Texas were hit by flash floods and heavy rains and downpours also dampened much of the rest of the nation Wednesday night and early today.

A flash flood on Nolan Creek at Killeen, Tex., swept away an auto and several mobile homes during the night. Seven persons were unaccounted for, authorities said.

More than six inches of rain fell at Eagle Mountain Lake in Tarrant County, Tex. Flooding of up to six feet was reported in some homes in Lindsey and Gainsville, Tex. Gusty winds overturned several trailer homes at Ozona, Tex., and one southeast of Kansas City, Mo., which was drenched with 3½ inches of rain.

Thunderstorms that soaked central and southeastern Texas pushed all the way into the Upper Mississippi Valley, but temperatures remained mild through most of the Midwest and Northeast. Rain also damped the Upper Rockies, much of the Pacific coast from northern California to the Canadian border and New England.

More than an inch fell in Moorcroft, Wyo., and heavy snow warnings were posted for today in the state's northwest mountain areas.

Blue laws are upheld

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pennsylvania Supreme Court has upheld the constitutionality of the state's blue laws while striking down a provision which allowed family-owned stores to stay open Sunday.

In a 17-page opinion issued Wednesday, Justice Lewis Manderino wrote:

"The state has a valid interest in providing a day of rest and recreation for members of the public, and general proscriptions against Sunday sales are constitutional.

"Many exceptions to the general prohibitions have been upheld because of a recognition can be enhanced by the employment of some on the day set aside for the rest and recreation of others."

The challenge to the Sunday closing policy was brought by Nate Goodman, operator of an Erie grocery known as the Paul Bunyan Store, who filed suit in Erie County Common Pleas Court in 1972.

Goodman's action, technically seeking an injunction against enforcement of the blue laws, came after his store and 28 others in Erie County were charged with violating the Sunday sales prohibition.

Ancient trade hard to abandon for elderly Columbus brothers

BY MARK THELLMANN

Carl Ruzicka stopped tapping with what looked like a primitive axe of some sort, stood upright bending his 63-year-old body in a convex stretch and proclaimed, "This is one of the two oldest professions in the world and I don't think I have to tell you what the other one is," he mused with his eyes twinkling, "and I'm very proud to be apart of it."

Ruzicka and five of his brothers entered into his father's trade of stone masonry in their early teens. His father had learned the trade in Germany before he came to the United States during the turn of the century and had told his sons, "It's good, honest work which gives you room to flex your muscles in the sunshine and money enough to live decently."

Carl and his 65-year-old brother George, after almost 50 years in the trade, were now doing just that; flexing their muscles in the sunshine, remodeling the stone front on the Howard Osborne mansion across from the Fayette County Museum on Washington Avenue, which has become the new site of the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home, to be completed in mid-November.

BUT, what were these two men in their sixties doing, pounding and lifting heavy rocks when they should be home adding to their stamp collections or working crossword puzzles, while sitting in rocking chairs and smoking pipes?

Carl had a pointed answer. "There just isn't anyone around anymore who does this kinda stuff. We were half begged and half fast-talked into coming out of retirement in order to help out and now here we are. George and I don't have any sense anymore. This job is too big — oh, we'll get it done, but we aren't going to look for anymore work afterwards!" Carl exclaimed.

George, who was on a scaffold laying the stones in thick layers of mortar, motioned to Carl for more stone and the tapping began once again.

The two brothers from Columbus, along with Homer Evans, 64, an employe of Great Oaks Construction Co., Inc., were the only three working on this aspect of the remodeling project.

Carl looked up from his work and muttered, "This would be going a lot faster if we could get some decent help who knew what to do. Setting the stone goes more quickly than the cutting so, there should be two people on the cutting detail."

When Carl was asked how he and his brother were found and contracted to do the job, he replied, "George has worked in Washington C. H. before. He did the stone work on Grace United Methodist Church, while working for Great Oaks Construction Co., under general superintendent, Bob Whitaker, who is also heading up this job. When your skilled in a dying trade and you've left your calling card on the good work you've done in the past, it's hard to hide."

Carl added that he and George, together with two other brothers and his father, had also constructed the post office in Greenfield, in 1937.

It was George who responded when asked what was so skillful about breaking rocks?

"I'd let you try it and see for yourself if we had any to spare," he replied, "but, we've been having a hard enough time getting the materials we need. Some of the stone, which was set here when construction on this place was originally started in 1897 and finished in 1902 (becoming a family mansion) came from a carport we dismantled. However, that amount of stone wasn't enough for all the revisions the Kinzer's had in mind. We had to get more from a quarry around the Leesburg area and since the old stone had come from a quarry (which is now the city dump) in Greenfield, the color matched pretty well. We also ordered some from Portsmouth for an arch we are putting up."

George continued, "Anyway, to cut a stone you have to understand the grain patterns and know the mineral composition. Then and only then can you get it to break where and when you want it to, making the back of the stone flat to be mortared against the wall and the front projected to give the appropriate appearance."

IN A day when many people are unhappy with their jobs and show it by refusing to discuss their work after 5

CASTLE CONSTRUCTING? — The new Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home is beginning to look like a castle with the stone front constructed by Carl and George Ruzicka, almost completed. The two Columbus brothers have been skilled workers in the stone mason trade for almost 50 years. The trade has now all but died, because of the many companies producing "commercially" cut rock. Carl and George came out of retirement in order to do this part of the remodeling project headed by the Great Oaks Construction Co.

County's CAC gets $20,625

Legislation recently approved by Congress allocates almost $120,000 to eighth community action programs in Ohio. The Fayette County Community Action Commission will receive $20,625 to be used for the period of Oct. 1-Dec. 30.

The amount allocated to each organization was determined by the size of the program and the duration of time covered by ther grant. The money is to be used for normal operating expenses.

In addition to the local organization, those receiving money for the next three months were Adams-Brown Counties Economic Opportunities, $37,600; the Clinton County Community Action Program, $22.074; the Highland County Community Action Commission, $15,250; the Pickaway County Community Action Commission, $23,274; Pike County Community Action Commission, $20,250 and the Ross County Community Action Commission, $32,025.

Receiving funding for one month was the Community Action Organization of Scioto County located in Portsmouth. it received $28,333 for the month beginning Oct. 1.

Prisoner strike at Lebanon over

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Supt. William Dallman said 10 inmates have been placed in isolation in the wake of an aborted prisoner strike Wednesday at the Lebanon Correctional Institute.

Dallman said prison officials began their investigation late last week after intercepting 1,500 flyers from a group calling itself "The Seventh World Liberation Front."

The flyers urged prisoners to strike for $1 an hour for prison work. Inmates now are paid 10 cents an hour. The prison produces auto license tags.

The flyers called the state a "profit making monster."

WASHINGTON C. H., OHIO 43160

October 31, 1974

Dear Citizen:

Come join First Federal in a drive to secure a federal income tax exemption of interest you receive on your savings.

Passage of H.R. 16994 by the Congress would give you an exemption for the first $500 ($1000 on a joint return), or portion thereof, of savings interest on your tax return.

This tax saving, helpful to you in these times, will have an anti-inflationary impact too. It will provide more money for home mortgage loans, revive home building, provide jobs in construction and related business and produce a net gain in tax revenues.

Show your Congressman you support H.R. 16994. Petitions are in our office ready for you to sign now.

Hurry in to sign. The petitions will be mailed to Congressmen November 20th.

Sincerely yours,

TWENTY YEARS HARD LABOR? — Carl Ruzicka has been involved in 50 years of this hard labor, but it's not hard to him. Being a stone mason has been a very satisfying and pleasureable vocation and in his words, "it's treated me right." He and his brother George are constructing the stone front on the new Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home.

They should be collecting stamps

p.m. and responding negatively when greeted at the front door with, "How did your day go, dear?" Carl and George feel differently, for they are constantly surrounded by their work.

George, when he returns to his Columbus home, sees the stone front he cut and set and Carl often watches a steak cooked on the stone backyard barbecue he constructed along with a stone wall, in place of the traditional wooden property-line fence.

You can bet Carl and George will be enjoying their retirement together as much as they've enjoyed working together. The brothers live only three or four miles from each other and each have three children (two girls and a boy), who have presented them with five grandchildren apiece.

Being as rugged and fond of the outdoors as the two men are, they probably won't be collecting stamps or working crossword puzzles, but they may not have to worry about what to do in their anticipated spare time; it's awful hard to turn someone away after they've told you, "You're the only one left, possessing the skill and knowhow to do this stone-cutting job I want to tell you about. . . ."

Let's have economic growth — NOT Unemployment Growth

THE CANDIDATE WITH THE PROVEN ABILITY

POSITION ON AGRICULTURE

I. The environmental protection agency is a necessary part of our society, but their rules and regulations should not be so restrictive as to adversely effect the production of food in this state.

II. Any agency making rules at the state level that effects the farmer should have input from people with agricultural backgrounds. The policies should be subject to the approval of the Department of Agriculture.

III. We must have a land use policy that stops rich productive farm lands from being taken out of production and used for other purposes.

IV. The five acre minimum tract law for subdivision regulations should be greatly increased. I intend to introduce this piece of legislation.

One of the problems of the farmer is that he has no representation in the State Legislature. At present there are only three people with a good solid background in agriculture serving in the Ohio House. I have a life time of experience in the field of agriculture, while my opponent has none. Farmers should have no difficulty making a decision in this election.

Renovation of downtown mall progressing; target date set

Renovation of the former Midland Grocery Co. Building is progressing smoothly, and occupancy of the structure is expected sometime in January, according to Lloyd Cartwright, president of the corporation which has purchased the building.

Soon to be known as the Main Street Mall, the main floor of the three-story structure will house eight offices which are scheduled for completion early next year.

THE SHADY LANE CO., a Washington C.H.-based partnership, purchased the building last spring. The partnership is comprised of Lloyd, Loren, Gary and Jack Cartwright.

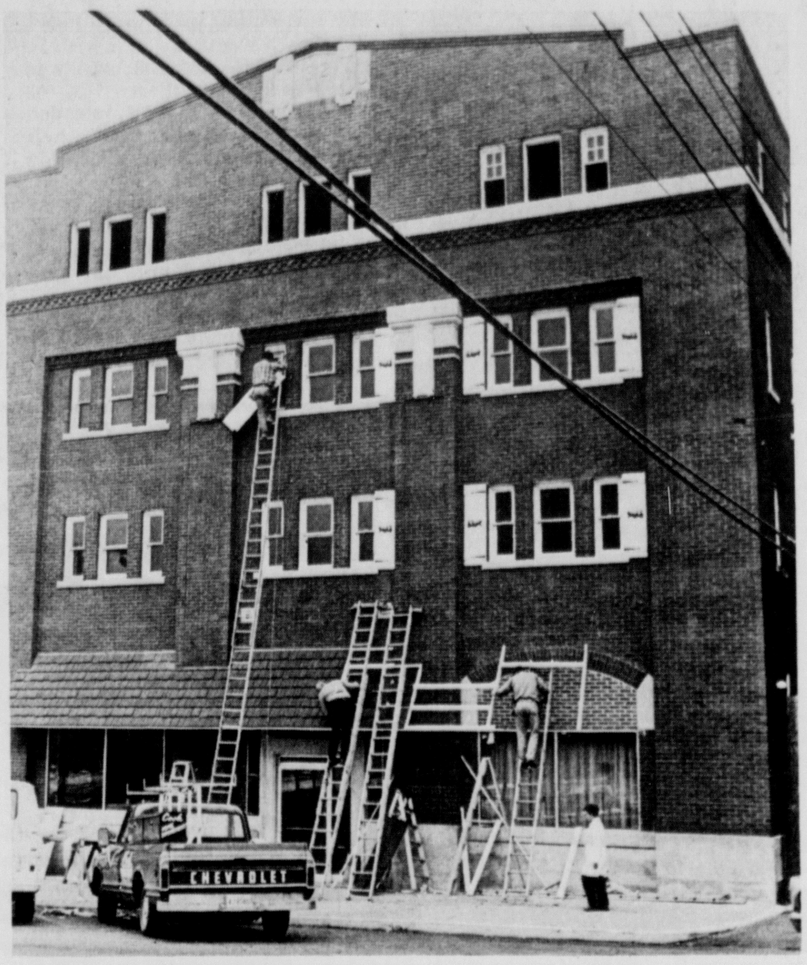

The new plumbing has already received state approval, the electrical wiring is nearly complete and work on the new walls is progressing rapidly. The exterior of the building has received a facelift.

The Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce will occupy one of the first-floor offices. Others who are scheduled to move into the Main Street building initially are Polk Real Estate, William Pool Insurance, and Sabre Systems, Inc., a tax consulting company. Tentative arrangements have been completed for the other four offices, one of which is expected to be a local attorney's office.

A number of local personnel have expressed an interest in assuming office space on the second floor which will be completed some time later, and it appears that the basement will house several small shops.

THE CONSTRUCTION work has been done entirely by local firms, and the materials have all been purchased locally, a fact which the Shady Lane Co. points to with pride.

"We except the building will be an asset to the community and are happy to have local people involved in the renovation project," Cartwright said.

FACELIFT UNDERWAY — The former Midland Building is changing personalities as well as faces. Soon to be known as the Main Street Mall, the structure will house a number of shops and offices. The building was purchased in April by the Washington C.H.-based Shady Lane Co., and is expected to be ready for occupancy in January.

The third floor will eventually be remodeled for offices, and the freight elevator currently in use will be replaced by a passenger elevator. Parking facilities will also be available for the building's new tenants.

Arab summit jolts peace hopes

By The Associated Press

American peace efforts in the Middle East have been jolted by the Arab summit decisions at Rabat. But while this has revived talk of a new round of war as a distinct possibility, the outlook isn't necessarily all that black.

What can be done to avert the threat? After the Morocco summit, some observers are persuaded to speculate that perhaps the time has come for a put up or shut up challenge to the Soviet Union's policy of detente.

The argument is that there are only two alternatives: a new Arab-Israeli war with the concomitant disaster it could mean to the industrialized world or continued reliance on diplomacy.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger now has some new problems he didn't need and the going is likely to be tough. But it would seem that this was as good a time as any for Moscow to demonstrate its genuine interest in a peaceful world.

Because the Arab leaders unanimously recognized the Palestine Liberation Organization as the only representative of the Palestinians, it's doubtful whether there can be a Geneva conference on a Middle East settlement.

There had been a possibility Israel could make a deal with King Hussein of Jordan to return to his control the West Bank territory his grandfather annexed in 1948 and Hussein lost in the 1967 war.

The Arabs say Jordan can still negotiate, but things are different now. Hussein would be doing so with the PLO, the Syrians and others looking over his shoulder, none of them his friends.

Arab statements give Israel good reason to be convinced that a PLO-ruled state would be just a first step. The Arabs proclaim a minimum goal of a secular state for all of what was Palestine before the 1948 war. That would mean no more Jewish national home.

Israel cannot tolerate the prospect of the West Bank in the hands of an entity pledged to her destruction, so even moderate voices speculate gloomily on a new round of war.

The speculation is quickened by the decision of the Arab oil rulers to lavish $2.5 billion on Egypt, Syria, Jordan and the PLO. The money will go to a war economy chest and the Arabs are likely to be seized with the idea that they cannot lose. To avert such a development, the Israelis might ponder a preventive war.

There are some indications, however, that the Arab rulers are being cautious. They seem at pains to note that the door is still open to the Kissinger stepby-step approach to some sort of settlement.

To sell Israel on any negotiations with the Arabs it would be necessary to persuade her she won't be asked to negotiate away her existence as a Jewish state. Only the two superpowers together could provide the guarantees.

Can the Soviet Union, in view of all this, now be tested? Is detente important enough to the Kremlin to persuade it to restrain its Arab clients and demonstrate its interest in a peaceful world by cooperating in a search for a way out of a highly perilous situation?

New reports clear way for Rocky

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressmen on House and Senate confirmation committees say they have found no major disclosures in new FBI and financial reports that would block Nelson A. Rockefeller's confirmation as vice president.

House Judiciary Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., told newsmen Wednesday there is something new in a 2,300-page FBI report but refused to indicate what it is.

Other members said after a closed door briefing on the report that it has new details but no major new disclosures.

"There are no new bombshells," said Rep. Henry P. Smith, R-N.Y.

Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., a member of the Senate Rules Committee, at the same time, said a comprehensive congressional report on Rockefeller's finances also has nothing in it that would block his confirmation.

But Rodino said hard questions will be put to Rockefeller about his previously disclosed wealth and some $2 million in gifts and loans to determine that no improper financial influence was used.

Mob battles Thieu's police

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — More than 2,000 antigovernment demonstrators battled with riot police in Saigon today in the most violent protest against President Nguyen Van Thieu since he came to power nearly 10 years ago.

Scores of persons were reported injured.

The police crackdown after two months of mounting protests began at dawn with raids on a Vietnamese press center and a church where an activist Roman Catholic priest, the Rev. Tran Huu Thanh, had organized a demonstration.

Steel-helmeted riot troops beat at least two Catholic priests, several anti-Thieu members of the National Assembly and a number of Vietnamese newsmen.

Father Thanh's Catholic Anti-Corruption Movement, which has been leading the protests, demanded Thieu's immediate resignation.

After the raids, the police barricaded main streets leading to the center of the city. But the demonstrators persisted in attempts to march to the National Assembly building. They battled the police with rocks, fists and a few gasoline bombs at six points.

The violence paralyzed the city of three million people.

McEwen cites growing support in campaign

Bob McEwen, candidate for state representative from Ohio's 77th District, today cited growing support for his bid to replace State Rep. Joseph F. Hiestand, who is retiring this year.

McEwen, who supports the continued election of all county officials, cited a letter from Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan to county office holders in the district expressing the governor's support for the position McEwen has held.

The letter stated in part:

"I (Gov. Gilligan) am opposed to the proposition that any elected county office — auditor, treasurer, engineer or recorder — be made an appointive office. I believe that any such proposal seeks to take away from the people the power to choose their own leaders, in violation of everything I have stood for in my political career."

The letter continued, "The recommendation that these offices be changed or abolished came from the Local Government Services Commission, which I appointed. But the fact that the commission made the recommendation does not change my own position in opposition to these changes."

McEwen said his opponent, a member of the Local Government Services Commission, has repeatedly expressed his belief that certain county offices be abolished as elective offices.

McEwen concluded by saying, "After traveling nearly 40,000 miles across this district since November of last year, I am convinced that the people of Ohio's 77th District believe, as I do, that local accountability and local decision making give the best government. Whether or not we want our local officials to be appointed for us or elected by us is the clear choice in this race Nov. 5."

Students return at Pickerington

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP) — Students returned to classes at Pickerington High School on Wednesday after an unscheduled week of vacation caused by a fire last week.

The early morning fire Oct. 21 gutted the school library. Several classrooms, the office, teachers' lounge and other areas were damaged by smoke and water. Damage was estimated at $750,000.

The high school has 1,100 students in grades 6 through 12, attending split sessions.

School Supt. Don Heft said five classrooms still need cleaning. Four will be ready by Monday and a fifth will need extensive repairs, he said.

Ruling set in murder

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Hamilton County Juvenile Court Judge Benjamin Schwartz will rule Monday morning on whether a 16-year-old should be tried as an adult in connection with the kidnap-murder of a retirement home executive.

Schwartz ordered physical and mental examinations for Willie Lee Bell, 16, of Cincinnati on Wednesday after hearing evidence involving the Oct. 23 death of Julius Graber, 65, who was shot twice in the face with a sawed-off shotgun.

Schwartz ruled there was probable cause to turn Bell over to adult authorities, but withheld a decision pending the examinations.

Samuel Hall, 19, Cincinnati, remained in custody of Montgomery County authorities in connection with kidnap and robbery charges in Vandalia. He is also charged with kidnap and murder in the Graber case.

Police said Graber was abducted in the parking lot of his apartment building, forced into the trunk of his car, driven to a cemetery and shot to death.

Pension fund secretary dies

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The executive secretary of the Ohio Police and Firemen's Disability and pension Fund, Franklin Kropp, died Tuesday in Washington D.C.

He had held the post of executive secretary since the pension fund's creation in 1966, and served as assistant Ohio attorney general from 1952-1957.

87 resisters report in

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—One Ohio draft evader and 86 deserters from the Buckeye State, have reported to the state office of the Selective Service System under the blanket of Presidential clemency, Ohio's draft director says.

Paul Corey said five of the 86 returning deserters are working as hospital orderlies as alternative service. He said the other 81 will be referred to possible employers within a month.

The single returned evader from Ohio is a 27-year-old Cleveland area man who worked in Canada. Corey would not disclose his identity. Corey said the man will serve 18 months' civilian service.

Corey remarked that one former deserter earns $24,000 a year in his regular job. In some cases returnees may be able to keep a full-time job while performing alternative service, Corey said.

Clerk enters guilty plea to theft

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A payroll clerk in the Hamilton County auditor's office says paid himself $18,146 in 45 extra paychecks since Jan. 2 because he was not getting paid for 60 hours overtime each week.

Charles Hunninghake, 38, who was convicted of embezzlement of $2,000 from a Cincinnati bank in 1962, pleaded guilty to embezzlement and theft charges in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Wednesday.

The 12-year employe said he was forced to work as payroll clerk for all county officers and director of the new data processing operation in the auditor's office.

"I didn't mean to steal the money the way it looks. I actually worked for it," Hunninghake told the court. He gave the prosecutor a check for the missing amount at the same time.

"It is a tragedy that with your work record you would take money that didn't belong to you," said Judge Robert Black.

Sentence was deferred for a probation investigation and a pre-sentence hearing to be scheduled later.

Conviction, under Ohio law, calls for a minimum sentence of one year in jail and a maximum of 10, court officials said.

Hunninghake had received a two-year probationary sentence from U.S. District Court in 1962 after pleading guilty to a $2,000 embezzlement at the First National Bank, where he worked as a teller.

Corn harvesting ahead of schedule

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harvest of the battered 1974 corn crop edged near the half-way mark last weekend, ahead of the normal schedule for this time of year, says the Agriculture Department.

A new corn production estimate will be issued by USDA Nov. 10 based on field surveys the first of the month. The report also will include updated estimates for soybeans, wheat and other major crops.

Meantime, the department said Wednesday in a weekly weather report that the corn harvest nationally was about 49 per cent completed as of Oct. 27. That was slightly ahead of 46 per cent normally harvested by that date.

Corn harvesting in the Corn Belt states was 45 per cent finished, ranging from about 19 per cent completed in Michigan to 86 per cent in South Dakota.

The soybean harvest was estimated at 61 per cent done by Oct. 27, ahead of normal but trailing the 1973 pace. About 78 per cent of the Corn Belt crop was harvested, compared with 81 per cent last year and the historical average of 75 per cent, the report said.

Officials said rain last week in the southern Plains delayed the windup of winter wheat planting but that the moisture helped the crop that was planted. The wheat was in "mostly good" condition in Texas and Oklahoma, the report said.

But in Kansas the moisture supply has been spotty, meaning that winter wheat condition is showing "considerable variation," the report said. Dry conditions still prevailed in much of the northern Plains and Pacific Northwest.

Lions to entertain Miami Trace

Panthers' strength worries Pfeifer

By LARRY WATTS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Miami Trace will be invading Gardner Park Stadium this Friday and Washington Court House coach Maurice Pfeifer, who is in his 10th year at the helm of the Blue Lions, rates this year's edition of the Panthers as the most aggressive Miami Trace team he has ever faced.

This year's Fayette County feud is especially spiced by the possibility of one of the teams sharing the league championship. Both the Lions and Panthers enter the game with 6-2 season marks and 3-1 records in the South Central Ohio League. Circleville is presently leading the SCOL with a 4-1 record and the Tigers conclude their season with Hillsboro this week.

"They (Miami Trace) have a very solid unit," Pfeifer indicated. "The Panthers tend to rely more on physical strength than team quickness."

"Miami Trace's defense is especially strong and they throw a lot of people at you up front," Pfeifer pointed out. "They pressure their opponents into making mistakes. Miami Trace has excellent pursuit on defense because all you see is a big white wave of eight players coming at you all the time."

Pfeifer also felt the Panthers possess an outstanding secondary unit. However, he also added that the Panthers' secondary has not really been tested because of the line's pursuit.

Defensively, Pfeifer is especially impressed by the overall play of defensive end Jay Mossbarger and linebacker Greg Cobb and the pass rush of tackle Ron Warnock. Pfeifer praised Mossbarger and Cobb for their knowledge of the game and their ability to know where the football is at all times.

Pfeifer's defense will be facing the leading quarterback in the league. The Panthers' Tom Riley has completed 35 of 68 passes for 459 yards and has been intercepted three times, all of which occurred in Miami Trace's 42-6 loss to Jackson. Riley is also one of the strongest runners in the league, as he has picked up 450 yards in 102 carries for a 4.41 yard average per carry.

"Basically, I do not think Riley is that good of a passer," Pfeifer noted. "However, every time he throws the ball, it is usually on the money and he seldom puts the ball up for grabs. He is definitely a big threat in running the ball.

When Riley goes to the air, Mossbarger and Jeff Smithson are considered to be his top choices. Pfeifer feels that Mossbarger is the most dependable among Riley's receiving corps. Mossbarger has caught five conversion passes and one touchdown aerial this season.

Offensive punch in the running game is generally provided by fullback Jeff Sagar and halfback Rex Coe, Sagar has produced 768 yards in 129 carries and has accounted for 76 points. Coe, a sophomore, has been coming on strong in recent weeks and has now picked up 223 yards in 40 carries. In four league games, Coe is averaging 5.58 yards per carry.

"Sagar is a very competitive back," Pfeifer said. "He is the type of runner who gains most of his yardage by running on desire."

"As far as Coe is concerned, I have been very impressed with the way he has progressed," Pfeifer added. "He possesses the good speed they needed since Miami Trace lost Tom Pfaff at the beginning of the year."

When the two squads take the field, the Panthers' offense will be holding a weight advantage of 14 pounds per player over the defense of Washington. Court House's offense will be yielding nearly seven pounds per player to Miami Trace's defense.

Washington is presently recovering from a 35-0 shelling by Circleville last week. Not only did the loss break a four-game winning streak on the year, but it also broke a 10-game winning streak in league play and represented the first time since a 16-0 loss to Wilmington in 1966 that the Lions have been held scoreless.

One of the major concerns for Pfeifer and his staff has been lack of offensive consistency from the Lions. In the Circleville loss, Washington ran a total of 40 plays in comparison to 67 plays for the Tigers.

Although Miami Trace only lost 14-12 to the Tigers, there is not really that much difference between the two schools. Washington's offense has been averaging nearly 12 points per game, while the defense has been holding the opponents to approximately 7.5 points per contest. The Panthers' offense has collected an average of 18 points each game and the defense has yielded an average of eight points per game.

No players of the week were selected for the Blue Lions in the Circleville loss.

Last year, the Lions bested the Panthers 36-12 to stretch their edge in the 13-game series to 7-5-1. Pfeifer's coaching record against Miami Trace is 5-4.

Neither team can afford to tie in this week's contest. With Circleville being such an overwhelming favorite to win its game with Hillsboro, the winner of the Fayette County clash also needs a victory in their final game to tie for the championship.

"We are not looking for any surprises this Friday," Pfeifer concluded. "Miami Trace coach Fred Zechman will probably go with what he has been doing all year because it has been working so well for him."

Fayette teams vie for SCOL crown

By LARRY WATTS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

With a possible tie for the South Central Ohio League championship and several individual honors at stake, this year's Fayette County clash at Gardner Park Stadium has plenty to offer the local football fan.

Foremost in the thoughts of the Panthers and Lions is the battle for the SCOL crown. Presently, Circleville is leading the league with a 4-1 record, but the Tigers are playing their final league match of the season with Hillsboro this week. In addition to this week's inter-county rivalry match, the Lions and Panthers, who are tied for second place with 3-1 marks, have one game remaining in the league.

With Circleville practically assured of a victory over the Indians, the Panthers and Lions can not afford a tie this week. Whoever wins this week's game must also win their league game next week to tie for the crown.

As both Miami Trace coach Fred Zechman and Washington coach Maurice Pfeifer indicated during summer workouts, it would not be a surprise to find two teams tied for the league crown because of balance in this year's league race. The last time two teams tied for the league crown was in 1963 when Circleville and Wilmington turned the trick.

Court House is hoping to clinch its second consecutive league title this year. As the 47th gridiron campaign in the SCOL slowly winds itself to a conclusion, the Lions have already captured 13 league titles. Should Washington win a title share, it would mark the fifth time in the team's history that the Lions have won back-to-back crowns.

Miami Trace has only won the SCOL crown once in its 13-year history. The Panthers clinched the title in 1971 when they went 10-0.

With last year's 36-12 victory, Washington holds a 7-5-1 edge in the series. Despite the intensity of this series, other than the 6-6 tie in 1962, only three times has the difference in the final score been eight points or less.

This will be the 10th year for Pfeifer to direct the Lions in this feud. The Lion mentor owns a 5-4 record against the Panthers.

In addition to not having won on their own field in this game since 1970, Washington has been bothered by an unusual home field hex this season. In compiling a 6-2 mark for the season, both of Washington's losses have been on their own field.

Zechman is hoping Miami Trace can break a bad habit in this game. The Panthers, also 6-2 for the year, have lost every third game. This is the ninth game of the Panthers' gridiron campaign.

Finding a victory on the Lions' field has also been a problem for Miami Trace. In their last trip to Gardner Park, the Panthers dealt the Lions a 40-20 defeat in 1972. This was Miami Trace's first win in six trips to the Lions' den.

Last year's graduation took 20 seniors, 15 of which were three-year lettermen, from the Lions. Returning for Washington are nine lettermen, four of which were selected to first team or honorable mention All-SCOL. With halfback Tom Pfaff sidelined, the Panthers have 12 returning lettermen, eight of which were chosen to first team or honorable mention All-SCOL honors.

Washington and Miami Trace sport two of the finest defenses in the league. The Lions' defense has given up 7.5 points per game this year and has yielded under six points per game in their last 18 contests. The Panthers have been giving up nearly eight points per game this season.

Both coaches indicated that their teams needed to establish some type of offensive consistency this week. Washington and Miami Trace each found themselves on the short end of the stick in offensive plays last week.

With the offense only running three plays in the first 13 minutes against Circleville, the Lions' defense must have felt as though it already had played an entire game when it went into the locker room at halftime. When the game had concluded, the Lions had a total of 40 offensive plays and the Tigers ran 67.

There is a slight difference in the scoring average for the two squads. The Panthers are averaging 18 points per contest, while the Lions are scoring approximately 12 points per game.

For the first time this season, the Panthers found themselves running fewer offensive plays than their opponent. However, Miami Trace was a little more fortunate than the Lions, as the Panthers defeated Greenfield 16-0.

This week's game could also decide who will be this year's quarterback on the All-SCOL team. Miami Trace's Tom Riley and Washington's Jeff Brown have been leading the league in the best completion average for most of the season.

In eight games, Riley has thrown 68 passes, completed 35 and had three intercepted. He has completed 51.5 of all his passes for 459 yards. In four league games, the Panther quarterback has tossed 36 aerials, connected on 20 and has no interceptions. He has completed 55.5 per cent of his passes in the SCOL for 291 yards.

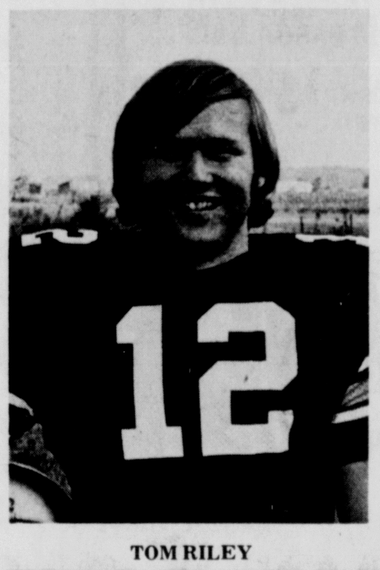

In his eight games this season, Brown has thrown 70 passes, completed 31 and had six aerials picked off. He has completed 44.3 per cent of his passes for 526 yards. In the four league contests, Brown has connected on 18 of 42 passes and has had three intercepted. In completing 42.9 per cent of his league passes, Brown has accumulated 303 yards.

Both quarterbacks are a threat in running the ball. Riley has carried the ball 102 times for 450 yards and has scored 46 points. Brown has picked up 147 yards in 71 carries and has scored 28 points.

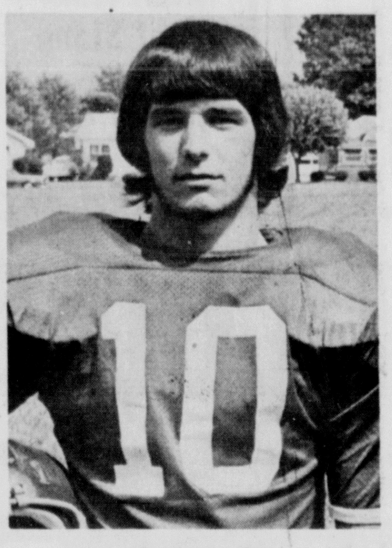

Court House's rushing attack has been spurting this season. The top ground gainer for the Lions is sophomore Leroy Wilson with only 331 yards in 120 carries. Wilson has been averaging 2.76 yards per carry.

Fullback Jeff Sagar is hoping to close out his career with a 1,000-yard year. In 129 carries, the Panther senior has picked up 768 yards and 76 points. In averaging 5.95 yards per carry, Sagar needs 232 yards in his final two games to reach the 1,000-yard plateau.

Whatever the outcome of this Friday's game, each team will start mentally preparing itself for next year's contest when the final second ticks off the clock.

Three new leaders in ratings

But one of them was Canton McKinley, hardly a newcomer among large school football powers in Ohio. The 8-0-0 Bulldogs, twice a state poll champion, moved in front in Class AAA Region 3.

McKinley moved all the way from fifth place a week ago to nudge New Philadelphia for the lead.

However, the Canton school faces a major obstacle to its No. 1 spot this week. McKinley will play Warren Harding, the Class AAA Region 1 pacesetter, Friday night.

The other new frontrunners were Louisville Aquinas, taking over the top spot from Ironton in Class AA Region 7, and Fremont St. Joseph, replacing Montpelier for the lead in Class A Region 10.

Meanwhile, the holdover leaders included Upper Arlington and Cincinnati Elder in Class AAA, Wellington, Norwalk and Dayton Jefferson in Class AA and Windham, Newark Catholic and Middletown Fenwick in Class A.

The leaders in each region will qualify for the Ohio semifinals Nov. 15-16.

Both Miami Trace and Washington Court House tumbled in the computer ratings. Despite their 16-0 win over Greenfield, the Panthers fell from 18th to 21st in Region 4 of Class AAA. With the 35-0 loss to Circleville, the Lions dropped from 11th to 13th.

Wilmington, Circleville and Hillsboro moved up in the polls. In Region 4, the Hurricanes went from 52nd to 50th. The Tigers jumped from 14th to 10th and the Indians moved from 42nd to 41st in Region 8 of Class AA.

In Region 12 of Class A, Unioto remained at 20th. Also in Region 8, Greenfield fell from 12th to 14th.

Cleveland Crusaders game conceled

CLEVELAND (AP)—The grand opening of Nick Mileti's $28 million ice palace melted for the second time in four days Wednesday night.

The Cleveland Crusaders tried to open their 1974 World Hockey Association season in their new home—The Coliseum—but finally told an estimated 8,000 to 9,000 fans after 90 minutes that the ice was not properly prepared, and the game with the Minnesota Fighting Saints was canceled.

Fish fry scheduled

Washington Athletic Facilities Corporation (WAFCO) and Washington football boosters club will be sponsoring their 16th annual fish-fry prior to the Washington Court House-Miami Trace game, Friday evening.

The fish fry will be held right behind the field house at Gardner Park Stadium. Serving will begin at 4 p.m. and last until kickoff. The serving will also resume for a brief time after the game.

Tickets for the fish fry are $1.50 and an advance sale of tickets is presently being conducted at Mutt's, Risch's and Downtown Drug. The menu will consist of fish or ham sandwiches, cole slaw, baked beans, homemade pie and coffee or milk.

Proceeds from the dinner will be split between WAFCO and the boosters club. WAFCO provided the new lighting system for the field and also pays the expenses for the maintenance of the stadium. The boosters purchase the meals for the team members prior to each game and also buy training equipment for the squad. The boosters organization spends approximately $4,000 annually on the football team.

Counseling job ranges from pulpit to gridiron

By NORM CLARKE
AP Sports Writer

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — His parishioners understand when the Rev. Richard Connelly is missing from the pulpit every Sunday during the National Football League season. He feels football players need love too.

"Football players have their problems too. I let them lean on me," said the 65-year-old priest who has spent 19 years on the sidelines with the Cleveland Browns and Cincinnati Bengals.

"I cheer with them in their triumphs and die with them in their defeats," said the priest.

"It's a counseling job. The players want to talk to someone who isn't in a uniform."

The pastor of the St. Colman Catholic Church in Washington Court House, Ohio, Rev. Connelly drives 75 miles every Sunday to assume his station on the Bengals bench.

"I hold mass on every road trip and attend services held by those who aren't Catholic. They know I'm always there to fill in if they ever need me," said the gentle, gray-haired man.

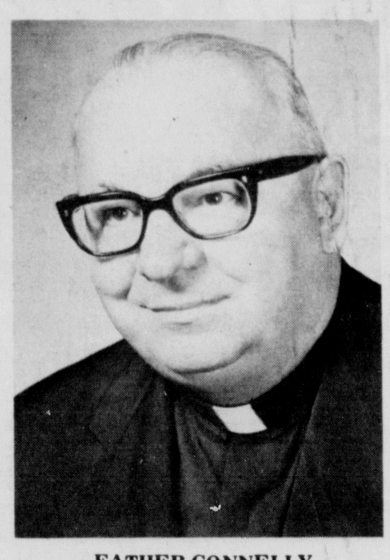

"We don't pray for victory— just to do our best," he said.

"I've been with Paul from the start. I've been at his side during the greatest moments— when the Browns won the NFL in their first season and his worst. That was when Brown's wife, Katie, died," explained the Rev. Connelly.

"He's a leader . . . a perfectionist," said the pastor. "Paul holds it all inside him, but I cheer with the boys. So many of them need encouragement. One's religion doesn't matter. Paul is an Episcopalian," he added.

"Horst Muhlmann (Bengals kicking specialist) is up and down with every kick. You've got to be there to give him a pat when he misses. The specialists feel they have to come through every time or they feel they let the team down."

FATHER CONNELLY

His friendship with another kicker, NFL Hall of Famer Lou (The Toe) Groza, led to his longtime friendship with Brown.

"Lou was a member of my parish in Martin's Ferry when he was in high school. After he joined the Browns he invited me up and introduced me to Paul.

"I was with him from 1946 until 1962 when he left the Browns. When he decided to return to football in 1968, I asked him if I could join him," recalled the Rev. Connelly, a gridder, himself, in his high school days.

"It's been the matinee of my life. A great experience. I have many beautiful stories inside me, but they were told in confidence. And that restricts me from sharing them," he said.

He said Groza has expressed an interest in teaming up to write a book on their football experiences.

The title?

"I suggested 'The Collar and The Toe,' " he chuckled. "Lou said 'no, I want top billing.' "

Hunter captures Cy Young Award

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Being selected as the top pitcher in the American League by winning the Cy Young Award hasn't eliminated Catfish Hunter's troubles with his boss, Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley.

Hunter insisted in a telephone interview from his home in Hertford, N.C., after his Cy Young Award selection that Finley "still owes me $50,000 on this year's contract."

Asked about this and the possibility he might claim free agent status, Hunter said that and the salary matter would be discussed at a meeting between his attorneys, Marvin Miller of the Players Association and Bowie Kuhn, commissioner of baseball.

"They're going to decide what's going to happen on that,"Hunter said.

When Finley was asked about the dispute, he declined comment. "Why ruin a great day for Hunter," he said. Finley said he was "very proud and happy" for Hunter whom he described as "one of the finest gentlemen in the game."

The 28-year-old North Carolinian appeared mildly surprised at his winning the Cy Young Award over Ferguson Jenkins of the Texas Rangers, who received 75 points from a 24-member panel of the Baseball Writers Association of America to 90 for Hunter.

Hunter said he learned of his selection Wednesday afternoon when his wife told him after he returned from a fruitless deer hunt.

"I thought Ferguson Jenkins might get it instead of me," Hunter said. He pointed out that both of them had 25 victories last season and that Oakland had won the World Series.

"His team was not as good; so he had to pitch a little better, maybe," Hunter said.

Hunter agreed that the Cy Young Award was the greatest honor to come to him during his 10-year career in the majors.

"I think when a pitcher comes into baseball the first thing he wants to do is win 20 games, the second is to win a World Series and the third is to win the Cy Young award," he said.

Hunter was the only pitcher named on each of the 24 ballots, and he received 12 first place votes to 10 for Jenkins.

The California Angels' Nolan Ryan came in third with 28 points and one first place vote. Cleveland's Gaylord Perry got the other first place vote and tied with Luis Tiant of Boston with eight points. Baltimore's Mike Cuellar had six and reliever John Hiller of the Detroit Tigers had one.

Last year's AL Cy Young winner was Jim Palmer of Baltimore, who did not receive a single vote this time. Hunter, who was signed by Finley in 1964, had his best major league season with a 25-12 record this year. It was his fourth consecutive 20-victory season.

Bengals face NFL drug probe

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Wayne Clark has no fear of lightning striking twice. "Believe me, this is not another San Diego."

The Cincinnati Bengals backup quarterback says the club has "nothing to fear" from a drug investigation being launched by the National Football League.

The probe was announced Wednesday as "a routine procedure" in wake of the arrest of third string Bengals quarterback Mike Ernst. He was apprehended here early Monday and charged with possession of a narcotic.

Clark was with the San Diego Chargers just before the worst drug scandal in NFL history broke into the open.

Clark had wanted out.

He demanded to be traded or he threatened to retire.

"This is a different bunch of people," said Clark, who was acquired by the Bengals last winter.

"Maybe I'm naive, but I just can't see it here. I'd like to think the Bengals are a little more selective about the people they have playing for them," he said.

The NFL office said Wednesday it has assigned a private investigator to provide a complete report. This is one of the first such NFL investigations since the San Diego probe. That resulted in a $20,000 penalty for the club and fines of $3,000 to $1,000 for eight players.

Clark said he's convinced the Ernst incident is "an isolated case. The Bengals (management) should welcome the investigation. We have nothing to hide...nothing to fear."

Clark said he approved of Coach Paul Brown's decision to waive Ernst, but with mixed feelings.

"It was decisive and couldn't have been more emphatic. It should serve as a deterrent," he said.

"But, I was sorry to see it in a way. I wonder if a regular would have been waived that quickly."

Brown could not be reached for comment Wednesday night.

A NFL spokesman said investigating action follows "any violation of law" by a member of the league. "Our security department even checks out rumors of players betting or anonymous letters."

Police said Ernst, 24, had a vial of cocaine in his possession and was seen measuring out a portion of the drug.

Clark said he was "shocked" when he heard of Ernst's arrest.

"I still don't believe Mike was a real user. It could have been a first time thing. I think the whole team feels that we have to wait and see. Don't make too much out of this," he said.

Hawks top Pistons

By The Associated Press

Playing with an extremely painful right arm Wednesday night, Atlanta's Lou Hudson led a fourth-quarter blast that powered the Hawks to a 104-96 victory over the Detroit Pistons.

Hudson, suffering from calcium deposits and inflammation in his arm, reacted to the challenge of the moment.

"It's the excitement of playing," said Hudson, explaining how he rose above exquisite pain. "You get that extra little energy, that extra little burst. Right now I don't think I can shoot the basketball 10 feet. Tonight it's going to kill me."

Hudson hit on an 18-foot jumper to put Atlanta ahead 88-87 with 4:50 remaining and added 10 more points before the final buzzer to keep the Hawks ahead.

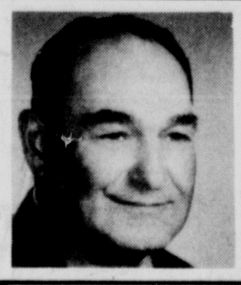

Detroit was ahead 86-77 four minutes into the final period. Then the Hawks outscored them 15-2 in the next five minutes, including the go-ahead field goal.

In the night's other NBA games, the Chicago Bulls defeated the Boston Celtics 105-104; the Kansas City-Omaha Kings whipped the Milwaukee Bucks 99-97; the Washington Bullets trimmed the New York Knicks 94-86; the Phoenix Suns tripped the Philadelphia 76ers 104-99; the Houston Rockets ripped the Houston Rockets 113-100 and the Seattle SuperSonics walloped the Los Angeles Lakers 117-97.

New York Rangers tie

Glenn endorses McDonald

Glenn noted that during his campaign people all over Ohio have stressed their concerns for integrity and leadership in Ohio and said that "The residents of the 17th Ohio Senate District have such a person in Grant McDonald. He has the right qualifications and the right record of community service."

McDonald, 54, is a Ross County commissioner and the first vice president of the County Commissioners of Ohio.

McDonald has been a township trustee for 12 years and served on the state board of directors for Ohio Township Trustees and Clerks. He has also been the president of the Ross County United Fund drive for three terms.

Sheriff quits in protest

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio (AP)— Gallia County commissioners have assured resigning Sheriff James Saunders his successor will have adequate funds to operate the office for the rest of the year.

Saunders offered his resignation, effective Nov. 8, reportedly because he was unable to obtain the funds he felt were necessary to operate the department properly.

The first-term sheriff was involved in a dispute with the commissioners last year after his funds ran out and they refused to allocate additional money. He blamed rising costs, especially fuel costs for the budget problems.

Saunders submitted his resignation Saturday, after commissioners appropriated an additional $6,000 for compensation of employes and additional supplies.

The Gallia County Republican Central Committee will select a new sheriff by mid-November.

Vo-ed opponent asks new hearing

KENTON, Ohio (AP) — Vocational education opponent E. Dennis Barnes of Upper Sandusky says he will ask the Hardin County Probate Court again to hear his suit aimed at stopping collection of tax money for vocational schools.

Barnes contends that the court has jurisdiction. But the court earlier disagreed. A hearing was set for early next month.

Barnes is attempting to stop collection of taxes which were not voted in Hardin, Allen, Van Wert and Paulding counties.

The bidding:

5 ♠	6 ♦	6 ♠	Pass
Pass	Dble

Opening lead — five of clubs.

The most critical challenge for bridge players — good, bad or indifferent — is the opening lead. Ordinarily, more points are lost on the opening lead than at any other stage of the play, and, occasionally, the loss is phenomenal.

Consider this deal from a team of four championship. At the first table, South got to six spades doubled on the bidding shown and West had to choose an opening lead.

According to a convention East-West were using, East's double indicated one defensive trick. Had he held two defensive tricks, East would have passed, and had he held no defensive tricks he would have felt obligated to bid seven diamonds as a sacrifice.

West decided he also had a defensive trick — though he realized this was less than certain — and he accepted East's double by passing.

But then, unfortunately, he led a club, basing his lead on the hope that East had either the ace of clubs or ace of spades. East had neither, so South made the slam because of the opening lead.

Not only that, but — to add insult to injury — declarer made an overtrick, discarding all five hearts on dummy's clubs. Score — 1,860 points.

The bidding at the second table went:

North	East	South	West
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♠	4 ♦
4 ♠	5 ♦	5 ♠	Pass
Pass	6 ♦	6 ♠	Pass
Pass	Dble

Here West concluded that the enemy were evidently well heeled in spades and clubs, and accordingly he led the seven of hearts. This lead struck gold. East took the ace, returned a heart, and his team racked up a gain of 2,060 points on one deal. It just goes to show you!

Speaking of Your Health...

Baldness and Heredity

Everyone in my family is affected with baldness after 25. I have tried massages and scalp treatments, but the hair still gets thinner and thinner. So what's new?

Mr. A.T.R., Ill.

Dear Mr. R.:

Early baldness is known to be "familial." This hereditary tendency to marked thinning of the hair occurs mostly in men, of course. But occasionally it is seen in women, too.

Hair transplanting done by those doctors specially trained in the delicate technique has been remarkably effective in many cases.

The newer knowledge of the growth of hair, and the understanding of how hair varies in different parts of the body, is leading to new research on baldness.

Dr. Norman Orentreich, in New York City, who introduced the concept of hair transplants almost a quarter of a century ago, now believes that locally applied drugs and hormones may eventually be the answer to the distressing problem of premature male baldness or pattern baldness.

I am a pretty good drinker. I'm beginning to worry about my liver. Can any doctor perform tests to show if my liver is functioning properly?

Mr. T.D.E., Ky.

Dear Mr. E.:

It is sad when they learn too late that their excessive drinking has done irreparable damage to their liver.

Liver function tests are very accurate. Studies of the blood show the presence of special enzymes associated with liver disorders.

Dozens of complicated tests are included in the liver profile which yield valuable information about the normal or abnormal functioning of this vital organ.

All doctors have at their disposal laboratories and hospital facilities where such surveys can be made. There are now many X-ray scanning devices which can add knowledge as to the state of the liver.

By all means, have these studies done. The results may give you new insight into the value of good health.

Congratulations!

You've just spent $17,852.90.

That's how much a college diploma can cost these days. And it's a pretty heavy commitment for a parent to face.

So how do you put away a buffer that will insure your child has a chance at college? Simple. U.S. Savings Bonds. Buy them through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

If you start now, you'll have a hefty stockpile of Bonds to draw on by the time your child's ready for school.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4½% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen or destroyed. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

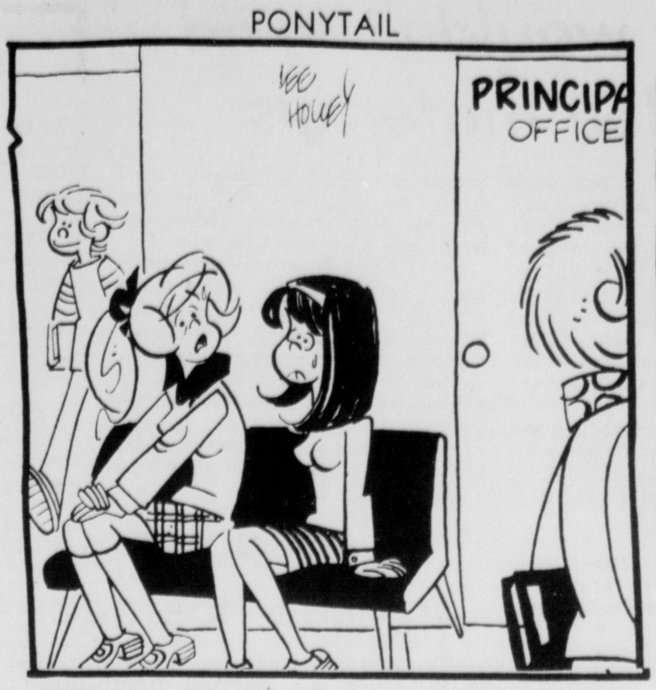

Take stock in America.

Minister probably wouldn't mind if thief kept stolen materials

Everyone knows the Lord works in strange ways and Wednesday was no exception, for a thief may be on the road to reformation because of his crime.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported a briefcase belonging to Joseph N. Andrews, 1884 U.S. 22-SW, was stolen from his car sometime between 4 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, while it was parked in the Seaway parking lot, CCC-Highway-W.

Andrews, who is a minister, told investigating sheriff's deputies the briefcase contained a Bible, some Bible study aids, 24 magazines and his appointment book.

Andrews would undoubtedly like the stolen items back, but would probably allow the thief to keep the Bible if he promised to start reading it and living by the word.

SHERIFF'S DEPUTIES also reported a burglary and the Washington C.H. Police Department investigated two larcenies.

Three rings were reported stolen from the Mary E. Milstead residence in Jeffersonville, sometime between Oct. 12 and Tuesday, sheriff's deputies reported.

Receipts from hunting licenses amounting to $76.50, were stolen from a drawer in the safe at French's Hardward, 152 W. Court St., sometime between Oct. 15 and Wednesday, Washington C.H. police reported.

Ten pair of men's pants were stolen from a car belonging to Ralph Blackwell, 1115 Leesburg Ave., sometime between 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Although Blackwell had driven his car to different places that evening, Washington C.H. police believe the theft to have been committed while his car was parked on East Street in front of Carnegie Library. The pants were valued at $75.

Mrs. Ford likely to stay home

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House spokesman says First Lady Betty Ford probably won't go to Japan with the President.

Mrs. Ford underwent surgery for breast cancer a month ago, and White House physician William Lukash had said he thought it unlikely that she would make the Far Eastern trip.

Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen was asked Wednesday by reporters if the trip had been totally ruled out for Mrs. Ford. He had said she "probably" would not make it.

"I'd just like to leave that word in there," he replied.

Dutch police and Marines rescue hostages in Hague

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — Dutch police and marines fired magnesium grenades early today to temporarily blind four convicts holding 15 persons hostage in a prison chapel, then captured the men and rescued the hostages unharmed.

"Several shots were fired in the air by the marines, but there were no casualties," Police Chief Albert Peijster said.

The operation was over in 15 minutes, officials said.

The hostages, who included two women, were taken to police headquarters and then to their homes. They had been captives since Saturday night, but a police spokesman said they were in "surprisingly good condition."

The four convicts were hurried off to cells. One of them was a 23-year-old Palestinian guerrilla, Adnan Ahmad Nuri, serving a five-year sentence for helping to hijack and burn a British airliner last March. The other three were an Algerian and two Dutchmen, all serving terms for armed robbery.

The convicts had demanded a plane to take them to an undisclosed foreign country and also that Nuri's confederate in the March hijacking, Sami Houssin Tamimah, be allowed to join them. Justice Minister Andries van Agt told a news conference the government never intended to grant the demands.

Peijster and van Agt refused to give details of the rescue at Scheveningen prison "because we may have to do it again." But police sources gave this account:

The police waited until 4 a.m. because they thought some of the convicts would be asleep. Then they hurled magnesium grenades through the chapel windows and at the same time cut the lock on the chapel door with acetylene torches.

The latter process took about 10 seconds. Psychiatrists had advised the police that the noise of the exploding grenades and the glaring light of the burning magnesium would confuse, frighten and blind the convicts for at least that long.

Lies told to grand jury

Defense lawyers hit perjury by Magruder

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once again, Watergate defense lawyers are pressing a key prosecution witness on what caused him to drop out of the cover-up and start telling the truth about the break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters.

Defense counsel began cross examination Wednesday of Jeb Stuart Magruder, former deputy director of Richard M. Nixon's re-election committee.

Plato Cacheris, an attorney for former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, opened the cross examination by asking Magruder, the third prosecution witness at the cover-up trial, about his testimony at the break-in trial in January 1973.

"Did you speak words of perjury to the jury?" asked Cacheris.

"Yes, sir," replied Magruder.

"John Mitchell didn't speak those words for you, did he?" asked the defense attorney.

"No, sir," Magruder said.

The other defendants are former White House aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, former assistant Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mardian and Kenneth W. Parkinson, onetime lawyer for the Nixon reelection committee.

Defense attorneys indicated Wednesday that their cross examination of Magruder would take a full day. The next prosecution witness is scheduled to be Robert Reisner, Magruder's assistant at the re-election committee.

Cacheris focused his questioning of Magruder on the former campaign aide's admitted perjury on numerous occasions before he began cooperating with prosecutors in April 1973, and on his use of $6,000 in re-election committee funds.

Cacheris drew from Magruder confirmation that he had told FBI agents April 19, 1973, that prior to the June 17, 1972, break-in "you had not received one dime from the committee to re-elect the president other than salary."

He admitted also telling the agents that after the break-in he had tried for "self preservation" to accumulate as much money as possible from the committee.

Magruder apparently accumulated $6,000 in committee funds for possible use to pay legal fees. But when the committee picked up some of the fees he returned the money.

Cacheris cited several occasions on which Magruder had lied under oath and each time asked him if he had been charged with perjury by the special Watergate prosecutors.

Agents compile sketch of reported kidnapper

Agents from the Ohio Bureau of Criminal Investigation, London, have compiled a sketch of a man wanted in connection with the kidnapping and rape of a young Washington C.H. area woman Tuesday night.

Investigators from the Bureau of Criminal Investigation composed the sketch of the kidnap-rape suspect after interviewing the victim of the incident which began at the Washington Square Shopping Center at the north corporation of Washington C.H. about 8:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The suspect has been identified as being 25-30 years of age, five feet, seven inches in height and weighing approximately 150 pounds. The suspect has brown eyes and brown hair.

Washington C.H. police officers and deputies from the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, which are conducting a joint investigation of the incident, said the 22-year-old woman was reportedly kidnapped at gunpoint as she returned to her car from shopping and was forced by the suspect to drive into the country where the victim was raped by her abductor.

The suspect, clad in a knit ski mask, then forced the woman to return to Washington C.H. where the suspect jumped from the car and fled on foot at the intersection of Temple and Blackstone streets, the woman told investigating officers.

The woman notified Washington C.H. police officers of the incident at 10 p.m. Tuesday. She was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and later released.

Morning traffic snarled

K-Mart store opens here

It wasn't but seconds after the ribbon of $20 bills dropped to the newly waxed floor that the throng of people poured into the new K-Mart store this morning as if inflation was a word without meaning.

In a brief, ribbon-cutting ceremony, Douglas Scott, new manager of the local store on Columbus Avenue, his wife Judy and their two children held the honors of officially opening store number 9,006 of the large S.S. Kresge Co. chain.

WITH THE snip of the "golden" scissors, the $500 in $20 bills was handed over to the Washington C.H. Community Chest campaign to kickoff the grand opening extravaganza.

Several Washington C.H. officials were on hand for the presentation, including City Manager Dan Wolford, along with executives of the Kresge Company and Developers Diversified, Inc., of Cleveland, which constructed the building.

Washington C.H. police officers became involved in the grand opening ceremony as well when they were called to control traffic, which was blocked all the way to the edge of town minutes after the opening.

The approximately 35 local residents, who have been employed at the store, had little time to wait for the barrage of customers they had been trained to attend by supervisory personnel.

The Washington C.H. K-Mart store is one of three sizes of the chain, which is owned and operated by the Michigan-based firm.

The group-nine store is the smallest in size but will carry most of the merchandise the larger stores possess including appliances, clothing for all members of the family, a large automotive center, hardware, sewing goods, jewelry, health and beauty aids and furniture.

Scott brings with him as manager 17 years of retailing experience with the S.S. Kresge Co., and was formerly co-manager of a K-Mart store in Detroit, Mich. He managed three stores before co-managing in Detroit, including a Jupiter store in Ashland and two S.S. Kresge stores in Michigan.

According to Scott, the local store was situated in Washington C.H. because it was the county seat and a "growth city." "We felt there were enough people in this town to have a lot of service and I personally feel that K-Mart will help the community by bringing more customers into town."

SCOTT ADDED that the store "plans to have 100 per cent satisfaction guarantee with customers" by maintaining a policy of cash refunds and rain checks when advertised items

Goblins roam city streets

There was no generation gap as young and old alike participated in the beggar's night celebration in Washington C.H. Wednesday night.

The youngsters were tickled to receive their goodies, the elderly enjoyed giving, and the parents had the fun of watching it all — at least until their legs began to tell them they had pounded the pavement long enough.

The rain which had been forecast for Wednesday never came about and the balmy weather provided a perfect atmosphere for the 1974 return of witches, ghosts and gobblins.

Nixon's vital signs stabilized

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon's doctor says it is too early to make a longrange prediction on the health of the former president.

But Dr. John C. Lungren said Wednesday that Nixon's vital signs have stabilized, although he remains on the critical list.

Nixon lapsed into vascular shock following urgent surgery for phlebitis on Tuesday. Doctors worked for three hours to restore stable blood circulation.

Nixon's former presidential news secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, told newsmen, meanwhile, that the 61-year-old ex-president came very close to death during the postoperative emergency.

"There is no doubt that we almost lost President Nixon yesterday afternoon," said Ziegler.

Ziegler said Nixon's condition grew so serious that "I think it's fortunate that President Nixon was in the intensive care unit."

Nixon's doctors, however, sidestepped questions on whether Nixon's life was in danger during the period of postoperative shock and bleeding behind the membrane that surrounds his abdomen.

By Memorial Hospital Medical Center's definition, critical condition means vital signs are not stable and not within normal limits — "Indicators are unfavorable."

A hospital spokesmen said that by keeping Nixon on the critical list, "it means the doctor still fears that Mr. Nixon may have further trouble."

Lungren, Nixon's doctor for 22 years, said through a hospital spokesman that Nixon's internal bleeding had been arrested and that he was receiving medication for pain and occasional nausea.

"All emergency resuscitation equipment for any contingency" is at his bedside, Lungren added.

A hospital spokesman said a tube had been inserted through Nixon's nose and into his stomach to drain off fluids and prevent swelling of the abdomen because he could not move his bowels, a side-effect of the bleeding.

President Ford is campaigning in nearby Los Angeles today, but a White House spokesman said Ford had no plans to visit Nixon.

The spokesman said Ford was watching Nixon's condition closely, however.

Nixon's wife, Pat, and daughters, Julie Nixon Eisenhower and Tricia Nixon Cox, maintained a vigil. Mrs. Nixon remained by her husband's bed and the daughters were busy answering telephone calls offering best wishes and opening get well cards.

Mrs. Nixon and her daughters have been sleeping at a private residence in Long Beach, 50 miles north of Nixon's seaside estate at San Clemente.

The hospital switchboard has been swamped with calls since Nixon underwent surgery to insert a clothes pin-like clamp over a vein in his groin area. The clamp was implanted to prevent a newly discovered blood clot from moving to his heart and lungs.

Nixon re-entered the hospital Oct. 23 after home drug therapy proved ineffective in treating the phlebitis. He was hospitalized for 12 days ending Oct. 4 for treatment of the problem.

Canfield woman wins

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Ann C. Sisko of Canfield became $300,000 richer this morning, when Ohio Lottery officials pulled her number out of the hopper in the weekly Buckeye 300 drawing.

Second and third prize went to Cincinnati women. Rosemary Haas won $60,000 and and Edith M. Foster $30,000, lottery officials said.

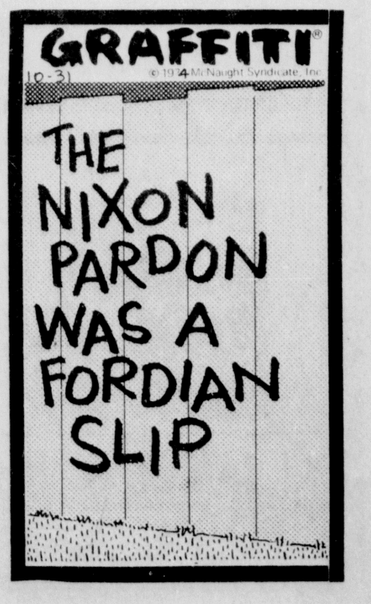

Five persons won $15,000.

They were identified by a lottery commission spokesman as Armit Francis of Troy, Joeann Simmons of Toledo, Basilio Dedino of Wickliffe, John Silon of Seven Hills and Thomas Rado of Bellevue.

Also to be pulled out of the hopper were names of the first contenders for the next millionaire drawing.

Winning digits

CLEVELAND (AP)—The wining three digit number this week in the Ohio Lottery was 090, and the winning double number was 230 854, the Ohio Lottery Commission announced Thursday.

Social Security tax increase drawing near

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of Americans will pay higher Social Security taxes next year, with additional payroll withholding as high as $52.65 for employes earning $14,100 or more.

There will be no change in the present Social Security tax rates of 5.85 per cent each for employe and 7.9 per cent for the self-employed. However, the tax will be levied on the first $14,100 of each wage earner's income, up from the present $134,200.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare estimated Wednesday that about 19 million workers will be affected by the increase, which will mean an employe's maximum Social Security tax for 1975 will be $824.85, up from $772.20 in 1974. The self-employed will be taxed a maximum additional $71.10 each for a total of $1,113.90, up from this year's 1,042.80.

The local store has parking facilities to accommodate 300 cars but by 9:10 a.m. Thursday, the parking lot was near capacity, just minutes after the official opening. Pavement has also been added to Columbus Avenue to widen the roadway for easier entrance.

The store specializes in selling namebrand items at discount prices. According to Harry Bowes, regional advertising director for the S.S. Kresge Co., the store may be able to "undersell any other store in the area" because the items are sold in mass quantities.

The store will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily and 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. Sundays.

Claim treasury cash missing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Republican candidate for state treasurer has charged that $1,800 was stolen from the treasurer's office and not reported to police under Democratic incumbent Gertrude Donahey.

Richard H. Harris contended that $1,000 was taken in September of 1971, $500 in January of this year and $300 last September.

Deputy Treasurer Wayne Maloon acknowledged that $1,500 had turned up missing but said the discrepancies were not reported to police because a bonding company had reimbursed the treasurer's office.

Harris, widely believed to be far behind Mrs. Donahey in the campaign for treasurer, said police had no report of the missing money and that there was no record of it in the treasurer's office.

Harris said his investigation of the allegations had gone beyond the letter.

Maloon said the missing $1,000 was from a change-making bank provided to the Ohio State Fair in 1971 and that the $500 involved a teller's discrepancy.

In both cases, he said, the shortages were not reported because the treasurer's office was reimbursed the Keck Insurance Co. of Akron, Ohio.

He said the procedure for supplying the state fair with change was a carry-over from the Republican treasurer and had since been changed.

"We could never determine whether it was short coming in or whether something had happened to it after it had gotten here," he said.

Maloon said the employe who was $500 short resigned shortly after the incident, but he added that he did not believe the teller was guilty of any wrongdoing. Maloon did not know about the alleged $300 shortage.

Harris called the news conference obstensibly to announce the completion of his $1,000 mile tour of the state's perimeter.

The missing money also was raised during a candidates' night on the Ohio educational television network Wednesday night.

Mrs. Donahey gave the same explanation for the $1,000 and $500 and promised to investigate the allegation that $300 more is missing.

Also on the broadcast, originating at station WOSU—TV in Columbus, incumbent Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan said inflation is the reason about one-third of Ohio school districts are seeking additional tax levies this year.

Answering a question phoned in to the program, Gilligan said the income tax had benefitted primary and secondary education by $500 million a year, but soaring inflation hit at the same time the money began rolling in.

Gilligan also used the program to blast his opponent, Republican former Gov. James A. Rhodes, for failing to make his income tax returns public.

"I don't know of anyone seeking high public office who won't do it except Jim Rhodes," Gilligan said.

Kent State jury visits campus

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— The jury in the Kent State University shootings trial has seen where four students were killed and nine others wounded in 1970 preparatory to hearing its first testimony.

The jurors were accompanied on a campus visit Wednesday by seven of the eight former Ohio National Guardsmen indicted in connection with a 13-second burst of gunfire May 4, 1970, that climaxed four days of student protest of U.S. military involvement in Cambodia.

The eighth defendant, William E. Perkins, 28, of Canton, was absent because of illness.

Presentation of evidence in the trial was to start today, with photographers who pictured the events leading to and following the shootings expected to be among the first witnesses.

Escorted by U.S. marshals and campus security officers, the jurors began their one-hour tour at the location of the Army Reserve Officers Training Corps building that was burned by demonstrators on the night of May 2, 1970. That burning resulted in guardsmen being ordered to the campus.

Following the route taken by National Guard units on the day of the shootings, the jurors went to the Commons, where demonstrators gathered; crossed Blanket Hill, from which the gunfire erupted, and visited the parking lot where the four slain students fell.

The tour also took them to the football practice field at the bottom of the hill where guardsmen were stopped by a fence and were met with what defense attorneys have described as obscenities and a hail of rocks from demonstrators.

The campus visit was the jury's only business of the day.

"It certainly brought back a lot of unpleasant memories," said Barry W. Morris, 30, of Kent, one of the defendants.

James D. McGee, 28, of Ravenna, another defendant, said that because of those memories, "I will be glad to leave here."

James E. Pierce, 30, of Amelia Island, Fla., also among those charged with assaulting and intimidating the victims and others by firing weapons in their direction, said he had mixed feelings about the visit.

"It brought back unpleasant memories, but there also were some pleasant memories; I grew up here," he said.

The ex-guardsmen were indicted last March 29 by a federal grand jury that spent nearly three months investigating the shooting incident and events leading to it.

The indictment also charged them with depriving the victims and others of their constitutional right against loss of freedom without due process of law.

Also on trial are Ralph W. Zoller, 27, of Mantua; Leon H. Smith, 27, Beach City; Mathew J. McManus, 28, West Salem, and Lawrence A. Shafer, 28, Ravenna.

Ohio Perspective

Smith having uphill battle

By TOM DIEMER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— George Smith, the Republican candidate for attorney general, is convinced he has raised important issues in his campaign against Democratic incumbent William J. Brown.

With the Nov. 5 election only days away, Smith's copying machine has been working overtime turning out sharply worded criticisms of Atty. Gen. Brown's performance in office.

The Franklin County Prosecutor held a news conference recently summarizing his case against Brown on two charts outlining a variety of charges.

Later the same week he repeated the five accusations almost verbatim before the Republican state convention with emphasis on his theme that "Ohio cannot afford William J. Brown."

Both candidates acknowledge Brown is leading.

Despite the broad range of Smith's attack, Brown's strategists do not believe Smith's campaign has caught fire.

"We are consciously not responding to every attempt of George to grab at straws or grab some media," said Mike D'Angelo, Brown's campaign manager.

However, the attorney general or his spokesmen have reacted to Smith's major charges.

The challenger accuses the present office-holder of extravagance, claiming Brown's budget has shot up from $6.6 million to $18.8 million in my first 90 days in office," Smith has said.

The attorney general also points to increased activity in civil rights, consumer protection and the environment as a result of his priorities and because of new state laws in all these areas.

Brown wrote the Consumer Sales Practices Act.

The attorney general's office does not cost anything," said Jack Madigan, Brown's press secretary, "because we take in more than we spend.

Madigan referred to collection of outstanding state debts and antitrust enforcement.

Smith alleges that Brown and his young staff are responsible for incorrect legal opinions and costly mishandlings of lawsuits — most notably the controversial and incredibly complicated Four Seasons Nursing Homes case.

That subject revives unhappy memories for most Republicans, dating back as it does to the statehouse loan scandal during the final year of the last GOP administration in 1970.

Smith claims Brown bungled the handling of the Four Seasons lawsuit to the tune of $2 million.

Brown said Ohio has collected $2.6 million of a $4 million loan to the nursing homes, but admits an oversight by his office could cost the state $950,000 in loan interest. A decision to this effect by a federal judge in Denver is being appealed before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Smith's charts did not dredge up a nine-month-old General Accounting Office report, but the federal audit of Democratic fund-raising activities has been among the most publicized issues of the campaign.

Lt. Gov. John W. Brown in his keynote address to the Republican state convention accused Democrats of covering up allegations of campaign finance law violations.

The next day in Toledo Smith called on Brown to respond to his offer of the services of the Franklin County grand jury.

Brown replied in a letter to the Columbus prosecutor, "Your offer of time and space...is not relevant to that investigation since most of the allegations in the report related to conduct in Cuyahoga County."

The matter came to a head a few days back in Cleveland during the only public debate of the campaign between the two men. Brown rose in anger after Smith asked why he had not yet taken the matter before a grand jury.

"If there is probable cause to take it to a grand jury, I will," said Brown.

Brown said his office had interviewed 70 state employes during October and had scheduled 200 more, making it doubtful any prosecution would begin before Nov. 5.

The candidates' individual platforms have received little attention.

Brown has issued lengthy position papers on his record in office, consumer protection and crime. Smith's "Program for Tomorrow" calls for more direct participation from business, industry and the academic community in solving state problems.

The polls offer no surprises and probably little insight.

The "secret" Republican survey shows Brown in the lead but slipping more than any other Democratic candidate along with a "huge undecided vote."

Opinion And Comment

Congressional broadcasts

One or two valid questions have been raised as to radio and television coverage of all public sessions of Congress. Some argue that this would be a serious distraction, the equipment too intrusive to permit undivided attention to legislative business. It also has been said, with some justification, that some members might be tempted to grandstand.

Both these arguments are rejected in the statement of a private study group headed by a former Federal Communications Commission chairman, Frederick Ford. In the main we agree with the group's conclusion that neither objection is strong enough to outweigh the public benefits of such coverage.

The practical matter of cost is addressed headon in the statement urging Congress to authorize routine broadcasts. It proposes fees low enough to encourage widespread use of the service by broadcasters, with costs in excess paid for by congressional appropriations. This is a sound approach to which Congress ought to give thoughtful consideration.

THESE DAYS . . . . By John Chamberlain

Prospect of super-inflationary Congress

With the Republicans stumbling from Connecticut to California (unless, perchance, some Democratic old-timers are stumbling more spectacularly), Washington is now predicting a slaughter of senior committee member in the House of Representatives. The new Congress, regardless of whether it turns out to be more or less Democratic than it is now, will surely represent a generational change. Even the supposedly indestructible Wilbur Mills may disappear from the scene.

So what are we to expect? Congressmen, even those who were born some time before World War II, have been afraid to take on the heroes or trifle with the prejudices of the big baby-boom generation of the '40s and early '50s.

For example, the American Mining Congress can put it in writing that it will not permit strip mining of coal without restoring the fertility and esthetic beauty of the landscape after the coal has been taken out but, out of exaggerated fears of the under-30 ecologists, Congress still insists on a punitive attitude toward stripping. On other energy matters, the young ecologists keep Congress from enacting trade-off legislation that would lessen our dependence on Arab oil.

The majority of those in the under-30 group, as I know from personal conversation as well as from the pollsters, is not inclined to think that questions of economics should ever have parity consideration with environmental or ethical questions. So what will a younger Congress care about the inflationary consequences of paying for a horrendous oil import bill by exporting our capital to the Arabs?

Reading James A. Wechsler in the New York Post on the subject of the young volunteers who are campaigning for Allard Lowenstein of "Dump Lyndon Johnson" fame in New York's Fifth Congressional District, one gets a premonitory view of the sort of thing that could very well take over on Capitol Hill next January. Lowenstein, says Wechsler for his New York liberal audience, is trying to unseat a man (Rep. John Wydler) who "opposed legislation to increase mortgage funds available to middle-income families. (and) twice rejected bills for higher Social Security benefits.

"At the same time," Wechsler continues, Wydler "voted against rollbacks in oil prices and tax reforms to reduce swollen oil profits." The young behind Lowenstein are clamoring to oust this mossback who has had some consideration for the integrity of the dollar and for the need to use the market mechanism both to cut down on the use of oil from overseas and to stimulate the drilling of new domestic wells. They don't see the danger of charging present Social Security payments to a future that will be so bogged down with the economic consequences of spiralling Welfarism that it will either have to repudiate the national debt or ruin every private life insurance policy by a drastic devaluation of the currency.

The young who are behind Lowenstein look at the plight of modern Britain and yawn. It can't happen here, they say; the cornucopia of government spending can never be emptied.

Lowenstein is an attractive character, with a vastly sympathetic heart. But a Congress dominated by the sort of uncritical goodwill that emanates from his kind will be totally incapable of resisting the urge to spend on a hundred individually desirable things.

Concerned only with the "need" for this and that, such a Congress will certainly ignore the fact that the sum total of 40 years of Western Welfarism has produced an inflationary crisis which will soon make the Welfare dollar worthless to its recipients.

What this country needs is an upsurge in the creation and expansion of industries capable of generating taxes, in sound dollars, to pay for all the things that the under-30 generation takes for granted. We need savings. We need a workable combination of energy sources that will make use of coal, atomic power, solar energy, alcohol from cellulose, even windmill and tidal power, in addition to oil from new offshore wells.

We can have these things without sacrificing the landscape or polluting the air and water if only the political climate favors the assembling of investment money to pay for newer and better techniques as well as for new machinery.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 1

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

A day calling for your best judgment. You could cause unnecessary misunderstandings by involving yourself in the affairs of others. Don't underestimate the competition, either.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Some misleading influences. Take all "inside information" and "sure tips" with the proverbial grain of salt.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

As with Taurus, you, too, must be alert to deceptive elements now. Even your closest friends may be telling you only half the story. Here's where your innate perceptiveness and intuition can be of great help.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Workaday routine may seem more tedious than unusual, but evening activities will more than make up for it. Look for exceptionally stimulating hours with highly congenial companions.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

You may be up against some unusual competition in your field, so keep your eye on the ball. With your fine intelligence, you should find ways to outrun the best.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Talk controversal issues over in a businesslike, objective fashion, not permitting personalities to enter the fray. Pay no attention to those who dissent "on general principle."

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

You won't find any hiding place for your problems, so you might just as well face up to them and work them out. But do so in a relaxed manner and with no anxiety.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Achievement will be largely up to yourself now. You won't have much planetary help, but YOU can light up the fires of enthusiasm and good will.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Emphasize your stability. Many will look to you for support and guidance. Without overtaxing yourself, give help wherever you can.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Mixed planetary influences. Good opportunities for advancement abound in your area but you may have to search them out for yourself. Personal interests highly favored.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

A period of adjustment. Profit by experience and study the methods of successful people. Make moves designed to enhance position, insure gains.

PISCES
(FGeb. 20 to March 20)

Mixed influences. Check impulsive comments, action. You could step into trouble with little effort through wrong or heedless tactics.

YOU BORN TODAY have been endowed with one of the most dynamic personalities in the entire spectrum of the zodiac. So great is your forcefulness, your self-reliance and your self-assurance that they could lead you to extremes and overaggressiveness if you are not careful. Used with a measure of control, however, these traits, excellent in themselves, can lead you to the top of any career you choose. For you laugh at any obstacle in your path and hurdle it with amazing ease. You are a born leader, a strong individualist, a tremendous influence — for good or otherwise. That's up to you! Many great dramatists, artists, writers, sculptors and musicians have been Scorpio-born. Other fields in which you could excel: finance, business management, the law, medicine and politics.

Find loved soybeans do better

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — Loved soybean plants grow bigger and produce more beans than plants fed only water and mineral nutrients, according to results released by the experimenter.

Gus Alexander, an assistant professorof speech communications at Wright State University, said there was a "significant positive difference" in the yield of soybeans telepathically fed love over the yield of the unloved ones.

The experimental loved soybeans yielded 4 per cent more in net weight than the control rows in five out of six paired plots.

Maynard Bingaman's entire 90-acre field east of here, which was harvested, combined and weighed at the field on Monday, yielded a total of 4,540 pounds.

The field was divided into 12 alternate plots, six control and six experimental, Alexander explained. The loved beans weighed 2,825 pounds and the unloved beans 2,715.

Each night since August, the experimental plots had received messages of love sent by 10 members of the Church of the Golden Key.

Previous results in a smaller plot harvested earlier from the middle of the field were inconclusive. However, results from the entire field were a "success," Alexander said.

Army plans fight against blackbirds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has a new enemy with 14 million airborne troops — a noisy horde of blackbirds roosting in a pine grove.

The birds are flocking to the pine forests of Ft. Campbell, Ky., and the Milan Army Ammunitions Plant in Tennessee as they have in previous autumns, but this year the Army is preparing a fight to the finish.

A Pentagon spokesman said Tuesday the Army plans to spray the birds with a detergent that will remove the natural oil from their feathers. The oil protects the birds from inclement weather, and when the temperature drops below 45 degrees the birds will die from the cold.

The Environmental Defense Fund says there are more humane ways of handling the problem, but does not dispute the need to get rid of the estimated 14 million blackbirds.

Maureen Hinkle, a pesticides expert at the environmental organization, suggested that the Army set up a large funnel near the resting grounds with a light at the end of the funnel. If the light is turned on in the middle of the night, the birds will fly directly into it, killing themselves instantaneously as they strike the lens, she said.

The birds, mostly starlings, became a problem several years ago when pine groves at Ft. Campbell and at the ammunitions plant matured to a point where they provided ideal roosting grounds.

There are few natural predators, and nearby farms provide sufficient grain fields for the birds to raid for food.

In Hopkinsville, Ky., 15 miles north of the Army post, town clerk Terry Rogers said the birds must go.

"We grow quite a bit of grain and they've done hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of damage," he said, explaining that the birds' foraging trips take them over a 100-square-mile area.

The Environmental Defense Fund said it would consider seeking court action to halt the Army if the Army does not first publish an assessment of the environmental impact of its attack.

Schlesinger visit for the birds

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger's trip here was to inspect oil fields and deliver a speech on national defense. It also was for the birds.

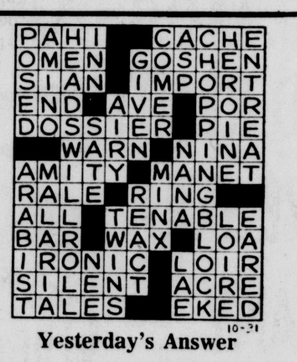

After the oil field tour in 30-below zero temperatures, and before his speech here, Schlesinger and two of his eight children went on a bird-watching trek with a group of university students.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Male nurse wants to be a woman

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old white male nurse. I love sports and excelled in track. I was saved by the grace of Jesus Christ two years ago. I read my Bible daily and sing in the gospel choir.

Even though I am a born-again Christian, I am miserable. All my life I have wanted to be a woman. I would love to be on the U.S. Women's Olympic Track team. I can cook, sew and type. I have never cared anything about mechanics, engineering or any of the so-called masculine careers. I hate hunting and fishing. I never could kill a living thing.

Abby, this secret desire to be a woman is about to destroy me. I am not a homosexual, but I'd give anything to have a sex change operation. Where is this done? Is it against the law? I will go anywhere. I'd rather be dead than continue living like this.

Abby, if the lord really loves me, why did He give me a man's body when I feel and think like a woman? I have been this way all my life. Please help me!

SAVED BUT DIFFERENT

DEAR SAVED: The Lord created all of us, and why he made you 'different' I do not know. Nature sometimes makes biological blunders, as is the case when one's body does not conform with his (or her) natural feelings. You are not alone. Don't feel guilty. One cannot help what he feels.

I believe that knowledge, skill and talent are divinely inspired, and that those scientists, physicians and surgeons whose combined efforts have made sex-change operations possible do so with God's guidance. For information about sex-reassignment and related problems, write to The Erickson Foundation, 167 Moreland Ave., Baton Rouge, La. 79808.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing a paper on modern marriage and would appreciate your help.

From the wife's point of view, what is the most common complaint about her husband?

B.H.

DEAR B.H.: The wife's Number One complaint: "My husband doesn't appreciate me."

The husband's Number One complaint: "She nags me."

DEAR ABBY: My wife is a fraud. About four years ago I made a deal with her. I told her if she would quit smoking I would buy her a pair of diamond earrings she wanted very much.

She agreed to quit, and I bought her the earrings. I should tell you that we had been married for 30 years and I though I could trust her. Well, a year ago I caught her smoking. She said she really hadn't started to smoke again, but she'd take a cigaret "occasionally" to keep her from eating between meals because she was trying to keep her weight down. At that time she gave me her word that she wouldn't smoke again.

I am almost certain that she is smoking behind my back, but I haven't caught her at it yet. If I can prove that she's smoking should I sell the earrings to teach her a lesson?

UNHAPPY HUSBAND

DEAR UNHAPPY: No. But ask her to hand them over, and put them away as an incentive for her to swear off again.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Oct. 31, the 304th day of 1974. There are 61 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1517, Martin Luther nailed his 95 theses on the chapel door at Castle Church in Wittenberg, Germany.

In 1674, Dutch forces evacuated New York City.

In 1754, Columbia University had its beginning as a royal charter was granted to King's College in New York City.

In 1864, Nevada became the 26th state.

In 1955, Britain's Princess Margaret said in a radio broadcast: "I would like it to be known that I have decided not to marry Group Captain Peter Townsend."

In 1956, Britain and France bombed Egypt in the IsraeliEgyptian war.

In 1966, President Lyndon Johnson was enthusiastically received on a visit to Seoul, South Korea.

Ten years ago: Communist guerrillas attacked an air base near Saigon, killing four Americans and destroying six B-57 jet bombers.

Five years ago: President Nixon said he would loosen restrictions on U.S. aid to Latin nations, treating all equally, regardless of whether their governments were democratic or dictatorial.

One year ago: The United States ended a world-wide military alert that had been called during hostilities in the Middle East.

R-H publisher attends Venezuelan press meet

A visit to Venezuela is an exciting experience, but Record-Herald publisher Paul F. Rodenfels wouldn't want to live there; just give him good old Fayette County.

Along with other Ohio newspaper publishers, Rodenfels and his wife, Roberta, recently returned to Washington C.H. from a 10-day trip to the South American country where they attended the Inter-American Press Association meeting in Caracas, the country's capital city.

"A FOUR-HOUR flight from New York to the airport located on the Caribbean Sea and some 40 minutes away from downtown Caracas and you unload in the heat of the evening," Rodenfels said. "A trip by taxi over a mountain into the city is exciting with the busy four-lane highway serving as the only surface entrance into the city from the busy seaport located near the airport."

The country's capital city is located in a valley stretching some 20 miles in length. The city is filled with constant traffic snarls and gives one the impression of being new with the abundance of modern buildings. "Most business was delayed with a two-hour siesta between the hours of noon and 2 p.m. adding more traffic problems as most workers tried to drive home and return to their jobs during those hours," he said.

The newspaper publishers heard reports of freedom of the press and information about a number of foreign countries during the five-day session. A lengthy debate on CIA involvement in Chile, reports on the situation in Peru from newspaper editors, who had just visited there, plus reports from exiled publishers.

An Iranian ambassador to Venezuela led a stimulating session on oil and energy as he defended the action of the OPEC nations and suggested the non-oil producing nations start burning their trees for heat.

That prompted a newsprint manufacturer later to say if that suggestion was followed "we would soon have to find a way to make paper out of oil."

The ambassador claimed the Venezuelans were not responsible for the rampant inflation in the United States by increasing oil prices, but did request that the U.S. reduce its use of oil because Venezuela is concerned with depleting its supplies.

The group of newspaper publishers was entertained at the official residence of Venezuelan President Carlos Andres Perez. The Venezuelan president said "the press in the industrial nations pay little attention to events and issues in Latin America." He also said Venezuela is a country where there are no limitations on the exercise of freedom of the press and freedom of expression.

Following the sessions held in Caracas the group engaged in a sightseeing tour. Angel Falls was a breathtaking sight, falling from a height of 3,280 feet. The group stopped overnight at Canaima, accessible only by airplane, with its vast lagoon beached by rose-colored sand. A trip from the camp by dugout into the jungle and a visit with some of the Indians in their primitive surroundings; Guri Dam, which provides electric power for the entire country and Ciudad Guayana, which is on its way to becoming one of the most productive industrial cities in South America, were other stops.

A flight to the Maracaibo oil fields as guests of the Creole Petroleum Corp. was aborted about half way when trouble developed in one of the plane's engines.

THE RODENFELS also visited the island of Margarita, off the northeastern coast of Venezuela, where they viewed the islanders in their quaint villages and towns. The island is the pearl capital of the world.

On the return flight, the group landed for customs at Dulles International Airport in Washington D.C. before the final flight to Kennedy International Airport.

"It was a great experience meeting them and learning of their problems," Rodenfels said. "We as newspaper publishers must continue to fight to insure that the U.S. press remains free from all government interference."

Jeff firemen receive course certificates

JEFFERSONVILLE — Seventeen members of the Jeffersonville Fire Department received certificates recently for completing 36 hours of instruction in firefighting skills and techniques at the conclusion of the last class period.

Individual cards were presented to each fireman. A department certificate was presented to Jeffersonville Fire Chief Lindy Sharrett by Lt. Cecil D. Seaman, of the Washington C.H. Fire Department.

The certificates and cards as well as the instruction, were authorized and made available by the Trade and Industrial Vocational Education Service of the Ohio Department of Education, in cooperation with the Great Oaks Joint Vocational School District.

He commended the men for their interest in the training and for the cooperation he received. He pointed out that many community fire departments were requesting training and that interest in fire prevention and protection was growing throughout the state.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—An Aurora, Ill., truck driver continued his trip after being hit in the back Wednesday by a spent bullet that apparently had been fired across the Ohio River from Kentucky.

Curtis Latham, 68, suffered only a blister and a bruise from the .22-caliber bullet, one of several believed fired from Dayton, Ky., about a mile across the river.

Latham said he heard one shot, then a second, which hit him. He heard a third shot minutes later.

AAUW attend fall workshop

The fall workshop for the Ohio State Division of American Association of University Women was held Saturday in Columbus at Imperial House North.

The theme of the workshop was "International Involvement." Members heard Mrs. Nancy Arneson, a member of the staff of Governor John J. Gilligan read a statement on behalf of Governor Gilligan proclaiming 1975 "International Women's Year in Ohio." Proclamations of this nature have been made in the United Nations by the Secretary General and by the United States Government. All were asked to intensify the effort underway to further advance the status of women nationally and internationally.

Addressing the meeting was Mrs. Beverly Everett, the National Associations 1973-75 Topic chairwoman for Global Interdependence: Budgeting for Earth. She gave a review of the "Quality of Life" seminar for 1974 International Federation of University Women's Conference held in Japan. Mrs. Everett is from Iowa and has been quite active in a great variety of areas.

Members attending from Washington C.H. were Mrs. Edity Parsley, president; Mrs. Mary M. Merritt, second vice president; and Mrs. Stephanie Krupla, media chairwoman. They attended special workshop sessions and besides the featured speaker were able to hear Mrs. Emily L. Leedy, Director of Women's Services, Division of Ohio Bureau of Employment Services speak about new projects being started to aid women gain employment or to assist them in locating a training for jobs available.

The Pony League football team and cheerleaders, sponsored by Frisch's Big Boy, held the banquet in Persinger Hall, First Presbyterian Church. The speaker's table was decorated with red football helmets filled with red and white flowers. In the center was also placed the football game with the words "Co-champ 1974" inscribed. The other tables had a red and white theme with flowers and football helmets also. Mrs. David Fabb gave the invocation and meals from Frisch's were enjoyed by all.

Coach Ralph Tate spoke to the guests about the importance of leadership, goals, attitude and education in athletics as well as in life.

Coach Eddlemon thanked the parents for their cooperation throughout this successful season.

Alpha Delta chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma held the October dinner-meeting in the Terrace Lounge Monday evening, when 41 members responded to roll call. Mrs. Walter Seifried gave the invocation.

"The Gospel in Art" was presented by Mrs. Bert Frye, assisted by Sonya Nelson.

Mrs. Frye studied at John Herron Art Institute Indianapolis, Ind., and has traveled extensively presenting programs in civic groups, churches, youth groups, missions, Indian Reservations and in prisons. She draws with multi-colored and fluorescent chalks and employs 'mercury vaporlight' for three dimensional effects. Mrs. Frye accompanies her work with commentary and musical recordings. The theme was the Twenty-Third Psalm. Her artistry and message were appreciated by all.

Following her presentation, group singing was led by Mrs. John Rhoads who also accompanied at the piano.

Mrs. Karl Harper conducted the business meeting, and an invitation to attend a luncheon-meeting on Saturday, Nov. 2, at the Lake White Lodge was extended by the Waverly chapter. Several members plan to attend.

Mrs. Faye J. Mayo gave a very interesting biographical sketch of Miss Gladys Melson, who attended the meeting.

Cards were signed and sent to three members who are ill.

Silver Belles install officers

Eleven members of the Silver Belles Grandmothers Club met in the home of Mrs. Ted Merritt for a noon carry-in luncheon. A Halloween theme prevailed.

The salute to the American and Christian flags was made and new officers were installed by Mrs. Frances Toops and Mrs. Blanche Merritt.

Those installed were: President, Mrs. Phillip Ford; first vice president, Jean Warner; second vice president, Mrs. Minnie Fackler; secretary, Mrs. Esther Edwards; treasurer, Mrs. Roy Smith; and chaplain, Mrs. Merritt.

Mrs. Merritt presented devotions by reading Scripture and an article entitled "October." New year books were given to members and donations were made to the Ruth Lyons Christmas Fund and Children's Hospital, Columbus.

"Remember the Clothes we Wore" was the title of a poem read by Mrs. Edith Scott and "Praying Hands."

Mrs. Scott will be hostess for the Nov. 26 meeting.

The Christmas carry-in lunch will be Dec. 23 in the home of Mrs. Pauline Toops.

Those present were Mrs. Ralph Carpenter, Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. Fackler, Mrs. Verna Grim, Mrs. Merritt, Mrs. William Rockhold, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Roy Smith, Mrs. Frances Toops, Mrs. Pauline Toops and Mrs. Ford.

CF Board plans dinner Nov. 25

The Paint Valley Camp Fire Council met for a board meeting Monday evening in the CF office with Mr. Frank Sanderson in charge.

The annual dinner planned for Nov. 25, at First Presbyterian Church was discussed and reservations must be made with Mrs. Charles Zinn by Nov. 14. Entertainment will be presented by the Miami Trace Folksingers.

50th pre-election supper planned

The annual pre-Election Day supper will be held in the annex of the Bloomingburg Presbyterian Church on Monday from 5 to 8:30 p.m. Tickets are available from any church member or at the door that evening. Tickets are $2.25 for adults, and $1.25 for childen under 12 years of age.

The supper started in 1924 before the church annex was built. Tables at that time were set up in front of the Sunday School classroom and some cooking was done in small classrooms on two-burner hot plates. Water had to be carried inside. Much of the cooking for the meal was also done in homes by church members who lived near by and brought to the church to be served.

Husbands guests

Alpha Theta Chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority, entertained at a potluck supper for their husbands. A square dance was also a feature in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hoppes.

The event was held in the barn which had been decorated in a traditional fall decor with bales of straw, corn and a scarecrow.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zechman, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hoppes, Mrs. and Mrs. John Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Mickey Barker, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Ratliff, Mr. and Mrs. John Bernard, Mr. and Mrs. David Pellior, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Vrettos, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rankin, Miss Karen Shook, Ronnie Burke, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hoppes.

4-H club advisors fete set tonight

The Fayette County 4-H Junior Leadership Club will pay tribute to the adult advisors of the local 4-H chapters during a banquet at the Mahan Building Thursday night.

In all, some 160 adults have contributed their time and energy during the past year to insure the continuing success of the 4-H program in Fayette County. The banquet, which will begin at 6 p.m., is the means by which the youngsters who participate in the program can express their gratitude.

Bill Schaefer, one of the junior leaders, will speak for the 4-H participants in giving tribute to the adults. Bret Taylor, president of the junior leaders, will be the master of ceremonies.

Vernon Stanforth, who spent the summer in Norway under the American Field Service program, will discuss his experiences following the dinner.

Co-sponsors of the banquet are the Producers Livestock Association, the Federal Land Bank Association, the Fayette County Fair Board, and the Production Credit Association.

Robert L. Lowe, 27, Ohio 41-S, was fined a total of $150 Wednesday in Municipal Court by Judge Omar Schwart after he pleaded guilty to two traffic charges.

Lowe was fined $50 on a reckless operation charge and $100 on a charge of driving without an operator's license. A three-month jail sentence was suspended on the condition he does not drive without a license.

A case charging Audry Hoagland, Bloomingburg, had obtained control over certain property without the owner's consent was dismissed for insufficient evidence by Judge Schwart. Ms. Hoagland had pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Robert Barnhart, 238½ E. Main St., was fined $50 after he pleaded guilty to blocking a railroad crossing.

In other traffic cases heard Wednesday, Denise E. Matthews, 20, of 1539 Chillicothe Road, was fined $25 for failure to yield to oncoming traffic.

Ford opens western trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, who already has traveled nearly 17,000 miles and campaigned in 16 states, is embarking on a final six-state Western effort to help elect embattled Republican candidates.

Ford was flying today to Los Angeles via Sioux City, Iowa, where he scheduled an airport rally in behalf of Rep. Wiley Mayne. The President was to attend both a fund-raising reception and dinner in Los Angeles.

The three-day swing will continue Friday with another airport rally at Fresno, Calif., aimed at boosting the chances of Rep. Robert B. Mathias.

The President, who rarely alters his campaign arguments that Democrats are inflation-promoting big spenders who would fashion a "legislative dictatorship," was going from Fresno to Portland, Ore., for five appearances later in the day.

His first Portland stop will be a regional White House Conference on Domestic and Economic Affairs to be attended by more than 600 representatives of business, labor, consumers, and environmentalists.

Arrest pair in Chicago burglary

CHICAGO (AP) — Authorities on Grand Cayman Island in the British West Indies have arrested two men charged in connection with a $4.3 million theft at the Armored Express Corp. here, the FBI says.

There was no indication whether any of the money had been recovered in the largest cash haul of any U.S. robbery.

In a complaint filed with the U.S. magistrate's office here on Wednesday, Marzano, DiFonzo and Marzano's cousin, William Anthony Marzano, were charged with bank burglary, bank larceny and illegal use of explosives.

The FBI said it did not know where William Marzano is.

Earlier, three other men, including an Armored Express guard, were charged with the same crimes in connection with the Oct. 20 heist in which thieves hauled away 800 pounds of small bills in a van.

A 1973 Lincoln Continental found Tuesday near an Executive Jet Aviation Inc., hangar at the airport in Columbus, Ohio, had been rented in Chicago by those charged, authorities said.

They said DeFonzo and Marzano evidently drove to Columbus the day after the burglary and leased a jet for $3,500. They said Peter Gushi, 47, also charged, and another unidentified man were believed to have flown as far as Miami.

Carl Stokes divorce final

NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — A final divorce decree has been granted former Cleveland Mayor Carl Stokes and his wife Shirley, it was learned Wednesday.

The divorce was granted Tuesday in Essex County Court. The couple has been separated since January, 1973.

Under terms of the settlement, Stokes will have custody of the couple's three children and will pay his wife alimony for two years. Mrs. Stokes also will receive the proceeds from the sale of their Montclair home.

The divorce was granted under New Jersey's no-fault divorce law.

Hit-skip reported

The only auto accident reported today was a hit-skip, investigated by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department.

Mann's auto had been parked at Red's Tavern, U.S. 35-SE in Union Township, between 9:30 p.m. and 11:45 p.m. Wednesday when it was struck. Sheriff's deputies are investigating the mishap.

Most of the popular garden flowers known today sprang from the wild fields of Greece and take their names from legendary heroes and goddesses.

By SANDY WOODMANSEE

I'd like to start off by saying thanks to Jack Sanders, President of the Fayette County Pilot's Association and his wife Donna who accompanied the children from the Fayette County Children's Home on a tour of the Air Force Museum at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base. Mrs. Lucas also went along. The children enjoyed the tour very much and were complimented on their good behavior.

Traffic in this past week has been Thomas Industries' twin Beech, a Cherokee 140 from Regina, Sascatchewan, Canada with business at Mac Tool, and a twin Cessna from Columbua, South Carolina.

Bar examination passed by 1,085

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some 93 per cent of the 1,170 persons who took the bar examination this past summer passed, the Ohio Supreme Court announced today.

The oath of office to the 1,085 successful applicants for admission to the state bar will be administered Nov. 8 by Justice J. J. P. Corrigan.

The highest grade on the exam was 304 of a possible 360 points by Thomas Charles Stevens of Cleveland, a graduate of Duke University School of Law. The next highest grade of 303.5 went to Paul Grant Crist of Cleveland, a graduate of New York University School of Law.

Mayor wants GOP endangered species

WASHINGTON (AP) — The GOP mayor of Youngstown, Ohio, has asked Congress to declare Republicans an endangered species and make it a crime to turn them out of office.

Mayor Jack Hunter made the request of Rep. Charles J. Carney, D-Ohio. He asked Carney to introduce a bill adding GOP politicians to the endangered species list if the November elections prove as disastrous to Republicans as has been predicted.

PTO contest

The Wayne Elementary School PTO is sponsoring a pre-Thanksgiving fund-raising contest with prizes of a 20-pound turkey or a 15-pound ham for adults and a football or a pair of Levis dolls for students to be given away.

Tickets may be purchased from any Good Hope student or PTO member with the contest to be held Nov. 18.

I wish to thank the people of Washington C.H. for their patronage during the past 2½ years. As announced, the Dave Dennis VW Agency has moved to Dayton and I will be glad to serve you there.

Thank You,

Surplus property given away

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Close to $2.4 million in surplus federal government property was donated to Ohio institutions in August, the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare announced.

Through a surplus property utilization program, obsolete or unnecessary items are offered for distribution to tax-supported or non-profit health, education and civil defense organizations, HEW said.

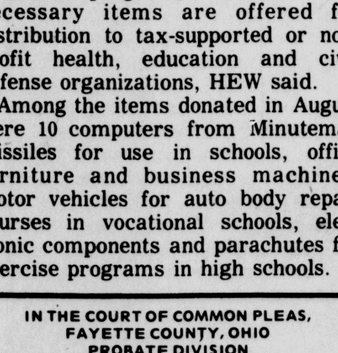

Among the items donated in August were 10 computers from Minuteman missiles for use in schools, office furniture and business machines, motor vehicles for auto body repair courses in vocational schools, electronic components and parachutes for exercise programs in high schools.

Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra

Wilmington to host area artist series

For the sixth consecutive year the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra area artist series will be presented in Wilmington.

This season the three-concert series will feature the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, the Symphony Jazz Septet and the Heritage Chamber Quartet.

The series will open on Tuesday, December 3, with a concert by the full 95-member Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra under the baton of resident conductor Erich Kunzel. The orchestra tours regularly throughout the tri-state area of Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky, and brings music to many communities that would not otherwise have opportunity to hear live performances by a major symphony orchestra. The Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra will perform in Hermann Court at Wilmington College at 8 p.m.

On Monday, February 24, the Symphony Jazz Septet will present a concert at Locust Street Junior High School at 8 p.m. A group of seven gifted and versatile musicians, the Septet has evolved over the past few years from a jazz quartet made up of Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra musicians. The group regularly appears on the University of Cincinnati's Artist Series and is featured at the University's annual Jazz Festival.

The area artist series in Wilmington will conclude with a concert by the Heritage Chamber Quartet on Wednesday, April 2, in Boyd Auditorium at Wilmington College at 8 p.m. Ensemble-in-residence at the University of Cincinnati College-Conservatory of Music since 1967, the quartet is one of the leading chamber music ensembles of its kind, specializing in baroque and contemporary music. Because there are few compositions written for this unique combination of instruments - flute, oboe, double bass and harpsichord - the quartet makes its own arrangements of works written for other instruments and has had several works composed especially for their group.

Tickets for the three-concert series are available in Washington C.H. from Mrs. Ben Wood (335-1606) or Neil Arthur (335-8494). Series ticket prices are $15 for patrons, $8.50 for adults and $5 for students.

Reye's syndrome eyed by doctors

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Doctors from throughout the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico gathered in Columbus Tuesday and Wednesday for the first major conference on Reye's Syndrome, a mysterious and lethal childhood disease.

The mechanism, cause and treatment of Reye's Syndrome are still unknown, Dr. Charles B. Reiner, a Pathologist at Children's Hospital, said during a news conference held by a panel of the sponsoring physicians.

Reye's Syndrome is an uncontagious, relatively rare disease which attacks children and teenagers who have just suffered certain viral infections, such as chicken pox or influenza, said Dr. Lawrence Corey of the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga.

A small outbreak of the syndrome last year, following a nationwide epidemic of influenza, led to increased public and physicians' awareness of the little known disease, Corey said.

The Center for Disease Control received reports of 428 suspect cases for the winter season, he said. The syndrome is fatal in about 50 per cent of the cases.

The syndrome is thought to be a metabolic disturbance affecting the liver which is triggered somehow by the viral infection, the doctors explained. The result is an abnormally high level of ammonia in the blood which is toxic to the brain and the central nervous system. However, there is no proven explanation of the disease.

A child with Reye's Syndrome is overcome with uncontrollable nausea and vomiting, drowsiness, convulsions, delirium and in the final stage, coma, Corey said.

"Scrupulous supportive care is most important" in the treatment of the syndrome, said Dr. Morey W. Haymond, professor of pediatrics at Washington University in St. Louis.

"As of the moment, there is no universally accepted modality of therapy," Corey said.

The concluding session of the conference was a presentation of the various methods used in different hospitals around the U.S. Three methods of curative therapy now being experimented with are exchange blood transfusions, dialysis and glucose-insulin therapy, the doctor said.

Non-partisan ballot

By GEORGE MALEK

Although the ballot of court judges and state school board members is carefully labeled non-partisan, it seems each year that opposing judges emerge with the backing of opposing parties — the November ballot is no exception.

SUPREME COURT

Chief Justice

The incumbent C. William O'Neill is a former state attorney general. He has served as chief justice for the past four years and was named the Most Outstanding Appellate Court Judge in the United States for 1974 by the Association of Trial Lawyers of America. He has the Republican Party endorsement.

Joseph E. O'Neill is currently a Seventh District Court of Appeals judge, Youngstown. The Democrats choice for chief justice, he endorsed by the Ohio AFL-CIO and Ohio UAW-CAP Council, as are the other judges backed by Democrats.

SUPREME COURT JUSTICE

Thomas M. Herbert is a veteran jurist now completing his 14th year as an elected public official. He currently holds the position of Senior Associate Justice of the court. He is the Republican choice.

Clifford F. Brown is currently the Sixth District Court of Appeals, Toledo. A World War II veteran, Brown has served as a judge for 17 years and has practiced law for 36 years. He has the Democratic Party support.

SUPREME COURT JUSTICE

Frank D. Celebrezze selected by the Democrats is seeking to retain his seat on the Supreme Court bench. Prior to his selection to the court, he served as a stater senator and Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court judge.

Sheldon A. Taft, the Republican-supported candidate, has practiced law for nearly 10 years. He has served as assistant attorney general of Ohio and the chief legal counsel to the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

2nd District Court of Appeals

Robert L. McBride is a veteran of 28 years on the court benches. He is currently serving on the Montgomery County Common Pleas Court bench and is endorsed by the Dayton Bar Association. He is the author of several legal volumes. He has Democratic backing.

Jack H. Berger, the Republican choice, has served nine years on the Kettering Municipal Court bench. He has presided over more jury trials than any other municipal judge in Montgomery County, and has not had a single case retried because of judicial error during that time.

STATE SCHOOL BOARD

Ward M. Miller has served on the state board of education for more than a decade. He is seeking return to the board from the Sixth District.

Jean Bildsten, of Chillicothe, is a member of the general advisory board to the Pickaway-Ross County Joint Vocational School. She stresses the need for better evaluation practices so that teachers who need to improve their classroom technique will be encouraged to do so. She is a registered nurse and served two years as a part-time worker with Vietnam veterans at the Chillicothe Veterans Administration Hospital.

COMMON PLEAS COURT

Evelyn W. Coffman will return for a third term as Fayette County Common Pleas Court judge. She has been on the bench for 12 years and will begin another six years.

Flash floods hit texas; 7 missing

Portions of Texas were hit by flash floods and heavy rains and downpours also dampened much of the rest of the nation Wednesday night and early today.

A flash flood on Nolan Creek at Killeen, Tex., swept away an auto and several mobile homes during the night. Seven persons were unaccounted for, authorities said.

More than six inches of rain fell at Eagle Mountain Lake in Tarrant County, Tex. Flooding of up to six feet was reported in some homes in Lindsey and Gainsville, Tex. Gusty winds overturned several trailer homes at Ozona, Tex., and one southeast of Kansas City, Mo., which was drenched with 3½ inches of rain.

Thunderstorms that soaked central and southeastern Texas pushed all the way into the Upper Mississippi Valley, but temperatures remained mild through most of the Midwest and Northeast. Rain also damped the Upper Rockies, much of the Pacific coast from northern California to the Canadian border and New England.

Blue laws are upheld

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pennsylvania Supreme Court has upheld the constitutionality of the state's blue laws while striking down a provision which allowed family-owned stores to stay open Sunday.

"The state has a valid interest in providing a day of rest and recreation for members of the public, and general proscriptions against Sunday sales are constitutional.

"Many exceptions to the general prohibitions have been upheld because of a recognition can be enhanced by the employment of some on the day set aside for the rest and recreation of others."

The challenge to the Sunday closing policy was brought by Nate Goodman, operator of an Erie grocery known as the Paul Bunyan Store, who filed suit in Erie County Common Pleas Court in 1972.

Goodman's action, technically seeking an injunction against enforcement of the blue laws, came after his store and 28 others in Erie County were charged with violating the Sunday sales prohibition.

Ancient trade hard to abandon for elderly Columbus brothers

BY MARK THELLMANN

Carl Ruzicka stopped tapping with what looked like a primitive axe of some sort, stood upright bending his 63-year-old body in a convex stretch and proclaimed, "This is one of the two oldest professions in the world and I don't think I have to tell you what the other one is," he mused with his eyes twinkling, "and I'm very proud to be apart of it."

Ruzicka and five of his brothers entered into his father's trade of stone masonry in their early teens. His father had learned the trade in Germany before he came to the United States during the turn of the century and had told his sons, "It's good, honest work which gives you room to flex your muscles in the sunshine and money enough to live decently."

Carl and his 65-year-old brother George, after almost 50 years in the trade, were now doing just that; flexing their muscles in the sunshine, remodeling the stone front on the Howard Osborne mansion across from the Fayette County Museum on Washington Avenue, which has become the new site of the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home, to be completed in mid-November.

BUT, what were these two men in their sixties doing, pounding and lifting heavy rocks when they should be home adding to their stamp collections or working crossword puzzles, while sitting in rocking chairs and smoking pipes?

Carl had a pointed answer. "There just isn't anyone around anymore who does this kinda stuff. We were half begged and half fast-talked into coming out of retirement in order to help out and now here we are. George and I don't have any sense anymore. This job is too big — oh, we'll get it done, but we aren't going to look for anymore work afterwards!" Carl exclaimed.

George, who was on a scaffold laying the stones in thick layers of mortar, motioned to Carl for more stone and the tapping began once again.

The two brothers from Columbus, along with Homer Evans, 64, an employe of Great Oaks Construction Co., Inc., were the only three working on this aspect of the remodeling project.

Carl looked up from his work and muttered, "This would be going a lot faster if we could get some decent help who knew what to do. Setting the stone goes more quickly than the cutting so, there should be two people on the cutting detail."

When Carl was asked how he and his brother were found and contracted to do the job, he replied, "George has worked in Washington C. H. before. He did the stone work on Grace United Methodist Church, while working for Great Oaks Construction Co., under general superintendent, Bob Whitaker, who is also heading up this job. When your skilled in a dying trade and you've left your calling card on the good work you've done in the past, it's hard to hide."

Carl added that he and George, together with two other brothers and his father, had also constructed the post office in Greenfield, in 1937.

It was George who responded when asked what was so skillful about breaking rocks?

"I'd let you try it and see for yourself if we had any to spare," he replied, "but, we've been having a hard enough time getting the materials we need. Some of the stone, which was set here when construction on this place was originally started in 1897 and finished in 1902 (becoming a family mansion) came from a carport we dismantled. However, that amount of stone wasn't enough for all the revisions the Kinzer's had in mind. We had to get more from a quarry around the Leesburg area and since the old stone had come from a quarry (which is now the city dump) in Greenfield, the color matched pretty well. We also ordered some from Portsmouth for an arch we are putting up."

George continued, "Anyway, to cut a stone you have to understand the grain patterns and know the mineral composition. Then and only then can you get it to break where and when you want it to, making the back of the stone flat to be mortared against the wall and the front projected to give the appropriate appearance."

(Please turn to page 15)

County's CAC gets $20,625

Legislation recently approved by Congress allocates almost $120,000 to eighth community action programs in Ohio. The Fayette County Community Action Commission will receive $20,625 to be used for the period of Oct. 1-Dec. 30.

The amount allocated to each organization was determined by the size of the program and the duration of time covered by ther grant. The money is to be used for normal operating expenses.

In addition to the local organization, those receiving money for the next three months were Adams-Brown Counties Economic Opportunities, $37,600; the Clinton County Community Action Program, $22.074; the Highland County Community Action Commission, $15,250; the Pickaway County Community Action Commission, $23,274; Pike County Community Action Commission, $20,250 and the Ross County Community Action Commission, $32,025.

Receiving funding for one month was the Community Action Organization of Scioto County located in Portsmouth. it received $28,333 for the month beginning Oct. 1.

Prisoner strike at Lebanon over

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Supt. William Dallman said 10 inmates have been placed in isolation in the wake of an aborted prisoner strike Wednesday at the Lebanon Correctional Institute.

Dallman said prison officials began their investigation late last week after intercepting 1,500 flyers from a group calling itself "The Seventh World Liberation Front."

The flyers urged prisoners to strike for $1 an hour for prison work. Inmates now are paid 10 cents an hour. The prison produces auto license tags.

The flyers called the state a "profit making monster."

Dear Citizen:

Come join First Federal in a drive to secure a federal income tax exemption of interest you receive on your savings.

Passage of H.R. 16994 by the Congress would give you an exemption for the first $500 ($1000 on a joint return), or portion thereof, of savings interest on your tax return.

This tax saving, helpful to you in these times, will have an anti-inflationary impact too. It will provide more money for home mortgage loans, revive home building, provide jobs in construction and related business and produce a net gain in tax revenues.

Show your Congressman you support H.R. 16994. Petitions are in our office ready for you to sign now.

Hurry in to sign. The petitions will be mailed to Congressmen November 20th.

TWENTY YEARS HARD LABOR? — Carl Ruzicka has been involved in 50 years of this hard labor, but it's not hard to him. Being a stone mason has been a very satisfying and pleasureable vocation and in his words, "it's treated me right." He and his brother George are constructing the stone front on the new Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home.

p.m. and responding negatively when greeted at the front door with, "How did your day go, dear?" Carl and George feel differently, for they are constantly surrounded by their work.

George, when he returns to his Columbus home, sees the stone front he cut and set and Carl often watches a steak cooked on the stone backyard barbecue he constructed along with a stone wall, in place of the traditional wooden property-line fence.

You can bet Carl and George will be enjoying their retirement together as much as they've enjoyed working together. The brothers live only three or four miles from each other and each have three children (two girls and a boy), who have presented them with five grandchildren apiece.

Being as rugged and fond of the outdoors as the two men are, they probably won't be collecting stamps or working crossword puzzles, but they may not have to worry about what to do in their anticipated spare time; it's awful hard to turn someone away after they've told you, "You're the only one left, possessing the skill and knowhow to do this stone-cutting job I want to tell you about. . . ."

POSITION ON AGRICULTURE

I. The environmental protection agency is a necessary part of our society, but their rules and regulations should not be so restrictive as to adversely effect the production of food in this state.

II. Any agency making rules at the state level that effects the farmer should have input from people with agricultural backgrounds. The policies should be subject to the approval of the Department of Agriculture.

III. We must have a land use policy that stops rich productive farm lands from being taken out of production and used for other purposes.

IV. The five acre minimum tract law for subdivision regulations should be greatly increased. I intend to introduce this piece of legislation.

One of the problems of the farmer is that he has no representation in the State Legislature. At present there are only three people with a good solid background in agriculture serving in the Ohio House. I have a life time of experience in the field of agriculture, while my opponent has none. Farmers should have no difficulty making a decision in this election.

Renovation of downtown mall progressing; target date set

Renovation of the former Midland Grocery Co. Building is progressing smoothly, and occupancy of the structure is expected sometime in January, according to Lloyd Cartwright, president of the corporation which has purchased the building.

Soon to be known as the Main Street Mall, the main floor of the three-story structure will house eight offices which are scheduled for completion early next year.

THE SHADY LANE CO., a Washington C.H.-based partnership, purchased the building last spring. The partnership is comprised of Lloyd, Loren, Gary and Jack Cartwright.

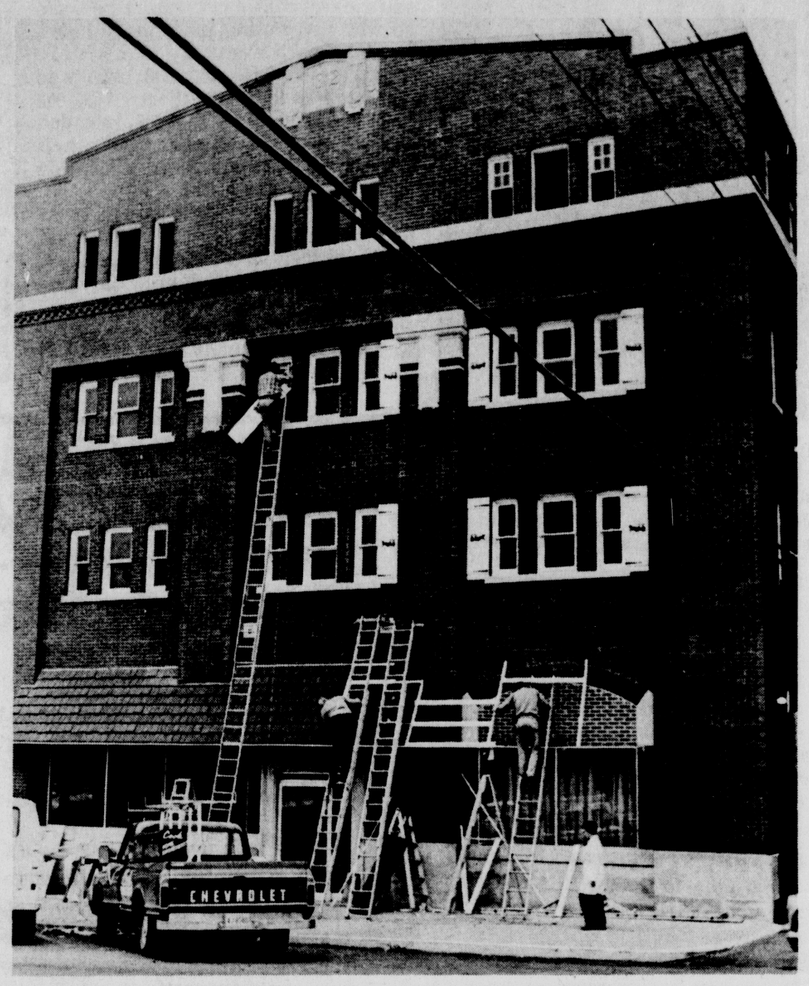

The new plumbing has already received state approval, the electrical wiring is nearly complete and work on the new walls is progressing rapidly. The exterior of the building has received a facelift.

The Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce will occupy one of the first-floor offices. Others who are scheduled to move into the Main Street building initially are Polk Real Estate, William Pool Insurance, and Sabre Systems, Inc., a tax consulting company. Tentative arrangements have been completed for the other four offices, one of which is expected to be a local attorney's office.

A number of local personnel have expressed an interest in assuming office space on the second floor which will be completed some time later, and it appears that the basement will house several small shops.

THE CONSTRUCTION work has been done entirely by local firms, and the materials have all been purchased locally, a fact which the Shady Lane Co. points to with pride.

"We except the building will be an asset to the community and are happy to have local people involved in the renovation project," Cartwright said.

FACELIFT UNDERWAY — The former Midland Building is changing personalities as well as faces. Soon to be known as the Main Street Mall, the structure will house a number of shops and offices. The building was purchased in April by the Washington C.H.-based Shady Lane Co., and is expected to be ready for occupancy in January.

The third floor will eventually be remodeled for offices, and the freight elevator currently in use will be replaced by a passenger elevator. Parking facilities will also be available for the building's new tenants.

Arab summit jolts peace hopes

By The Associated Press

American peace efforts in the Middle East have been jolted by the Arab summit decisions at Rabat. But while this has revived talk of a new round of war as a distinct possibility, the outlook isn't necessarily all that black.

What can be done to avert the threat? After the Morocco summit, some observers are persuaded to speculate that perhaps the time has come for a put up or shut up challenge to the Soviet Union's policy of detente.

The argument is that there are only two alternatives: a new Arab-Israeli war with the concomitant disaster it could mean to the industrialized world or continued reliance on diplomacy.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger now has some new problems he didn't need and the going is likely to be tough. But it would seem that this was as good a time as any for Moscow to demonstrate its genuine interest in a peaceful world.

Because the Arab leaders unanimously recognized the Palestine Liberation Organization as the only representative of the Palestinians, it's doubtful whether there can be a Geneva conference on a Middle East settlement.

There had been a possibility Israel could make a deal with King Hussein of Jordan to return to his control the West Bank territory his grandfather annexed in 1948 and Hussein lost in the 1967 war.

The Arabs say Jordan can still negotiate, but things are different now. Hussein would be doing so with the PLO, the Syrians and others looking over his shoulder, none of them his friends.

Arab statements give Israel good reason to be convinced that a PLO-ruled state would be just a first step. The Arabs proclaim a minimum goal of a secular state for all of what was Palestine before the 1948 war. That would mean no more Jewish national home.

Israel cannot tolerate the prospect of the West Bank in the hands of an entity pledged to her destruction, so even moderate voices speculate gloomily on a new round of war.

The speculation is quickened by the decision of the Arab oil rulers to lavish $2.5 billion on Egypt, Syria, Jordan and the PLO. The money will go to a war economy chest and the Arabs are likely to be seized with the idea that they cannot lose. To avert such a development, the Israelis might ponder a preventive war.

There are some indications, however, that the Arab rulers are being cautious. They seem at pains to note that the door is still open to the Kissinger stepby-step approach to some sort of settlement.

To sell Israel on any negotiations with the Arabs it would be necessary to persuade her she won't be asked to negotiate away her existence as a Jewish state. Only the two superpowers together could provide the guarantees.

Can the Soviet Union, in view of all this, now be tested? Is detente important enough to the Kremlin to persuade it to restrain its Arab clients and demonstrate its interest in a peaceful world by cooperating in a search for a way out of a highly perilous situation?

New reports clear way for Rocky

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressmen on House and Senate confirmation committees say they have found no major disclosures in new FBI and financial reports that would block Nelson A. Rockefeller's confirmation as vice president.

House Judiciary Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., told newsmen Wednesday there is something new in a 2,300-page FBI report but refused to indicate what it is.

Other members said after a closed door briefing on the report that it has new details but no major new disclosures.

"There are no new bombshells," said Rep. Henry P. Smith, R-N.Y.

Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., a member of the Senate Rules Committee, at the same time, said a comprehensive congressional report on Rockefeller's finances also has nothing in it that would block his confirmation.

But Rodino said hard questions will be put to Rockefeller about his previously disclosed wealth and some $2 million in gifts and loans to determine that no improper financial influence was used.

Mob battles Thieu's police

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — More than 2,000 antigovernment demonstrators battled with riot police in Saigon today in the most violent protest against President Nguyen Van Thieu since he came to power nearly 10 years ago.

Scores of persons were reported injured.

The police crackdown after two months of mounting protests began at dawn with raids on a Vietnamese press center and a church where an activist Roman Catholic priest, the Rev. Tran Huu Thanh, had organized a demonstration.

Steel-helmeted riot troops beat at least two Catholic priests, several anti-Thieu members of the National Assembly and a number of Vietnamese newsmen.

Father Thanh's Catholic Anti-Corruption Movement, which has been leading the protests, demanded Thieu's immediate resignation.

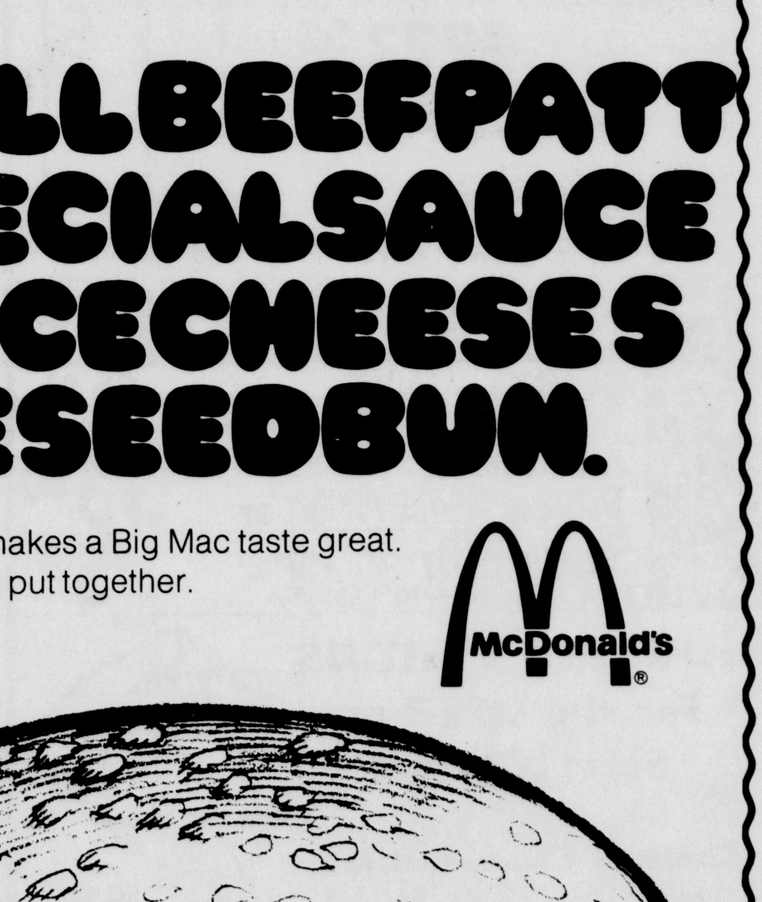

After the raids, the police barricaded main streets leading to the center of the city. But the demonstrators persisted in attempts to march to the National Assembly building. They battled the police with rocks, fists and a few gasoline bombs at six points.

The violence paralyzed the city of three million people.

McEwen cites growing support in campaign

Bob McEwen, candidate for state representative from Ohio's 77th District, today cited growing support for his bid to replace State Rep. Joseph F. Hiestand, who is retiring this year.

McEwen, who supports the continued election of all county officials, cited a letter from Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan to county office holders in the district expressing the governor's support for the position McEwen has held.

The letter stated in part:

"I (Gov. Gilligan) am opposed to the proposition that any elected county office — auditor, treasurer, engineer or recorder — be made an appointive office. I believe that any such proposal seeks to take away from the people the power to choose their own leaders, in violation of everything I have stood for in my political career."

The letter continued, "The recommendation that these offices be changed or abolished came from the Local Government Services Commission, which I appointed. But the fact that the commission made the recommendation does not change my own position in opposition to these changes."

McEwen said his opponent, a member of the Local Government Services Commission, has repeatedly expressed his belief that certain county offices be abolished as elective offices.

McEwen concluded by saying, "After traveling nearly 40,000 miles across this district since November of last year, I am convinced that the people of Ohio's 77th District believe, as I do, that local accountability and local decision making give the best government. Whether or not we want our local officials to be appointed for us or elected by us is the clear choice in this race Nov. 5."

Students return at Pickerington

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP) — Students returned to classes at Pickerington High School on Wednesday after an unscheduled week of vacation caused by a fire last week.

The early morning fire Oct. 21 gutted the school library. Several classrooms, the office, teachers' lounge and other areas were damaged by smoke and water. Damage was estimated at $750,000.

The high school has 1,100 students in grades 6 through 12, attending split sessions.

School Supt. Don Heft said five classrooms still need cleaning. Four will be ready by Monday and a fifth will need extensive repairs, he said.

Ruling set in murder

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Hamilton County Juvenile Court Judge Benjamin Schwartz will rule Monday morning on whether a 16-year-old should be tried as an adult in connection with the kidnap-murder of a retirement home executive.

Schwartz ordered physical and mental examinations for Willie Lee Bell, 16, of Cincinnati on Wednesday after hearing evidence involving the Oct. 23 death of Julius Graber, 65, who was shot twice in the face with a sawed-off shotgun.

Schwartz ruled there was probable cause to turn Bell over to adult authorities, but withheld a decision pending the examinations.

Samuel Hall, 19, Cincinnati, remained in custody of Montgomery County authorities in connection with kidnap and robbery charges in Vandalia. He is also charged with kidnap and murder in the Graber case.

Police said Graber was abducted in the parking lot of his apartment building, forced into the trunk of his car, driven to a cemetery and shot to death.

Pension fund secretary dies

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The executive secretary of the Ohio Police and Firemen's Disability and pension Fund, Franklin Kropp, died Tuesday in Washington D.C.

He had held the post of executive secretary since the pension fund's creation in 1966, and served as assistant Ohio attorney general from 1952-1957.

87 resisters report in

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—One Ohio draft evader and 86 deserters from the Buckeye State, have reported to the state office of the Selective Service System under the blanket of Presidential clemency, Ohio's draft director says.

Paul Corey said five of the 86 returning deserters are working as hospital orderlies as alternative service. He said the other 81 will be referred to possible employers within a month.

The single returned evader from Ohio is a 27-year-old Cleveland area man who worked in Canada. Corey would not disclose his identity. Corey said the man will serve 18 months' civilian service.

Corey remarked that one former deserter earns $24,000 a year in his regular job. In some cases returnees may be able to keep a full-time job while performing alternative service, Corey said.

Clerk enters guilty plea to theft

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A payroll clerk in the Hamilton County auditor's office says paid himself $18,146 in 45 extra paychecks since Jan. 2 because he was not getting paid for 60 hours overtime each week.

Charles Hunninghake, 38, who was convicted of embezzlement of $2,000 from a Cincinnati bank in 1962, pleaded guilty to embezzlement and theft charges in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Wednesday.

The 12-year employe said he was forced to work as payroll clerk for all county officers and director of the new data processing operation in the auditor's office.

"I didn't mean to steal the money the way it looks. I actually worked for it," Hunninghake told the court. He gave the prosecutor a check for the missing amount at the same time.

"It is a tragedy that with your work record you would take money that didn't belong to you," said Judge Robert Black.

Sentence was deferred for a probation investigation and a pre-sentence hearing to be scheduled later.

Conviction, under Ohio law, calls for a minimum sentence of one year in jail and a maximum of 10, court officials said.

Hunninghake had received a two-year probationary sentence from U.S. District Court in 1962 after pleading guilty to a $2,000 embezzlement at the First National Bank, where he worked as a teller.

Corn harvesting ahead of schedule

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harvest of the battered 1974 corn crop edged near the half-way mark last weekend, ahead of the normal schedule for this time of year, says the Agriculture Department.

A new corn production estimate will be issued by USDA Nov. 10 based on field surveys the first of the month. The report also will include updated estimates for soybeans, wheat and other major crops.

Meantime, the department said Wednesday in a weekly weather report that the corn harvest nationally was about 49 per cent completed as of Oct. 27. That was slightly ahead of 46 per cent normally harvested by that date.

Corn harvesting in the Corn Belt states was 45 per cent finished, ranging from about 19 per cent completed in Michigan to 86 per cent in South Dakota.

The soybean harvest was estimated at 61 per cent done by Oct. 27, ahead of normal but trailing the 1973 pace. About 78 per cent of the Corn Belt crop was harvested, compared with 81 per cent last year and the historical average of 75 per cent, the report said.

Officials said rain last week in the southern Plains delayed the windup of winter wheat planting but that the moisture helped the crop that was planted. The wheat was in "mostly good" condition in Texas and Oklahoma, the report said.

But in Kansas the moisture supply has been spotty, meaning that winter wheat condition is showing "considerable variation," the report said. Dry conditions still prevailed in much of the northern Plains and Pacific Northwest.

Lions to entertain Miami Trace

By LARRY WATTS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Miami Trace will be invading Gardner Park Stadium this Friday and Washington Court House coach Maurice Pfeifer, who is in his 10th year at the helm of the Blue Lions, rates this year's edition of the Panthers as the most aggressive Miami Trace team he has ever faced.

This year's Fayette County feud is especially spiced by the possibility of one of the teams sharing the league championship. Both the Lions and Panthers enter the game with 6-2 season marks and 3-1 records in the South Central Ohio League. Circleville is presently leading the SCOL with a 4-1 record and the Tigers conclude their season with Hillsboro this week.

"They (Miami Trace) have a very solid unit," Pfeifer indicated. "The Panthers tend to rely more on physical strength than team quickness."

"Miami Trace's defense is especially strong and they throw a lot of people at you up front," Pfeifer pointed out. "They pressure their opponents into making mistakes. Miami Trace has excellent pursuit on defense because all you see is a big white wave of eight players coming at you all the time."

Pfeifer also felt the Panthers possess an outstanding secondary unit. However, he also added that the Panthers' secondary has not really been tested because of the line's pursuit.

Defensively, Pfeifer is especially impressed by the overall play of defensive end Jay Mossbarger and linebacker Greg Cobb and the pass rush of tackle Ron Warnock. Pfeifer praised Mossbarger and Cobb for their knowledge of the game and their ability to know where the football is at all times.

Pfeifer's defense will be facing the leading quarterback in the league. The Panthers' Tom Riley has completed 35 of 68 passes for 459 yards and has been intercepted three times, all of which occurred in Miami Trace's 42-6 loss to Jackson. Riley is also one of the strongest runners in the league, as he has picked up 450 yards in 102 carries for a 4.41 yard average per carry.

"Basically, I do not think Riley is that good of a passer," Pfeifer noted. "However, every time he throws the ball, it is usually on the money and he seldom puts the ball up for grabs. He is definitely a big threat in running the ball.

When Riley goes to the air, Mossbarger and Jeff Smithson are considered to be his top choices. Pfeifer feels that Mossbarger is the most dependable among Riley's receiving corps. Mossbarger has caught five conversion passes and one touchdown aerial this season.

Offensive punch in the running game is generally provided by fullback Jeff Sagar and halfback Rex Coe, Sagar has produced 768 yards in 129 carries and has accounted for 76 points. Coe, a sophomore, has been coming on strong in recent weeks and has now picked up 223 yards in 40 carries. In four league games, Coe is averaging 5.58 yards per carry.

"Sagar is a very competitive back," Pfeifer said. "He is the type of runner who gains most of his yardage by running on desire."

"As far as Coe is concerned, I have been very impressed with the way he has progressed," Pfeifer added. "He possesses the good speed they needed since Miami Trace lost Tom Pfaff at the beginning of the year."

When the two squads take the field, the Panthers' offense will be holding a weight advantage of 14 pounds per player over the defense of Washington. Court House's offense will be yielding nearly seven pounds per player to Miami Trace's defense.

Washington is presently recovering from a 35-0 shelling by Circleville last week. Not only did the loss break a four-game winning streak on the year, but it also broke a 10-game winning streak in league play and represented the first time since a 16-0 loss to Wilmington in 1966 that the Lions have been held scoreless.

One of the major concerns for Pfeifer and his staff has been lack of offensive consistency from the Lions. In the Circleville loss, Washington ran a total of 40 plays in comparison to 67 plays for the Tigers.

Although Miami Trace only lost 14-12 to the Tigers, there is not really that much difference between the two schools. Washington's offense has been averaging nearly 12 points per game, while the defense has been holding the opponents to approximately 7.5 points per contest. The Panthers' offense has collected an average of 18 points each game and the defense has yielded an average of eight points per game.

No players of the week were selected for the Blue Lions in the Circleville loss.

Last year, the Lions bested the Panthers 36-12 to stretch their edge in the 13-game series to 7-5-1. Pfeifer's coaching record against Miami Trace is 5-4.

Neither team can afford to tie in this week's contest. With Circleville being such an overwhelming favorite to win its game with Hillsboro, the winner of the Fayette County clash also needs a victory in their final game to tie for the championship.

"We are not looking for any surprises this Friday," Pfeifer concluded. "Miami Trace coach Fred Zechman will probably go with what he has been doing all year because it has been working so well for him."

Fayette teams vie for SCOL crown

By LARRY WATTS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

With a possible tie for the South Central Ohio League championship and several individual honors at stake, this year's Fayette County clash at Gardner Park Stadium has plenty to offer the local football fan.

Foremost in the thoughts of the Panthers and Lions is the battle for the SCOL crown. Presently, Circleville is leading the league with a 4-1 record, but the Tigers are playing their final league match of the season with Hillsboro this week. In addition to this week's inter-county rivalry match, the Lions and Panthers, who are tied for second place with 3-1 marks, have one game remaining in the league.

With Circleville practically assured of a victory over the Indians, the Panthers and Lions can not afford a tie this week. Whoever wins this week's game must also win their league game next week to tie for the crown.

As both Miami Trace coach Fred Zechman and Washington coach Maurice Pfeifer indicated during summer workouts, it would not be a surprise to find two teams tied for the league crown because of balance in this year's league race. The last time two teams tied for the league crown was in 1963 when Circleville and Wilmington turned the trick.

Court House is hoping to clinch its second consecutive league title this year. As the 47th gridiron campaign in the SCOL slowly winds itself to a conclusion, the Lions have already captured 13 league titles. Should Washington win a title share, it would mark the fifth time in the team's history that the Lions have won back-to-back crowns.

Miami Trace has only won the SCOL crown once in its 13-year history. The Panthers clinched the title in 1971 when they went 10-0.

With last year's 36-12 victory, Washington holds a 7-5-1 edge in the series. Despite the intensity of this series, other than the 6-6 tie in 1962, only three times has the difference in the final score been eight points or less.

This will be the 10th year for Pfeifer to direct the Lions in this feud. The Lion mentor owns a 5-4 record against the Panthers.

In addition to not having won on their own field in this game since 1970, Washington has been bothered by an unusual home field hex this season. In compiling a 6-2 mark for the season, both of Washington's losses have been on their own field.

Zechman is hoping Miami Trace can break a bad habit in this game. The Panthers, also 6-2 for the year, have lost every third game. This is the ninth game of the Panthers' gridiron campaign.

Finding a victory on the Lions' field has also been a problem for Miami Trace. In their last trip to Gardner Park, the Panthers dealt the Lions a 40-20 defeat in 1972. This was Miami Trace's first win in six trips to the Lions' den.

Last year's graduation took 20 seniors, 15 of which were three-year lettermen, from the Lions. Returning for Washington are nine lettermen, four of which were selected to first team or honorable mention All-SCOL. With halfback Tom Pfaff sidelined, the Panthers have 12 returning lettermen, eight of which were chosen to first team or honorable mention All-SCOL honors.

Washington and Miami Trace sport two of the finest defenses in the league. The Lions' defense has given up 7.5 points per game this year and has yielded under six points per game in their last 18 contests. The Panthers have been giving up nearly eight points per game this season.

Both coaches indicated that their teams needed to establish some type of offensive consistency this week. Washington and Miami Trace each found themselves on the short end of the stick in offensive plays last week.

With the offense only running three plays in the first 13 minutes against Circleville, the Lions' defense must have felt as though it already had played an entire game when it went into the locker room at halftime. When the game had concluded, the Lions had a total of 40 offensive plays and the Tigers ran 67.

There is a slight difference in the scoring average for the two squads. The Panthers are averaging 18 points per contest, while the Lions are scoring approximately 12 points per game.

For the first time this season, the Panthers found themselves running fewer offensive plays than their opponent. However, Miami Trace was a little more fortunate than the Lions, as the Panthers defeated Greenfield 16-0.

This week's game could also decide who will be this year's quarterback on the All-SCOL team. Miami Trace's Tom Riley and Washington's Jeff Brown have been leading the league in the best completion average for most of the season.

In eight games, Riley has thrown 68 passes, completed 35 and had three intercepted. He has completed 51.5 of all his passes for 459 yards. In four league games, the Panther quarterback has tossed 36 aerials, connected on 20 and has no interceptions. He has completed 55.5 per cent of his passes in the SCOL for 291 yards.

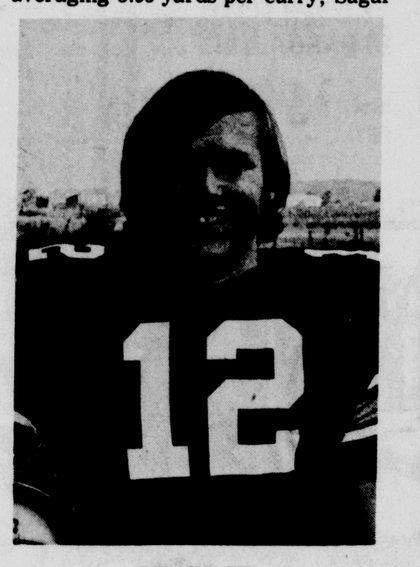

In his eight games this season, Brown has thrown 70 passes, completed 31 and had six aerials picked off. He has completed 44.3 per cent of his passes for 526 yards. In the four league contests, Brown has connected on 18 of 42 passes and has had three intercepted. In completing 42.9 per cent of his league passes, Brown has accumulated 303 yards.

Both quarterbacks are a threat in running the ball. Riley has carried the ball 102 times for 450 yards and has scored 46 points. Brown has picked up 147 yards in 71 carries and has scored 28 points.

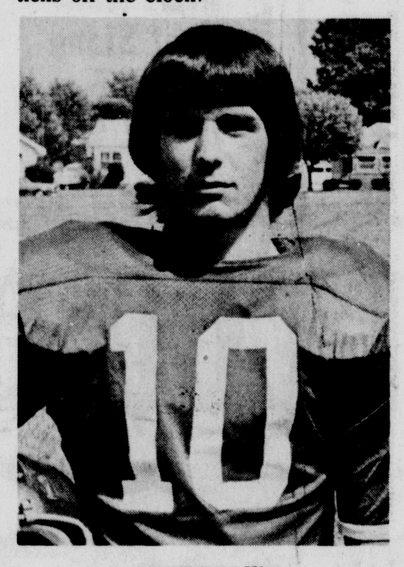

Court House's rushing attack has been spurting this season. The top ground gainer for the Lions is sophomore Leroy Wilson with only 331 yards in 120 carries. Wilson has been averaging 2.76 yards per carry.

Fullback Jeff Sagar is hoping to close out his career with a 1,000-yard year. In 129 carries, the Panther senior has picked up 768 yards and 76 points. In averaging 5.95 yards per carry, Sagar needs 232 yards in his final two games to reach the 1,000-yard plateau.

Whatever the outcome of this Friday's game, each team will start mentally preparing itself for next year's contest when the final second ticks off the clock.

Three new leaders in ratings

But one of them was Canton McKinley, hardly a newcomer among large school football powers in Ohio. The 8-0-0 Bulldogs, twice a state poll champion, moved in front in Class AAA Region 3.

McKinley moved all the way from fifth place a week ago to nudge New Philadelphia for the lead.

However, the Canton school faces a major obstacle to its No. 1 spot this week. McKinley will play Warren Harding, the Class AAA Region 1 pacesetter, Friday night.

The other new frontrunners were Louisville Aquinas, taking over the top spot from Ironton in Class AA Region 7, and Fremont St. Joseph, replacing Montpelier for the lead in Class A Region 10.

Meanwhile, the holdover leaders included Upper Arlington and Cincinnati Elder in Class AAA, Wellington, Norwalk and Dayton Jefferson in Class AA and Windham, Newark Catholic and Middletown Fenwick in Class A.

The leaders in each region will qualify for the Ohio semifinals Nov. 15-16.

Both Miami Trace and Washington Court House tumbled in the computer ratings. Despite their 16-0 win over Greenfield, the Panthers fell from 18th to 21st in Region 4 of Class AAA. With the 35-0 loss to Circleville, the Lions dropped from 11th to 13th.

Wilmington, Circleville and Hillsboro moved up in the polls. In Region 4, the Hurricanes went from 52nd to 50th. The Tigers jumped from 14th to 10th and the Indians moved from 42nd to 41st in Region 8 of Class AA.

In Region 12 of Class A, Unioto remained at 20th. Also in Region 8, Greenfield fell from 12th to 14th.

Cleveland Crusaders game conceled

CLEVELAND (AP)—The grand opening of Nick Mileti's $28 million ice palace melted for the second time in four days Wednesday night.

The Cleveland Crusaders tried to open their 1974 World Hockey Association season in their new home—The Coliseum—but finally told an estimated 8,000 to 9,000 fans after 90 minutes that the ice was not properly prepared, and the game with the Minnesota Fighting Saints was canceled.

Fish fry scheduled

Washington Athletic Facilities Corporation (WAFCO) and Washington football boosters club will be sponsoring their 16th annual fish-fry prior to the Washington Court House-Miami Trace game, Friday evening.

The fish fry will be held right behind the field house at Gardner Park Stadium. Serving will begin at 4 p.m. and last until kickoff. The serving will also resume for a brief time after the game.

Tickets for the fish fry are $1.50 and an advance sale of tickets is presently being conducted at Mutt's, Risch's and Downtown Drug. The menu will consist of fish or ham sandwiches, cole slaw, baked beans, homemade pie and coffee or milk.

Proceeds from the dinner will be split between WAFCO and the boosters club. WAFCO provided the new lighting system for the field and also pays the expenses for the maintenance of the stadium. The boosters purchase the meals for the team members prior to each game and also buy training equipment for the squad. The boosters organization spends approximately $4,000 annually on the football team.

Counseling job ranges from pulpit to gridiron

By NORM CLARKE
AP Sports Writer

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — His parishioners understand when the Rev. Richard Connelly is missing from the pulpit every Sunday during the National Football League season. He feels football players need love too.

"Football players have their problems too. I let them lean on me," said the 65-year-old priest who has spent 19 years on the sidelines with the Cleveland Browns and Cincinnati Bengals.

"I cheer with them in their triumphs and die with them in their defeats," said the priest.

"It's a counseling job. The players want to talk to someone who isn't in a uniform."

The pastor of the St. Colman Catholic Church in Washington Court House, Ohio, Rev. Connelly drives 75 miles every Sunday to assume his station on the Bengals bench.

"I hold mass on every road trip and attend services held by those who aren't Catholic. They know I'm always there to fill in if they ever need me," said the gentle, gray-haired man.

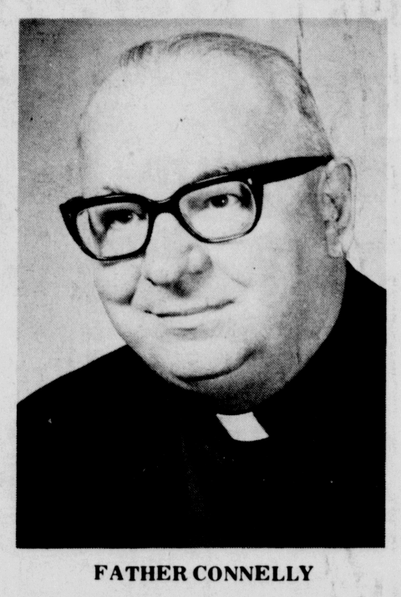

"We don't pray for victory— just to do our best," he said.

"I've been with Paul from the start. I've been at his side during the greatest moments— when the Browns won the NFL in their first season and his worst. That was when Brown's wife, Katie, died," explained the Rev. Connelly.

"He's a leader . . . a perfectionist," said the pastor. "Paul holds it all inside him, but I cheer with the boys. So many of them need encouragement. One's religion doesn't matter. Paul is an Episcopalian," he added.

"Horst Muhlmann (Bengals kicking specialist) is up and down with every kick. You've got to be there to give him a pat when he misses. The specialists feel they have to come through every time or they feel they let the team down."

FATHER CONNELLY

"Lou was a member of my parish in Martin's Ferry when he was in high school. After he joined the Browns he invited me up and introduced me to Paul.

"I was with him from 1946 until 1962 when he left the Browns. When he decided to return to football in 1968, I asked him if I could join him," recalled the Rev. Connelly, a gridder, himself, in his high school days.

"It's been the matinee of my life. A great experience. I have many beautiful stories inside me, but they were told in confidence. And that restricts me from sharing them," he said.

He said Groza has expressed an interest in teaming up to write a book on their football experiences.

The title?

"I suggested 'The Collar and The Toe,' " he chuckled. "Lou said 'no, I want top billing.' "

Hunter captures Cy Young Award

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Being selected as the top pitcher in the American League by winning the Cy Young Award hasn't eliminated Catfish Hunter's troubles with his boss, Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley.

Hunter insisted in a telephone interview from his home in Hertford, N.C., after his Cy Young Award selection that Finley "still owes me $50,000 on this year's contract."

Asked about this and the possibility he might claim free agent status, Hunter said that and the salary matter would be discussed at a meeting between his attorneys, Marvin Miller of the Players Association and Bowie Kuhn, commissioner of baseball.

"They're going to decide what's going to happen on that,"Hunter said.

When Finley was asked about the dispute, he declined comment. "Why ruin a great day for Hunter," he said. Finley said he was "very proud and happy" for Hunter whom he described as "one of the finest gentlemen in the game."

The 28-year-old North Carolinian appeared mildly surprised at his winning the Cy Young Award over Ferguson Jenkins of the Texas Rangers, who received 75 points from a 24-member panel of the Baseball Writers Association of America to 90 for Hunter.

Hunter said he learned of his selection Wednesday afternoon when his wife told him after he returned from a fruitless deer hunt.

"I thought Ferguson Jenkins might get it instead of me," Hunter said. He pointed out that both of them had 25 victories last season and that Oakland had won the World Series.

"His team was not as good; so he had to pitch a little better, maybe," Hunter said.

Hunter agreed that the Cy Young Award was the greatest honor to come to him during his 10-year career in the majors.

"I think when a pitcher comes into baseball the first thing he wants to do is win 20 games, the second is to win a World Series and the third is to win the Cy Young award," he said.

Hunter was the only pitcher named on each of the 24 ballots, and he received 12 first place votes to 10 for Jenkins.

The California Angels' Nolan Ryan came in third with 28 points and one first place vote. Cleveland's Gaylord Perry got the other first place vote and tied with Luis Tiant of Boston with eight points. Baltimore's Mike Cuellar had six and reliever John Hiller of the Detroit Tigers had one.

Last year's AL Cy Young winner was Jim Palmer of Baltimore, who did not receive a single vote this time. Hunter, who was signed by Finley in 1964, had his best major league season with a 25-12 record this year. It was his fourth consecutive 20-victory season.

Ex-baseball player

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — James C. Shevlin, one-time major league baseball player and longtime operator of a Cincinnati restaurant patronized by professional athletes, will be buried Saturday at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Bengals face NFL drug probe

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Wayne Clark has no fear of lightning striking twice. "Believe me, this is not another San Diego."

The Cincinnati Bengals backup quarterback says the club has "nothing to fear" from a drug investigation being launched by the National Football League.

The probe was announced Wednesday as "a routine procedure" in wake of the arrest of third string Bengals quarterback Mike Ernst. He was apprehended here early Monday and charged with possession of a narcotic.

Clark was with the San Diego Chargers just before the worst drug scandal in NFL history broke into the open.

Clark had wanted out.

He demanded to be traded or he threatened to retire.

"This is a different bunch of people," said Clark, who was acquired by the Bengals last winter.

"Maybe I'm naive, but I just can't see it here. I'd like to think the Bengals are a little more selective about the people they have playing for them," he said.

The NFL office said Wednesday it has assigned a private investigator to provide a complete report. This is one of the first such NFL investigations since the San Diego probe. That resulted in a $20,000 penalty for the club and fines of $3,000 to $1,000 for eight players.

Clark said he's convinced the Ernst incident is "an isolated case. The Bengals (management) should welcome the investigation. We have nothing to hide...nothing to fear."

Clark said he approved of Coach Paul Brown's decision to waive Ernst, but with mixed feelings.

"It was decisive and couldn't have been more emphatic. It should serve as a deterrent," he said.

"But, I was sorry to see it in a way. I wonder if a regular would have been waived that quickly."

Brown could not be reached for comment Wednesday night.

A NFL spokesman said investigating action follows "any violation of law" by a member of the league. "Our security department even checks out rumors of players betting or anonymous letters."

Police said Ernst, 24, had a vial of cocaine in his possession and was seen measuring out a portion of the drug.

Clark said he was "shocked" when he heard of Ernst's arrest.

"I still don't believe Mike was a real user. It could have been a first time thing. I think the whole team feels that we have to wait and see. Don't make too much out of this," he said.

Hawks top Pistons

By The Associated Press

Playing with an extremely painful right arm Wednesday night, Atlanta's Lou Hudson led a fourth-quarter blast that powered the Hawks to a 104-96 victory over the Detroit Pistons.

Hudson, suffering from calcium deposits and inflammation in his arm, reacted to the challenge of the moment.

"It's the excitement of playing," said Hudson, explaining how he rose above exquisite pain. "You get that extra little energy, that extra little burst. Right now I don't think I can shoot the basketball 10 feet. Tonight it's going to kill me."

Hudson hit on an 18-foot jumper to put Atlanta ahead 88-87 with 4:50 remaining and added 10 more points before the final buzzer to keep the Hawks ahead.

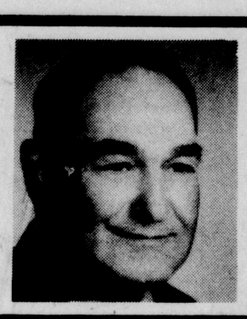

Detroit was ahead 86-77 four minutes into the final period. Then the Hawks outscored them 15-2 in the next five minutes, including the go-ahead field goal.

In the night's other NBA games, the Chicago Bulls defeated the Boston Celtics 105-104; the Kansas City-Omaha Kings whipped the Milwaukee Bucks 99-97; the Washington Bullets trimmed the New York Knicks 94-86; the Phoenix Suns tripped the Philadelphia 76ers 104-99; the Houston Rockets ripped the Houston Rockets 113-100 and the Seattle SuperSonics walloped the Los Angeles Lakers 117-97.

New York Rangers tie

Glenn endorses McDonald

Glenn noted that during his campaign people all over Ohio have stressed their concerns for integrity and leadership in Ohio and said that "The residents of the 17th Ohio Senate District have such a person in Grant McDonald. He has the right qualifications and the right record of community service."

McDonald, 54, is a Ross County commissioner and the first vice president of the County Commissioners of Ohio.

McDonald has been a township trustee for 12 years and served on the state board of directors for Ohio Township Trustees and Clerks. He has also been the president of the Ross County United Fund drive for three terms.

The candidate resides at Rt. 3, Chillicothe with his wife, Betty, and their 10 children.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
3 ♣	Pass	4 ♠	5 ♦
5 ♠	6 ♦	6 ♠	Pass
Pass	Dble

Opening lead — five of clubs.

The most critical challenge for bridge players — good, bad or indifferent — is the opening lead. Ordinarily, more points are lost on the opening lead than at any other stage of the play, and, occasionally, the loss is phenomenal.

Consider this deal from a team of four championship. At the first table, South got to six spades doubled on the bidding shown and West had to choose an opening lead.

According to a convention East-West were using, East's double indicated one defensive trick. Had he held two defensive tricks, East would have passed, and had he held no defensive tricks he would have felt obligated to bid seven diamonds as a sacrifice.

West decided he also had a defensive trick — though he realized this was less than certain — and he accepted East's double by passing.

But then, unfortunately, he led a club, basing his lead on the hope that East had either the ace of clubs or ace of spades. East had neither, so South made the slam because of the opening lead.

Not only that, but — to add insult to injury — declarer made an overtrick, discarding all five hearts on dummy's clubs. Score — 1,860 points.

North	East	South	West
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♠	4 ♦
4 ♠	5 ♦	5 ♠	Pass
Pass	6 ♦	6 ♠	Pass
Pass	Dble

Here West concluded that the enemy were evidently well heeled in spades and clubs, and accordingly he led the seven of hearts. This lead struck gold. East took the ace, returned a heart, and his team racked up a gain of 2,060 points on one deal. It just goes to show you!

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Baldness and Heredity

Everyone in my family is affected with baldness after 25. I have tried massages and scalp treatments, but the hair still gets thinner and thinner. So what's new?

Mr. A.T.R., Ill.

Dear Mr. R.:

Early baldness is known to be "familial." This hereditary tendency to marked thinning of the hair occurs mostly in men, of course. But occasionally it is seen in women, too.

Hair transplanting done by those doctors specially trained in the delicate technique has been remarkably effective in many cases.

The newer knowledge of the growth of hair, and the understanding of how hair varies in different parts of the body, is leading to new research on baldness.

Dr. Norman Orentreich, in New York City, who introduced the concept of hair transplants almost a quarter of a century ago, now believes that locally applied drugs and hormones may eventually be the answer to the distressing problem of premature male baldness or pattern baldness.

I am a pretty good drinker. I'm beginning to worry about my liver. Can any doctor perform tests to show if my liver is functioning properly?

Mr. T.D.E., Ky.

Dear Mr. E.:

It is sad when they learn too late that their excessive drinking has done irreparable damage to their liver.

Liver function tests are very accurate. Studies of the blood show the presence of special enzymes associated with liver disorders.

Dozens of complicated tests are included in the liver profile which yield valuable information about the normal or abnormal functioning of this vital organ.

All doctors have at their disposal laboratories and hospital facilities where such surveys can be made. There are now many X-ray scanning devices which can add knowledge as to the state of the liver.

By all means, have these studies done. The results may give you new insight into the value of good health.

Sheriff quits in protest

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio (AP)— Gallia County commissioners have assured resigning Sheriff James Saunders his successor will have adequate funds to operate the office for the rest of the year.

Saunders offered his resignation, effective Nov. 8, reportedly because he was unable to obtain the funds he felt were necessary to operate the department properly.

The first-term sheriff was involved in a dispute with the commissioners last year after his funds ran out and they refused to allocate additional money. He blamed rising costs, especially fuel costs for the budget problems.

Saunders submitted his resignation Saturday, after commissioners appropriated an additional $6,000 for compensation of employes and additional supplies.

The Gallia County Republican Central Committee will select a new sheriff by mid-November.

Vo-ed opponent asks new hearing

KENTON, Ohio (AP) — Vocational education opponent E. Dennis Barnes of Upper Sandusky says he will ask the Hardin County Probate Court again to hear his suit aimed at stopping collection of tax money for vocational schools.

Barnes contends that the court has jurisdiction. But the court earlier disagreed. A hearing was set for early next month.

Barnes is attempting to stop collection of taxes which were not voted in Hardin, Allen, Van Wert and Paulding counties.

PROPOSED RATE INCREASE FOR
CITY OF WASHINGTON, OHIO

The Council of the City of Washington, Ohio will conduct a public hearing on December 11, 1974 at 7:30 P.M. in the Conference Room of the City Offices, 208 North Fayette Street, Washington C.H., Ohio.

The purpose of such hearing is to consider a request submitted by Court Cable Company for a rate increase for monthly cable service within the City of Washington, Ohio.

Clerk

Congratulations!

You've just spent $17,852.90.

That's how much a college diploma can cost these days. And it's a pretty heavy commitment for a parent to face.

So how do you put away a buffer that will insure your child has a chance at college? Simple. U.S. Savings Bonds. Buy them through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

If you start now, you'll have a hefty stockpile of Bonds to draw on by the time your child's ready for school.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4½% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen or destroyed. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

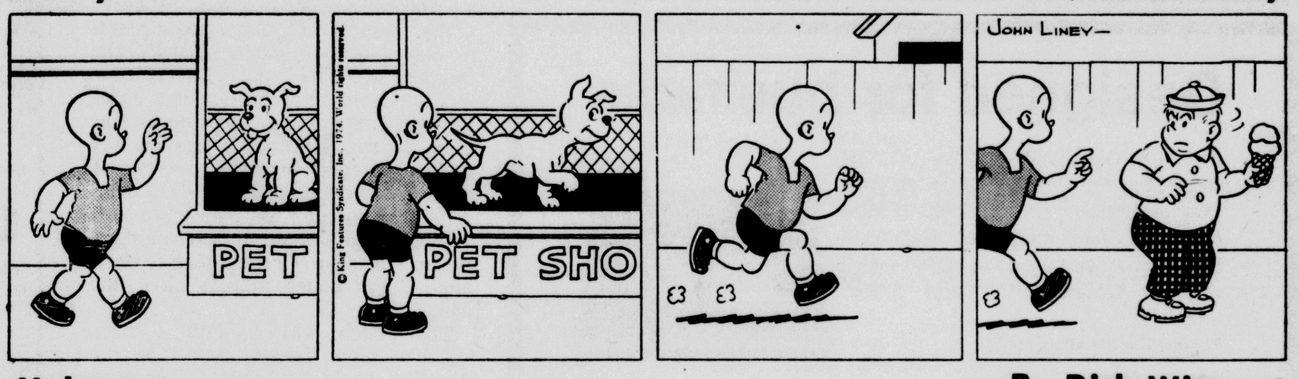

Take stock in America.

Minister probably wouldn't mind if thief kept stolen materials

Everyone knows the Lord works in strange ways and Wednesday was no exception, for a thief may be on the road to reformation because of his crime.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported a briefcase belonging to Joseph N. Andrews, 1884 U.S. 22-SW, was stolen from his car sometime between 4 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, while it was parked in the Seaway parking lot, CCC-Highway-W.

Andrews, who is a minister, told investigating sheriff's deputies the briefcase contained a Bible, some Bible study aids, 24 magazines and his appointment book.

Andrews would undoubtedly like the stolen items back, but would probably allow the thief to keep the Bible if he promised to start reading it and living by the word.

SHERIFF'S DEPUTIES also reported a burglary and the Washington C.H. Police Department investigated two larcenies.

Three rings were reported stolen from the Mary E. Milstead residence in Jeffersonville, sometime between Oct. 12 and Tuesday, sheriff's deputies reported.

Receipts from hunting licenses amounting to $76.50, were stolen from a drawer in the safe at French's Hardward, 152 W. Court St., sometime between Oct. 15 and Wednesday, Washington C.H. police reported.

Ten pair of men's pants were stolen from a car belonging to Ralph Blackwell, 1115 Leesburg Ave., sometime between 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Although Blackwell had driven his car to different places that evening, Washington C.H. police believe the theft to have been committed while his car was parked on East Street in front of Carnegie Library. The pants were valued at $75.

Mrs. Ford likely to stay home

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House spokesman says First Lady Betty Ford probably won't go to Japan with the President.

Mrs. Ford underwent surgery for breast cancer a month ago, and White House physician William Lukash had said he thought it unlikely that she would make the Far Eastern trip.

Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen was asked Wednesday by reporters if the trip had been totally ruled out for Mrs. Ford. He had said she "probably" would not make it.

"I'd just like to leave that word in there," he replied.

Dutch police and Marines rescue hostages in Hague

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — Dutch police and marines fired magnesium grenades early today to temporarily blind four convicts holding 15 persons hostage in a prison chapel, then captured the men and rescued the hostages unharmed.

"Several shots were fired in the air by the marines, but there were no casualties," Police Chief Albert Peijster said.

The operation was over in 15 minutes, officials said.

The hostages, who included two women, were taken to police headquarters and then to their homes. They had been captives since Saturday night, but a police spokesman said they were in "surprisingly good condition."

The four convicts were hurried off to cells. One of them was a 23-year-old Palestinian guerrilla, Adnan Ahmad Nuri, serving a five-year sentence for helping to hijack and burn a British airliner last March. The other three were an Algerian and two Dutchmen, all serving terms for armed robbery.

The convicts had demanded a plane to take them to an undisclosed foreign country and also that Nuri's confederate in the March hijacking, Sami Houssin Tamimah, be allowed to join them. Justice Minister Andries van Agt told a news conference the government never intended to grant the demands.

Peijster and van Agt refused to give details of the rescue at Scheveningen prison "because we may have to do it again." But police sources gave this account:

The police waited until 4 a.m. because they thought some of the convicts would be asleep. Then they hurled magnesium grenades through the chapel windows and at the same time cut the lock on the chapel door with acetylene torches.

The latter process took about 10 seconds. Psychiatrists had advised the police that the noise of the exploding grenades and the glaring light of the burning magnesium would confuse, frighten and blind the convicts for at least that long.
